

Nixon condition called critical

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon went into vascular shock Tuesday afternoon and was listed in critical condition following an operation to stop blood clots threatening his life.

Earlier in the day, Nixon, 61, had been reported as "doing well" and in "stable condition" after an operation of about an hour by five doctors starting at 5:30 a.m. PST at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

Optimistic reports that Nixon was in a normal post-operative condition and his phlebitis arrested by insertion of a clip on a vein in a leg groin continued throughout the day until a new bulletin was released in early evening.

Dr. John Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said at that time that his patient had gone "suddenly into vascular shock."

"A team of physicians and intensive care unit nurses administered counter-shock measures for three hours until a stable vascular condition was once again restored."

The bulletin said the "serious complications" were probably caused by the fact Nixon had been undergoing such extreme anticoagulant therapy that he was subject to excessive bleeding.

"Replacement of blood lost and a relaxation of anticoagulation therapy was instituted," Lungren said.

"At 5 p.m. this afternoon the vascular stability is still maintained. At this time the patient is still considered critical."

The sudden turn for the worse in the condition of the man who resigned the presidency under fire Aug. 9 came after a day in which his doctors had painted a picture of him permanently overcoming blood clots and being released from the hospital by the end of this week.

Pat Nixon was at her husband's side when he came back from the operating room and initial reports had indicated that the plastic clip would stop any floating clots from reaching his heart or lungs.

Lungren had said previously that anyone undergoing major surgery and general anesthetic was taking a risk but decided that an operation was immediately necessary after a test Monday night disclosed a new fresh blood clot in Nixon's thigh which endangered his life.

The team of surgeons performed the operation on an emergency basis, with Nixon's agreement, because of fear the new clot in the left leg above those found before and closer to the vena cava might reach the heart.

"The new clot threatened to become a pulmonary embolus and thus endanger Mr. Nixon's life," Lungren said.

$3.15 a month for 'typical' home

Residents may face hike in water rate

by TOM VON MALDER

Water bills for Buffalo Grove residents will go up $3.15 a month for a typical 6,000-gallon household use, if a new rate system proposed Tuesday night is adopted by the village board.

The rate increase would go into effect Dec. 1 and be reflected in January and February billings, said Village Mgr. Daniel T. Larson. He told members of the village board at a finance committee meeting the increases are needed to make up a projected $140,000 deficit in the water system's emergency repair fund within the next three years.

General Caucus orientation set Monday night

An orientation meeting for the General Caucus of Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 will be at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the administration building, 999 Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

Jack Lane, board president, will discuss the responsibilities of school board members.

Delegates and alternates to the caucus from community organizations also will be informed of their roles in seeking and endorsing school board candidates for the April election.

Citizens interested in serving on the caucus as a delegate-at-large may be nominated for election to the caucus at the Nov. 18 business meeting. Delegates-at-large must be nominated by a registered voter in Dist. 21 and will be elected into the caucus by the delegates of community organizations.

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong called the proposed increase "unpleasant but necessary." The full village board is expected to vote on the matter in mid-November.

EVEN WITHOUT the boost in rates, Buffalo Grove water rates are higher than in other nearby suburbs.

The proposed increases include both a higher cost for water and changes in the bases for computing the cost. The proposal calls for a 5,000-gallon minimum monthly bill of $7.50 rather than the existing 3,000-gallon minimum monthly bill of $3.

Those who use more water would pay $1.20 per 1,000 gallons for any water over 5,000 gallons and no more than 30,000 gallons. Water use exceeding 30,000 gallons — primarily applicable to industrial and school use — would be 90 cents per 1,000 gallons.

The current billing system charges 85 cents per 1,000 gallons above the 3,000-gallon minimum up to 17,000 gallons over which the cost per 1,000 gallons drops to 65 cents.

The new rates are expected to produce surpluses of $32,000 in fiscal 1976 and $13,000 in fiscal 1977. The remainder of the deficit would be made up the third year.

LARSON SAID the increase is in line with increases granted over the past several years to other utilities, such as electricity and telephone. He said the added revenue will be about $8,000 to $9,000 a month.

Larson said Buffalo Grove's water rates currently are higher than those charged by other nearby suburbs. "We are the youngest town with the highest water rate," he said. He added that Hoffman Estates and Elk Grove Village water rates are close to Buffalo Grove's but neither village has an emergency reserve fund for its water system nor large debt interest, as does Buffalo Grove.

Village Administrative Asst. William Balling said the increased rates would first go into effect on what are usually the lowest water bills of the year as water use is not as great in the winter. This prompted Armstrong to remark, "A lot of people will be out catching snow at these rates."

"LEAF ME ALONE!" says 13-month-old Marnie Harrison, who was busy getting her first look at fall while her father, Douglas, picks up behind her.

'Jealousy is behind fire protest'

A special fire committee in Buffalo Grove charged Tuesday night that "petty jealousy" is behind the Long Grove Rural Fire Protection District's objection to removing the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove from its service area.

Trustee Edward Osmon, chairman of the committee, said in an open letter read at the village board meeting: "It is unfortunate that an attitude of cooperation which should exist between departments in adjoining communities is instead marred by grievances and petty jealousies of certain individuals."

Buffalo Grove officials are hoping to conduct a referendum which, if passed, would remove the Lake County portion of the village from the Long Grove district and place it in the Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District, which serves the Cook County portion of the village. Village officials say service by a single district will make it easier to eventually form a municipal department.

A REFERENDUM DATE was postponed indefinitely Friday when the Long Grove district asked the Cook County Circuit Court to dismiss Buffalo Grove's request to sponsor a referendum, saying it would be "unconstitutional."

Long Grove district trustee Anton Berg has said his district has no objection to losing the Lake County Buffalo Grove area if Buffalo Grove forms a municipal department, but does not want to lose the area to the Wheeling district.

Osmon said: "Mr. Berg's displeasure with the Wheeling Fire Protection District is of paramount importance. Petty feuds have no place in such an issue, especially where substantial sums of taxpayers' money is involved."

Village Atty. Richard Raysa said Tuesday night attorneys for the Long Grove district told him they will not object to the disannexation if the Wheeling district allows them to have the next two years of tax money, amounting to about $100,000.

BERG, WHEN CONTACTED the The Herald Monday, denied such a deal had been proposed.

Circuit Court Judge Harry G. Comerford has ordered the Long Grove district to present arguments on its objections to the referendum. Raysa will be allowed to present counter arguments before the Nov. 23 hearing.

Apathy, inflation vote keys

by JOE SWICKARD

Philip M. Crane and Betty Spence agreed in a debate Tuesday that the two major issues in the election are inflation and the possibility of massive voter apathy.

The candidates for the seat in the 12th Congressional district met in a debate sponsored by the National Assn. of Letter Carriers at Miner Junior High School in Arlington Heights. The audience of about 50 persons seemed evenly divided between backers of Crane, the Republican incumbent, and Mrs. Spence, his Democratic challenger.

Crane, after noting a Democratic control of the federal legislature, said inflation was the result of "printing press money" being used by Congress to buy votes with the voters' "own money."

"Politicians have learned, unfortunately, that spending is short-term good politics," he said.

LABELING INFLATION as "indirect taxation," Crane charged it was the result of Congress giving in to "special interest groups" by funding their projects through deficit finances.

"If Congress doesn't change its practice of spending in the next five years it can lead to the ruin of this country's economy," he said. "We are threatening the destruction of all our institutions."

Mrs. Spence said that after many meetings and recommendations "... nothing has been done" in Washington to curb inflation.

She attacked President Gerald Ford's 5 per cent surtax proposal as taking from the people and giving to big industry.

The middle-class citizen, she said, is already carrying his fair share of taxes and "We in the 12th District can't afford the surtax."

AS PART OF A program to stem inflation, she proposed vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws, a balanced federal budget and a tight rein on defense spending.

She further proposed a "short-term" program of public employment, oil price rollbacks and full crop production by farmers.

Crane hit reports that up to 70 per cent of the electorate would stay at home during the election. He said it would be "catastrophic" if these reports are borne out next Tuesday.

He acknowledged that people do have reason for feeling "betrayed" by recent scandals, but said scandals have been a part of the political system throughout history at all levels. He cited corruption from Wheeling to Watergate as "unfortunate" examples of public misconduct.

MRS. SPENCE ALSO said people "have reason to feel betrayed" and public officials must work to overcome "... the total and complete lack of trust" in them.

Crane defended his recent vote against a child-abuse protection law because it would "run the risk of preempting the traditional parent-child relationship" and could "give" children over to the federal government.

Mrs. Spence said federal child-abuse legislation was necessary to prevent a recurrence of incidents such as the beating death of Johnny Lindquist of Chicago.

Osburn faces 2nd charge in month

A Mount Prospect man charged with illegal possession of explosives last month and out on bond pending his trial was arrested again Monday on an illegal weapons charge. Elk Grove Village police said the man, Larry Osburn, 27, of 804 Elm St., was stopped near Ill. Rte. 83 and Oakton Street Monday after his car was seen speeding by an Elk Grove patrolman. Police said they found illegal "fighting sticks," a 10-inch knife, a revolver and a tear-gas gun in his car. Osburn was charged last month after a small arsenal of guns, bombs and ammunition was found in his car during a traffic stop in the same area.

Bus driver reprimanded

A Cook County School Bus Inc. driver has been reprimanded for driving a busload of Mount Prospect students across the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks last Thursday while the crossing gates were down. "He did something wrong," said E. Zimmerman, bus company manager. The disciplinary action against the driver by the company came after complaints from parents to school officials and police.

Arlington apartments to be cut

The Richards Group of Illinois apparently will have to cut in half the number of apartments planned for the Arlington Park Race Track property if it expects the Village of Arlington Heights to approve the project. A special village committee voted unanimously Tuesday night to recommend that normal density restrictions apply and that a maximum of 2,700 housing units instead of the proposed 5,000 be built.

Order Kusper's name off ballot

A U. S. District Court judge ordered the name of County Clerk Stanley Kusper deleted from the bottom of 10,000 voting information posters to be placed in polling places Nov. 5. The order was issued Tuesday by Judge Joseph Sam Perry in a suit filed by Kusper's Republican opponent, Lola Flamm.

4 area men survive bus crash

Four local men are among survivors of a bus accident Saturday in Israel in which three fellow skindivers were killed. Steven Fox of Des Plaines and Ed Turney, Bill Schmoldt and Greg Schutt, all of Mount Prospect, survived the crash. All four are members of the International Divers Assn. on an expedition in the Mideast.

Car hits Police Chief Doney

Police Chief Ralph J. Doney of Mount Prospect suffered minor injuries Tuesday when he was struck by a car while walking through a parking lot. The driver who had the misfortune to hit him, Richard C. Crandall, 42, of Palatine, was charged with backing in an unsafe manner.

Clergymen ask vacation switch

Clergymen from Des Plaines and Park Ridge are asking Maine Township High School Dist. 207 not to schedule spring vacation the week before Easter. "Selling a spring vacation during this time tends to play down the importance of the church in our society," the clergymen said in a letter to school officials.

Addison shooting investigated

Police in Addison and Cicero are investigating the shooting of an Addison man who was treated early Tuesday at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. The man, Arthur Pechen, 25, was taken to the hospital by Elk Grove Village Police, who stopped the car in which he was riding for a traffic violation. Pechen told them he was shot in the hip by a robber in the driveway of his home.

3 youths charged in holdup

Three youths, two of them juveniles, were charged with robbery Tuesday in a Wheeling holdup Monday night that netted the robbers more than $1,400. Two employees of Mark Drugs were held up as they carried the day's receipts from the pharmacy across the adjacent parking lot to the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank. Steve B. Dembowski, 17, of Glenview, will be arraigned today. Two juveniles also charged in the robbery have been sent to the Juvenile Home.

Ali KO's Foreman in 8th for title

KINSHASA, Zaire (UPI) — Muhammad Ali, still proclaimed "People's champion," proved it Tuesday night with a stunning eighth round knockout of George Foreman, which regained for Ali the world heavyweight title.

Superbly conditioned, he had a battle plan which began six months ago. He would psyche George Foreman and beat him. He never ran. He never did anything but dare Foreman to hit him. He leaned against the ropes, fending off all manner of punches.

Ali slipped around them and, when he desired, would suddenly come off the ropes and fire a series of jabs into Foreman's face, finishing the fight in the eighth round after Ali had apparently decided to rest a bit and pace himself.

BY THIS TIME he could casually defend himself. Suddenly he sprang from the corner with a picture-perfect left and right combination, sending Foreman reeling. The champion grabbed for the rope, fell on his side and rolled over on his back.

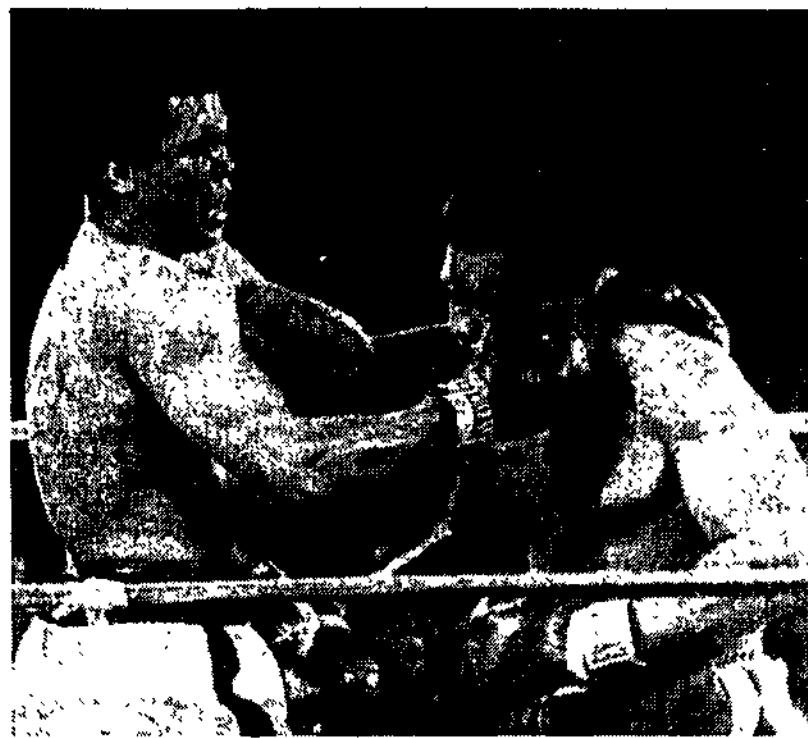

Referee Zach Clayton picked up the count and it was not until nine that Foreman was desperately trying to regain his feet. The knockout was clean, decisive, conclusive.

The knockout came at 2:58 of the eighth round.

The bout began with a fury rarely matched in savagery to anything ever seen in the former Congo. The two men went at each other, with Ali deliberately heading into Foreman's power. He took what Foreman had to throw and again Ali walked on the ropes. Ali moved from corner to corner and his jab was even then making Foreman blink.

The crowd of 50,000 immediately responded between rounds when Ali asked them to chant.

IN THE SECOND Ali came out flat-footed and began shooting a series of jabs. Then he went back to rest on the ropes and inviting Foreman to punch away.

The third was more of the same and then Ali began. It was time to slug it out once again. He connected with three, then four, rapid jabs in succession. When he stepped back Foreman lunged forward, and now the champion was getting rattled. He started to throw punches the way he used to, in roundhouse fashion, instead of straight ahead, the way he did when he knocked out Joe Frazier in two rounds to win the title in January of 1973.

One could sense in the fourth that Ali felt he had it won. He peppered Foreman with left jabs and right and then rested in Foreman's corner while George hit away at him. Ali grabbed George and then yelled over Foreman's shoulder to trainer Dick Sadler, "be quiet."

It was now the fifth round and the first time since October of 1971 that Foreman had had to go beyond four. He came out swinging wildly and Ali spent the entire round resting on the ropes, moving along them, tying up Foreman when necessary, and scarcely throwing a punch. It was a crazy but also a crafty exhibition on Ali's part. When the bell rang, Foreman was all but exhausted.

Foreman tried to rush out to start the sixth, but Ali had anticipated the move and ran directly into him. The impact halted Foreman and Ali sent a rat-a-tat of jabs bouncing off Foreman's puffy face. He then again practically reclined on the ropes and talked, and talked, away at Foreman — psychological jabs it seemed.

In the seventh, with the crowd in absolute frenzy with glee at the performance of a man who has become a national figure, Ali disdainfully flicked off the lumbering, powerless, blows Foreman was now throwing.

DICK SADLER and Archie Moore worked frantically on their man in the corner but it was obvious, even on their faces that all was lost.

And so to the eventful eighth round. All was in excellent voice after the fight and a bloodshot right eye and a little puffiness around the cheek were the only souvenirs he had to show for the 24 minutes he was in the ring.

Ali said that he talked to Foreman from time to time during the bout.

"I kept telling him he has no power," Ali said. "They said he was too powerful, too strong. Hah."

"Regardless of all the pressure and everything else, I made it an easy night."

Then, in one of his typical speeches, the new world champion said, "I told you all I was the greatest of all time. Never again say I'll be defeated; never make me the underdog until I'm 50."

At St. James Friday night

Austrian folk group to appear in suburbs

The internationally famous Salzburger Stierwaschers, Austrian folklore group currently on a North American concert tour, will make their only Chicago-area appearance Friday night in Arlington Heights.

The 28-member folk group will perform at 8:30 p.m. at St. James Parish Center, 800 N. Arlington Heights Rd. Tickets at $4 will be sold at the door.

The Stierwaschers have performed throughout the world and become known through international recordings, radio and television appearances.

Each year the group makes a three-week concert tour in various parts of the world. This year's tour of Canada and the United States is their first in North America since 1967. Austrians making the annual world tours are chosen each year by competition in Salzburg.

The Arlington Heights program will feature 35 folk songs and dances as well as Hackbrett music — the chamber music of peasants featuring zither, harp, bass, guitar and the Hackbrett, an ancient zither-like instrument.

The folk dances have been handed down through the centuries to succeeding generations and express the sentiment, tradition and folklore of peasant life.

The Stierwaschers have performed in New York City, Montreal, Toronto, Cleveland and Cincinnati. Their appearance in Arlington Heights is sponsored by the American Austrian Society of the Midwest as part of its continuing effort to bring Austrian arts and culture to the Chicago area.

Dr. John Lungren shows clip insertion in Nixon's leg gical team, said a plastic clip was placed across the iliac vein in the left groin above the thigh which would partially but not completely cut off blood flow and thus prevent loose clot fragments from passing.

Mrs. Pat Nixon was in the hospital during the operation and in the former President's room when he returned. She was described as "strained and trying to keep herself up during these difficult times."

Rosemary Woods, Nixon's longtime personal secretary, came to the hospital shortly after the operation. Daughters Julie Eisenhower and Tricia Cox also flew in.

"The operation took about one hour and was an uneventful procedure," Hickman told reporters at a news conference along with Lungren about an hour after the surgery was completed.

The surgeon said the doctors could "readily palpate (feel) the clot in the vein." He said they anticipated the usual post operative problems and that Nixon would be on a special diet with intravenous administration of medicines and anticoagulants.

Lungren said the clip would remain in the groin permanently.

Hickman said that Nixon would develop alternative circulation routes in the left thigh and groin area and that it was hoped the phlebotic clots would eventually dissolve.

In any case, he indicated, the clip should "permanently" solve the threat of clots breaking loose and reaching the heart and lungs.

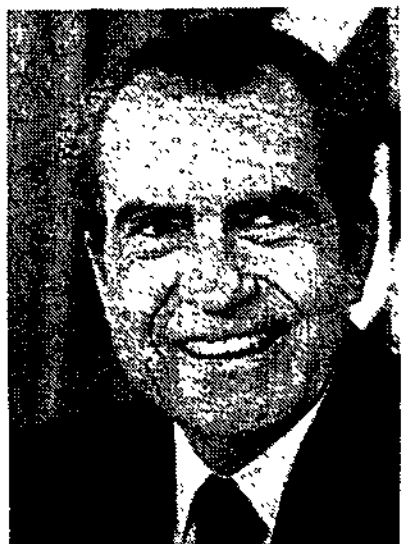

A hospital spokesman said Nixon "agreed to take the advice for surgery," then spoke by telephone with his wife and daughters, Tricia Cox and Julie Eisenhower.

The former chief executive who resigned on Aug. 9 under fire in the Watergate scandal, had previously resisted even entering the hospital, telling his former White House physician that if he went in "I won't come out alive."

But at Lungren's urging, he finally entered Long Beach Memorial in late September and spent 11 days undergoing tests before he was released on Oct. 4. He re-entered the hospital last Wednesday night when Lungren found that oral anticoagulants were not succeeding as hoped.

Before the operation Lungren said that because Nixon's blood had been chemically thinned for more than a month "there is somewhat more risk than normal in this type of surgery."

Sawhill out as energy chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Wednesday accepted the resignation of John C. Sawhill as federal energy administrator and named a new team to head the agency.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said Sawhill was asked to leave because of policy and style differences.

Ford told a news conference that Sawhill's departure was not connected with the energy chief's calls for possible gasoline tax hikes. But Morton said later at a White House session with reporters:

"I decided that someone else with a different style would service this council better."

Morton refused to get into specifics, saying Sawhill can still serve the government well in other capacities.

Ford explained that he wanted to give Morton, the new overall administration energy coordinator, a free hand to pick his own staff. Named to succeed Sawhill was Andrew E. Gibson, 52, a former assistant commerce secretary for maritime affairs.

Saying he felt the time had come for him "to move on to new responsibilities," Sawhill in his resignation letter still called for tough energy-saving measures to "improve our balance of payments position, reduce inflationary pressures and aid in cleaning up the environment."

The President also announced he was nominating Robert Seamans, a former Air Force secretary and high official of the space program, to run the new Energy Research and Development Agency; former astronaut William Anders to direct the new Nuclear Regulatory Agency; and Dixy Lee Ray, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, to be an assistant Secretary of State for international environmental and scientific affairs.

Ford hints tougher inflation battle plan—economic indicators plunge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Tuesday he might take tougher steps to slow inflation and energy consumption, including an oil import ceiling, if coming months bring a broad worsening of economic conditions.

Ford, speaking at an impromptu White House news conference, strongly defended the "finely tuned" 31-point battle plan that he outlined Oct. 8.

"At this point I still believe it is sound, both to meet the challenge of inflation and any deterioration in the economy," Ford said.

But the President, noting that Congress must approve some of his key proposals, added:

"This perhaps will take some time and in the interim, if there are any economic factors which justify a change, I will be open to suggestions."

Ford's meeting with reporters came only hours after the Commerce Department reported that its index of leading economic indicators plunged 2.5 per cent from August to September, the biggest such drop in 23 years.

Assistant Commerce Secretary James L. Pate called it a "signal that bad times are ahead."

The September figures showed unemployment increased 5.4 million persons, manufacturers' orders for appliances and other durable goods declined, stock prices hit a new 12-year low, building permits fell and the prices for industrial materials were lower.

Until now, the President has been vigorously rejecting Democratic calls for stronger anti-inflation actions, and his comments Tuesday indicated he might be taking a more flexible stance, although he spoke only in vague terms generally.

Asked at one point if he thought the United States could reduce its imports of crude oil from six million to five million barrels per day, as he wants, the President said he was optimistic.

"However, if there is not the saving of one million barrels per day of oil imports by voluntary action, we will of course move to any other alternative, including the possibility of mandatory limitations to achieve that result."

On other matters, the President:

• Declined to predict the outcome of next Tuesday's congressional elections.

• Reaffirmed his backing for vice presidential nominee Nelson A. Rockefeller by saying he still would have chosen the former New York governor for the post even if he had known all about Rockefeller's ample gifts to politically influential friends and former associates in government.

• Refused to say whether he would sign legislation to provide a 23 per cent increase in GI education benefits, although he said he hoped he could accept the bill when it is sent to him from Congress.

• Said he had not made any final decisions yet on how to trim about $5.4 billion from the current federal budget, but that he was reviewing a list of more than 100 proposals submitted to him from departments and agencies.

Britain to soak-the-rich

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth II, wearing the Imperial state crown and royal gold and silver robes, Tuesday read a speech written by Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government promising to take Britain still farther along the road to becoming a fully-fledged Socialist country.

Wilson pledged a big new dose of nationalization and other forms of state control over industry.

His speech called for new soak-the-rich taxes, including a possible wealth tax, bigger social security benefits and higher pensions.

Later, Conservative opposition leader Edward Heath accused the Wilson government of dividing the nation.

"These policies are going to divide the nation," an angry Heath declared. "Many of the measures proposed are irrelevant to our present situation and many of them will be positively damaging."

The Queen unveiled the Wilson government's legislative program in the traditional speech from the throne at the opening of a new parliament.

Accompanied by her husband Prince Philip, Elizabeth drove to parliament in the gilded Irish state coach drawn by four gray horses. There was tight security along the route.

The government announced plans for state takeovers of the shipbuilding and aircraft industries, of land available for building and of Britain's rich North Sea and other offshore oil resources.

It announced creation of a state-run National Enterprise Board, which will buy into and have a big say in running major businesses still in private ownership in exchange for financial aid.

It confirmed government plans to let the nation vote within 12 months whether it is to remain in the European Common Market and announced plans for creation of directly elected assemblies for Scotland and Wales to give them greater control over their own affairs.

Arab aid to gear for war approved

RABAT (UPI) — Arab leaders ended a four day summit on strategy against Israel Tuesday by approving $2.35 billion in aid to Arab nations arming for a possible fifth Middle East war.

Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat told the cheering closing session of the summit's decision deciding to create an independent Palestinian state was "a turning point in Arab history."

With King Hussein of Jordan, once his bitter enemy joining the acclaim, the bearded guerilla leader told Palestinians living under Israeli occupation that "victory is close at hand."

Arafat, dressed in his Arab headdress and battle jacket said, "I must say that this enemy (Israel), this military gang, is a pack of wounded wolves. They are preparing for a fifth war and we must get ready for it."

• Bundle up, folks. Tweetie, a buck barashingha deer in the Oklahoma City zoo, has thoughts of love under his antlers and zoo director Larry Curtis says that means it's going to be a long, cold winter. The deer and other animals which usually breed in September are late with their lovemaking this year, and that means a late spring birth of young to avoid severe, extended winter weather. The tardiness has made Tweetie testy. "Tweetie is becoming so aggressive that a few days ago he attacked a zoo truck, and we had a heck of a time clearing the accident report through city officials," said Curtis.

Indict 'salesman' on 6 counts of rape

John Moran, 32, an electronics salesman, was named yesterday in six separate indictments charging him with five counts of rape, seven counts of deviate sexual assault and one count of attempted rape. Moran posed as a bearer of a prize in a bogus telephone survey to gain access to the apartments of six women. He is a suspect in as many as 100 rapes in the Chicago area.

1 million tons of U.S. grain to India?

India expects to receive a minimum of one million tons of grain from the United States this year to ease its food shortage, Indian officials in New Delhi said Tuesday. They said the United States would provide the food on concessional terms — with repayment spread over a 40-year period at an interest rate of 2 per cent. The food shipments probably will be announced several weeks after Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger returns to Washington.

Chapel convicts demand getaway plane

Four convicts holding 16 hostages in the Scheveningen Prison chapel in The Hague since Saturday demanded yesterday that a getaway plane be made ready for them at Amsterdam Airport. They also demanded a jailed Dutch leftwinger be allowed to inspect their escape route.

Nixon lawyers seek release of papers

Attorneys for Richard Nixon, despite a court order barring removal of his presidential papers from Washington, asked that all Watergate materials be sent to him immediately to help him prepare for testimony at the cover-up trial. A hearing on the motion will be held today. At the coverup trial meanwhile, Job Stuart Magruder testified that former Attorney General John Mitchell approved a $250,000 bugging plan three months before the break-in.

Supreme Court to view death penalty ban

The Supreme Court yesterday accepted an appeal asking that the death penalty in the United States be banned outright and forever as "cruel and unusual" punishment. The lives of at least 149 men on death row across the country could ride on the decision the court will hand down in the appeal of Jesse Thurman Fowler of Raleigh, N.C., under sentence for murder.

Prices on cigarettes going up

Three major tobacco companies have announced increases in cigarette prices. A spokesman for tobacco wholesalers said yesterday it could mean smokers will pay a nickel more a pack. Higher wholesale prices of from 50 cents to 70 cents per 1,000 cigarettes were posted by R. J. Reynolds, Lorillard division of Loew's Corp. and Phillip Morris Inc. The hike is the second imposed by the manufacturers this year.

Stocks rally in active trading

The stock market, aided by hopes for oil price reductions and prospects for a coal industry contract settlement, staged its best rally in nearly three weeks in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow Jones industrial average climbed 25.50 to 639.34. Standard & Poor's index gained 2.74 to 72.53. The average price of an NYSE common share increased by 86 cents. Advances topped declines, 1,030 to 351, among the 1,760 issues crossing the tape.

St. Viator High School

The family contact committee of the St. Viator High School Advisory Board has appointed "ambassador leaders" in 22 Northwest suburban parishes.

The leaders, who are parent volunteers, will appoint several "ambassadors" in each parish to assist in making visits to parents of eighth-grade students. The St. Viator parents will talk to families, present facts and answer questions about the school.

In Arlington Heights, George Cooper will serve as leader for St. James; John Langhenry, Jr., for Our Lady of the Wayside and Fred Kastner for St. Edna. Mount Prospect leaders are James Dolan, St. Raymond; John Lachajewski, St. Thomas Becket; Carm Notaro, St. Emily and William Olsen, St. Cecilia.

The leaders in Des Plaines are Andrew Goszczycki, St. Zachary and John Liltwin, St. Mary's. Thomas May of Elk Grove Village will be leader for Queen of the Rosary and St. Julian. Tom Romanello will be leader for St. Hubert in Hoffman Estates and St. Marcelline in Schaumburg. Palatine leaders are Thomas Deger, St. Theresa, and Richard Geller, St. Thomas of Villanova.

Northbrook leaders are Hal Kesler, St. Norbert, and A. Tyler Little, Our Lady of the Brook. Other parish leaders include Jim Deal of Prospect Heights, St. Alphonsus; Mike Cahill, St. Mary's, Buffalo Grove; Elwood Berg of Rolling Meadows, St. Colette; Dick Vanegren of Barrington, St. Anne, and Walter Stryzysk of Wheeling, St. Joseph the Worker.

Co-chairmen of the family contact committee this year are William Olsen and John Gillen, both of Arlington Heights.

3 youths arrested for robbery of Mark Drugs employes

Three youths were arrested Tuesday as suspects in Monday night's robbery of more than $1,400 and $400 in checks from two women employes of Mark Drugs, 303 E. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

One of them, Steve B. Dembowski, 17, of 10354 Michael Todd Terr., Glenview, will be arraigned today in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court. The two others, both 16-year-old Wheeling Township boys, were charged in family court petitions and were sent to the Audy Home Tuesday night. The three are charged with robbery.

Wheeling Lt. Thomas Conte said Dembowski approached the two women employes at 8:55 p.m. as they were carrying the money from the drug store across the adjacent parking lot to the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank, 4 S. Milwaukee Ave.

"Apparently they had been planning this because they knew the store employes' schedule of dropping off the receipts into the night depository," Conte said. He added the two juveniles had left Dembowski before he approached the women and demanded the night-deposit bag.

CONTE SAID THE women first refused to hand over the money but then complied when Dembowski allegedly opened his jacket to show he had a knife sheath attached to his belt. Conte said the women thought he had a knife, although no knife was shown by Dembowski.

Dembowski then took the bag, which contained $1,484.65 in cash and $418.04 in checks, and ran south through the parking lot where he was joined by the two juveniles, police said. Although there was a further report to police of three youths seen running south of the robbery scene, police lost track of them.

Conte said the trio apparently split the cash near the Wheeling Drainage Ditch, where they supposedly threw the deposit bag and the checks into the ditch. The checks have not been recovered, although all but $30 of the cash was recovered, Conte said.

ONE OF THE juveniles left his companions after they reached the area of apartments north of Old Willow Road in Wheeling Township. That youth was seen near Denny's Restaurant, Milwaukee Avenue south of Palatine Road, by Det. Kenneth Dawson who first questioned the youth and then found him armed with a gun, Conte said.

Later, Dawson and Det. Earl Suel, while checking all the motels and hotels in the area, found Dembowski and the other juvenile registered under their own names at the Flamingo Motel, Milwaukee Avenue and River Road. Conte said he was unsure whether the juvenile who was arrested first supplied the names of the other two suspects.

Police said the other two suspects were arrested at that time and the rest of the money was recovered.

Conte said sheriff's police are investigating the possible involvement of one or more of the three suspects in local burglaries.

Think small

Because of repairs and lack of utilization, Passolt urges village to sell 45-seat bus, rent a smaller one

by JOE FRANZ

Wheeling Village Mgr. George Passolt has suggested the village replace its 45-seat bus with a smaller vehicle to save money.

"While the large bus has been extremely helpful in getting our bus system started, it is rarely utilized to its full 45-passenger capacity," Passolt said in a report to the village board.

He also said it is "extremely difficult" to get parts to repair the bus. "Sometimes we have to go to the South Side of Chicago for a part and we can't afford to have it out of operation for a long time."

Passolt suggested the village sell the bus in December and consider renting a small bus.

The board several weeks ago directed Passolt to study replacing the bus with a smaller vehicle that would be more economical while still satisfying the village's needs.

AFTER HEARING Passolt's report

Monday night, the board decided to study the matter further.

Trustee William Hein, who suggested the possible elimination of the large bus, said he now is concerned that a smaller bus might not be able to accommodate all the school children in the morning. The bus is not filled to capacity most of the time, but is crowded in the morning, he said.

If the village goes to a smaller bus, it would be able to accommodate only 16 persons. "Maybe we should give this a stronger look before we decide to eliminate it," Village Pres. Ted Scanlon said.

Passolt suggested if the village decides to eliminate the large bus it sell it back to the company from which it was purchased. The village paid $10,411 for the bus and could get $3,811 for it if it is sold back, he said.

Regardless of whether the large bus is sold, Passolt said the village will retain the present service.

THE VILLAGE now has two buses that operate within its corporate limits. The large bus follows a designated route and schedule while a smaller shuttle bus has no schedule.

The village also is studying the feasibility of starting a commuter bus service to and from area railroad stations. Hein said he would like to see this service started sometime next year.

Passolt and Thomas Markus, administrative assistant, have suggested the village pay $2,000 to participate in transportation development study being conducted by the North Suburban Mass Transit District.

"This study would hopefully give us additional information on our eligibility for federal funds for capital improvements in our transit system," Passolt said.

Village bus service lost $28,400 in 1973 and officials said the deficit probably will be greater this year. The Illinois Department of Transportation recently awarded Wheeling an $18,329 grant to help reduce the deficit.

Promote Robert Hoos to fire lieutenant

Wheeling Fireman Robert Hoos will be promoted to fire lieutenant Friday.

Hoos, a 3½-year veteran of the fire department, was the only one of nine candidates to pass the recent promotional exam. Only one man was to be promoted at this time, but the fire and police commission and the fire department hoped an eligibility list also would have resulted from the test.

Hoos is married and has a son. His brother William is a Wheeling policeman.

Second incident in week

Suburban man victim of television sales fraud

For the second time in a week, a suburban man fell victim to a fraudulent television sales scheme in Schaumburg. A Carpentersville resident was defrauded of $730 in cash Monday.

An Oak Forest businessman was bilked out of $1,700 Oct. 22 in a similar scheme, where color television sets were to be sold at special prices and picked up at the loading dock at Marshall Field and Co. in the Woodfield Shopping Center.

Marshall Field is not connected with the solicitations, and store security agents reported to police that Monday's incident marked the fifth such attempt within two weeks. However, only two have been reported to police.

Lee Holle of Carpentersville told police he handed over $730 in cash to a man outside a restaurant at the shopping center. Schaumburg police are investigating the two reported incidents in which the con artist's mode of operation was the same.

BOTH MEN WERE solicited by telephone calls from a man named "Bob." Holle was told there were a 25-inch floor model and a 19-inch portable color television set available at discount prices, it was reported.

Holle met the man at the shopping center after ordering four sets. Holle was told to meet another man in front of the restaurant — the same location the Oak Forest man was to meet his contact.

The cash was exchanged, and Holle was given a Field's receipt and told to wait by the store's loading dock for the merchandise. Authorities were told by store agents that the sales slip was stolen from a Wisconsin store.

Police warned area residents to be on the alert against similar solicitations and to call local authorities if they receive any suspicious telephone calls offering special deals.

FREED AFTER posting $1,000 bond, he will appear Nov. 27 in the Elk Grove Village branch of Circuit Court. Osburn posted $20,000 bond on the earlier charge, a felony. Monday's arrest, according to Elk Grove Village police, was classified as a misdemeanor and the maximum bond is $1,000.

Federal agents and Elk Grove investigators are probing Osburn's background for his possible connections with extremist groups.

Agents of the Treasury Dept.'s Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division said Tuesday they are still working on the case.

At the time of the September arrest, also on Rte. 83, police described Osburn's car as a small arsenal of weapons and ammunition. It held explosive devices, and black powder bombs and weapons, police said.

Illegal weapons suspect nabbed

A Mount Prospect man charged with illegal possession of explosives last month and free on bond pending his trial was arrested again Monday on illegal weapons charges.

Elk Grove Village police said the man, Larry Osburn, 27, of 804 Elm St., was stopped near Ill. Rte. 83 and Oakton Street Monday night after his car was allegedly seen speeding by an Elk Grove patrolman.

Police said the patrolman observed several rounds of ammunition on the front seat of Osburn's auto. Further search of the car turned up illegal "fighting sticks," a 10-inch knife, a revolver and a tear-gas gun, police said.

Osburn was charged this time with two counts of unlawful use of weapons, speeding and possession of open liquor in his auto.

Bus driver hit for going around railroad gates

by JUDY JOBBITT

A bus driver has been reprimanded for driving a busload of Mount Prospect students across the railroad tracks Thursday while the gates were down.

The disciplinary action came after parents complained to the school, Mount Prospect police and Cook County School Bus Inc.

Clyde Diamond was driving students from Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect home about noon on Thursday, police said. The school had been dismissed early for a teacher work-shop day.

Diamond told police he followed the regular route north on Emerson Street to cross Prospect Avenue and the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks. The gate at Emerson Street was reported down across the tracks. Diamond said he went east on Prospect Avenue to Mount Prospect Road to try to cross the tracks there.

THE GATES also were down at Mount Prospect Road. Police reported that Diamond said he checked for trains and saw none coming, although he did see one stopped at the Cumberland Station.

He crossed the tracks without an accident.

Two parents called police and reported the driver's actions. Police investigated the incident with the bus firm.

"He did something wrong," said E. Zimmerman, bus company manager. He said Diamond told him that he thought the gate at Mount Prospect Road also was stuck so proceeded with caution across the tracks.

Zimmerman said Diamond has been reprimanded and informed of the "understood" policy that no bus is to be driven across railroad tracks against a closed gate until the barrier is lifted by an authorized person.

SAM DONATUCCI, assistant principal at Lincoln, said he received a call from a parent who was concerned about the incident. He said he called the bus company and was informed that a policeman waved Diamond through the crossing.

Because of this information, he said he did not investigate it further except to be reassured of the company's policy and the driver's notification about it.

Our selections for the Illinois General Assembly

Here are The Herald's recommendations to voters in the Nov. 5 election for the Illinois General Assembly:

1st LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT

We recommend the reelection of Sen. Bradley M. Glass, a Northfield Republican who is completing an abbreviated first term, following one term in the House.

In those four years, Glass has demonstrated understanding and leadership in the area of education, which has been one of his chief concerns. We believe his expertise to be valuable to the people of his district and of the state.

His Democratic opponent is Richard Hartigan of Glenview, a political science professor at Loyola University. Hartigan is a man of accomplishment in his field and undoubtedly qualified for the Senate. However, we do not believe his candidacy warrants the replacement of Brad Glass.

In the House, the 1st District is well served by the three incumbents, who should be reelected.

They are Democrat Harold A.

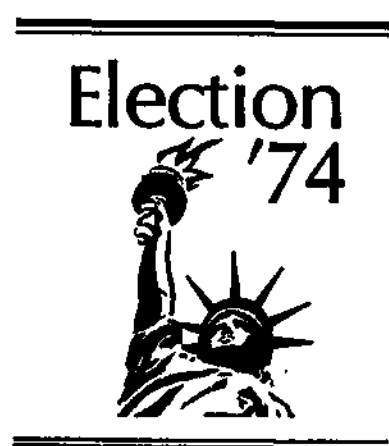

Katz of Glencoe; and Republicans Brian B. Duff of Wilmette and John Edward Porter of Evanston.

Katz is a leader of the Independent Democrats in the House and has been a force for House reform, ethics legislation and compromise on the RTA. Duff is an expert on the judiciary and has authored several significant bills in this field. Porter, in his first term, demonstrated potential leadership and the ability to pass his legislative proposals, several of which were significant.

The fourth candidate for the three seats is Dorothy Henahan, a Glenview Democrat. We share Mrs. Henahan's sentiment that the western portion of the district, which includes Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, could use more representation. But she has failed to demonstrate that she could provide it.

2nd LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT

The chief concern of voters in Palatine Township should be the reelection of Richard A. Mugallan, a Democrat from Palatine. But some may wish to split their ballot between Mugallan and Republican Leo LaFleur of Bloomington.

In his first term in the legislature, Mugallan has demonstrated an independence from the dictates of the Democratic party. He has worked hard and represented the district well.

LaFleur, with 14 years experience as DuPage County auditor, has been a quiet but effective representative who has contributed to the passage of a number of good bills in his first term.

The other candidates are Rep.

John E. Friedland, South Elgin Republican, who has served four terms in the House with little distinction; and David E. Carey, a Democrat from Elgin. Carey is a well-thought-of assistant to Superintendent of Public Instruction Michael Bakalis and is familiar with the workings of the legislature. However, the election of two Democrats in this Republican district is unlikely.

3rd LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT

This is the only district in the state with two women representatives, and we recommend that both be reelected.

They are Eugenia Chapman, a Democrat, and Virginia Macdonald, a Republican, both of Arlington Heights. Mrs. Chapman is a veteran of five terms in the House and has made valuable contributions in the fields of education and women's rights. Mrs. Macdonald, completing her first term, has demonstrated an open-mindedness and understanding of complex issues, which makes her an effective legislator.

Of the other two candidates, we prefer Rep. Donald L. Totten, a Hoffman Estates Republican. The other candidate in the district is Walter (Jack) Sullivan, a retail security manager from Hoffman Estates who lacks the experience to serve in the legislature.

4th LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT

We support the reelection of Skokie Republican John Nimrod to the Senate. When he was first elected in 1972, we had reservations about whether Nimrod would be more devoted to party loyalty or to the needs of his district.

He has alleviated those fears through major efforts on the part not only of the 4th District, but the entire metropolitan area. Nimrod was particularly effective in bringing about a compromise on changes in the state tax multiplier which saved school districts throughout Cook County severe financial problems.

His Democratic opponent, Patton Feichter of Des Plaines, is a qualified candidate, but cannot match Nimrod's experience.

The three incumbent representatives are Republicans Eugene F.

Schlickman of Arlington Heights, Robert Juckett of Park Ridge, and Democrat Aaron Jaffe of Skokie. All are experienced and accomplished legislators and we recommend their reelection.

The fourth House candidate in the district is Democrat Thomas W. Flynn of Niles, who ran unsuccessfully against Nimrod in 1972.

5th LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT

We recommend the reelection of Republican Richard A. Walsh of Oak Park, a hard-working veteran of six terms in the House, and Democratic newcomer Ted E. Levenenz of Maywood. A business management consultant, Levenenz, 33, has demonstrated a clear grasp of the problems of the district in his first political campaign and would be an asset to the legislature.

The other incumbents, Republican Edward Bluthardt of Schiller Park and Democrat Jack B. Williams of Franklin Park, persist in holding their positions as mayors of their villages, a practice which we believe disqualifies them for support as legislators.

The Herald endorses...

Three for MSD board

We endorse James T. Ryan, Casimir G. Oksas and Chester P. Majewski for the Metropolitan Sanitary District board of trustees.

Ryan, an Arlington Heights village trustee, is a practicing attorney with an engineering degree. His local experience is valuable for working with the many suburban flooding problems tackled each year by the MSD. As both a suburbanite and a Republican, he's sorely needed on the MSD board, which is dominated by Chicago Democrats.

Oksas, also a Republican, is a savings and loan executive and a registered civil engineer. His call for increased MSD cooperation with the federal and state environmental protection agencies is valuable, as MSD sewage and flood control projects are stymied by a hold-up of grant funding.

Majewski, the only incumbent to receive Herald endorsement, is an attorney who has also served as a Democrat in the legislature. He's been an active participant in MSD board meetings, and we are impressed by his tough stand in fighting to curb Lake Michigan pollution.

In his first MSD term, Majewski served as chairman of four committees.

Of the remaining MSD candidates, Nicholas J. Melas, a Democrat who has served 12 years as a trustee and four years as board vice president, is a qualified candidate.

But our endorsements go to Ryan, Oksas and Majewski — the three candidates we feel would best serve the Northwest suburbs in six year terms as MSD trustees.

No superintendent pick

The Herald cannot endorse either incumbent Democrat Richard Martwick or GOP challenger Vernon Frazee for the job of Cook County superintendent of schools.

We prefer Martwick for the top educational post in Cook County. In his four years in office, Martwick has mediated labor management disputes between teachers and school boards, and we commend him for his leadership in this area.

However, we are concerned about Martwick's continued use of this office for patronage purposes. We also believe he was guilty of headline-grabbing in some sensitive areas of education, such as the investigation of Dwyer School in Arlington Heights. His actions there did nothing to clarify the issues involved.

In good conscience, we cannot endorse Martwick, nor can we support Frazee, a school administrator who lacks Martwick's experience and seems disinterested about seeking this important educational post.

Andersen for treasurer

Wayne Andersen of Des Plaines should be elected as the next treasurer of Cook County.

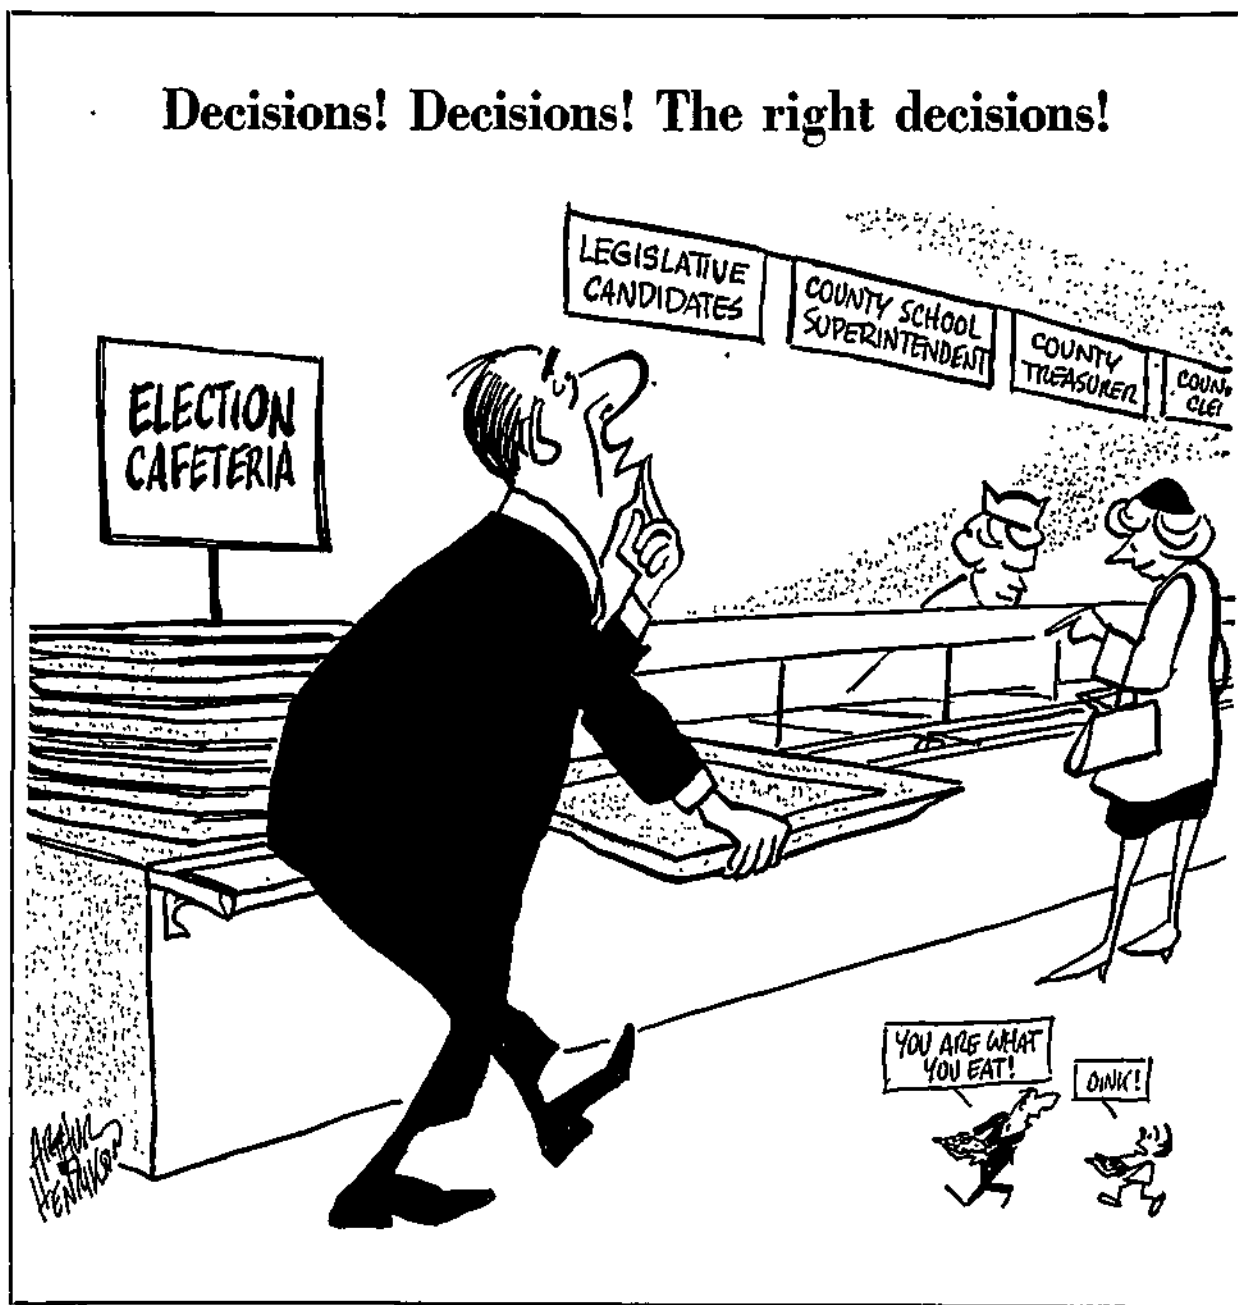

Andersen, at 27 the youngest candidate on the GOP county ticket, has a wealth of experience as a legislative aide. He helped write the commendable law which requires the investment of all county funds in interest-bearing accounts which, if it had been followed in Cook County under present Treasurer Bernard Korzen, would have produced considerable revenue for county government.

Andersen hopes to make the office more visible to the public and to spread county deposits throughout the county. We support both ideas. His opponent, Edward Rosewell, appears to be qualified, but is tied to the Daley political machine, and we believe his first loyalties would not be necessarily to the entire county.

Andersen can do a superior job as county treasurer and we urge you to vote for him on Nov. 5.

Wheeling trustees hit

It was disheartening to learn through The Herald that once again, the village of Wheeling had declined to move forward from its questionable status quo, this time under the guise of economy. The proposal by Trustee Don Jackson to hire Booz, Allen and Hamilton Company to conduct a comprehensive study of village operations was defeated by a five to one vote.

The study was first proposed after the federal investigation and indictments of Wheeling officials made it clear that there was something seriously wrong with the village government. Most of the trustees made pious, if vague, promises that this would not happen again. Only Trustee Jackson made a serious, concrete proposal to correct the situation and reestablish credibility. That proposal was defeated on Monday.

The majority, though not all, of the board then voted to accept another firm with a smaller price tag and a less comprehensive study, saying it will "probably" satisfy the needs of the village.

When all the symptoms indicate a serious illness, the most complete examination is called for, regardless of cost. The consequences of continuing to ignore a probable cancer are too great. The cost differences in the two firms voted upon was less than $10,000. Considering the hundreds of thousands recently exchanged in bribery and extortion here, it is amazing to see public officials blanch at this comparatively small sum. Especially since this small sum was to be spent to prevent further cost to the taxpayer, both in dollars and embarrassment, through Wheeling's inefficiency and "irregularities."

There are times when each of us must decide when good is good enough, and when only the best will do. This was one of those times, and once again, the people of Wheeling have been the victims of penny-wise, pound-foolish decisions. Only the individual trustees know if their decision was based on economics, or on their fervent desire that the workings of the administration not be examined too closely.

Meanwhile, Mr. Koeppen presses his idea of improving representation through aldermanic elections. Perhaps Mr. Koeppen should consider that the responsiveness and effectiveness of a government representative can best be determined not by whether he lives in your neighborhood, but by how he considers the needs of the individual and the common good of the entire village.

Dr. Spock admits his book is 'sexist'

by WANDALYN RICE

"Baby and Child Care," the bible for mothers since 1947, is a "sexist" book — at least according to its author, Dr. Benjamin Spock.

Spock, in a series of appearances at Harper College Tuesday, said he is in the process of making a major revision in the book which has sold 24 million copies and has been translated into 26 languages.

"The feminists accused me of writing a sexist book and of course, they're right," Spock said. "The baby was always 'he' and the parent was always 'she.' I'm trying to rewrite it to eliminate this problem and I've been getting myself into some terrible grammatical corners."

THE DOCTOR, who stood trial for counseling young men to avoid the draft during the Vietnam War, said, "The permissiveness charge simply did not occur for the first 22 years — it was only made since 1968 by people who favored the war in Vietnam and were upset that young people and some old people like me opposed it."

Since the charge has been made, Spock said, he consistently has said he is against "permissiveness" since it has become a political issue.

He also told a crowd, which included a large number of mothers and babies, he sees one of the major problems of child-rearing in the United States as a lack of certainty by parents about the right way to handle their children.

"This kind of parental uncertainty doesn't create major problems, but it does make children a little bit pickier."

DR. BENJAMIN SPOCK, author of the most famous book on child care ever published and a sometime presidential candidate, spoke Tuesday at Harper College.

and makes being a parent more difficult," he said.

HE SAID while he believes a mother should be able to work if she wants to, both parents should make sacrifices in their careers to be with a child during the first three years of a child's life "unless you have a magic solution like a grandmother."

"I myself hope there will always be some mothers or some fathers, as we get more equality of the sexes, who will want to stay home with their children," he said. "To raise two fine children is a much more creative job than working in a real estate job or than most outside jobs that people have."

Spock's comments on other subjects were:

- On whether he expected his book to become as widely read as it has: "I never thought it would. If I had, it probably would have scared me to death. As a matter of fact, the editor of Pocket Books who got me started on this once said with a wicked smile, 'We don't care if it's a very good book, because at 25 cents (its price in 1947), we can sell hundreds of thousands of them.' But, good heavens, he never mentioned three-quarters of a million a year."

- On his 1972 presidential candidacy on the Peace and Freedom Party ticket: "It was very educational to me because even when I made a good speech people would applaud like mad and come up to me afterward and say they agreed with me but they couldn't vote for me because it would waste their vote."

- On young people today: "They are a lot more independent than children who grew up in the 1950s. The most important thing is they can't be intimidated and I'm an expert on intimidation because I was intimidated by everybody when I was a child."

- On his own childhood: "My mother was so fierce and so dominating and so puritanical, she had total devotion to her children. I can't say mine was the kind of child-rearing I would recommend, but I want to tell you that we don't really know what the outcome of child care will be. Don't decide just because of some neurotic quirk in your child that you've ruined him for life — that quirk might be what makes him president of the United States."

- On sexual freedom: "If you're interested in a very old fashioned view about sex, you should ask me. I have some views that astound some people because they think because I'm a political radical I should also be a radical about sexual behavior."

Gill, Bardwell apparently not finalists for state school superintendent

Gill

Supt. Kenneth Gill of Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 and Roger Bardwell, former superintendent of Elk Grove Township Dist. 50, apparently are not among the finalists in the search for a new state school superintendent.

The two said Tuesday they have not heard from officials of the State Board of Education, which began notifying the six finalists for the job Friday. "I expect a 'Dear John' letter any day now," Gill said.

Ben Hubbard, professor of educational administration at Illinois State University and a leading figure in speculation about the job, declined comment about his chances for the job.

Hubbard, research director for the School Problems Commission, an advisory committee for the legislature, said, "I think the board is correct in keeping the names away from the public and I'm not going to get involved in speculation."

HUBBARD has long been considered a leading candidate for the state superintendent's job along with the present state superintendent, Michael Bakalis. Bakalis has refused to say if he is among the finalists for the job.

The state board will take over the duties now performed by Bakalis in January under provisions of the 1970 Illinois Constitution. Bakalis will be the last elected school superintendent.

The state board has agreed to keep secret the names of the finalists. "I totally disagree with them on not publicizing the names," Gill said. "I want to see if there are any of them better than me."

The board has said it plans to name the new superintendent Nov. 14. The board had received about 80 applications for the job, 29 from individuals in the state.

OUR IRISH WHISKEY COULD BECOME THE GREATEST NAME IN SCOTCH.

Ever since our $20,000 Chicago Taste Testing Competition proved that Tullamore Dew was every bit as smooth and light and mellow as the leading scotches, a lot of scotch drinkers have been asking for it by name.

The wrong name.

They've been calling it "Tullamore Dew Scotch," or just "Tullamore Scotch," when, in fact, Tullamore Dew is a blended Irish whiskey.

But we understand.

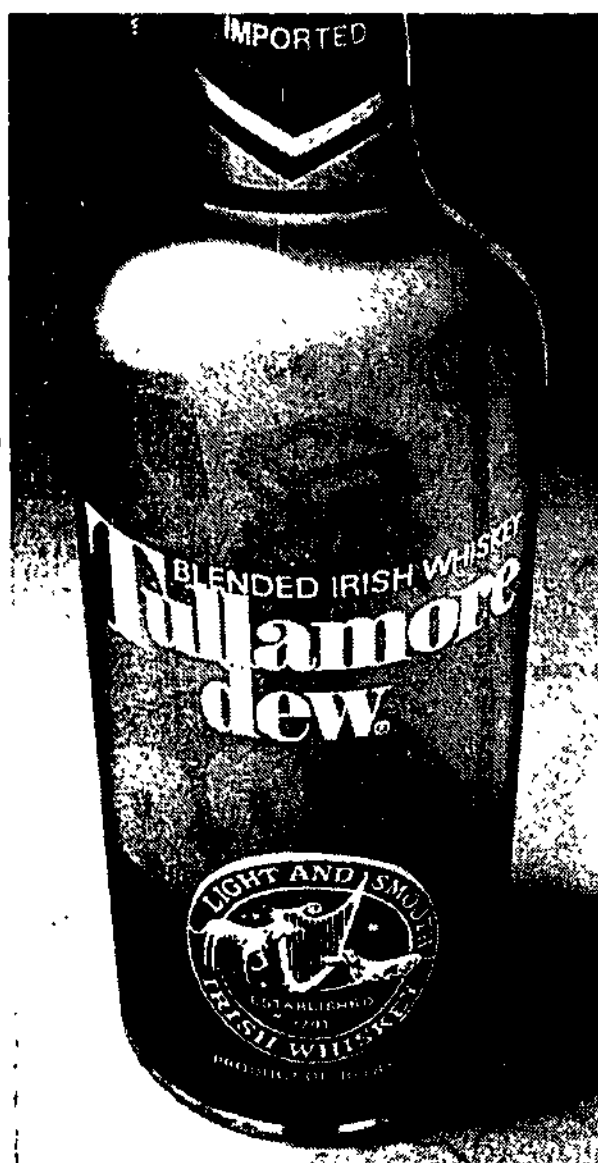

You see, Tullamore Dew has a taste that is unlike any Irish whiskey, and, in the opinion of an increasing number of former scotch drinkers, actually more pleasing than the scotch they used to drink.

It's no wonder that a lot of people have switched to Tullamore Dew without realizing they were giving up their scotch for an Irish whiskey, but if the trend continues, it could get a little confusing.

So before we find Tullamore Dew topping a list of the world's great scotches, we just want to make sure you know it for what it is: a smooth, light, mellow Irish whiskey.

Try Tullamore Dew, if you haven't already. And try, also, to get the name right.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Nerves and the colon

Could you please tell me what nerves have to do in causing a colon condition and if nerves can be the only cause? How serious is it if the colon should perforate? Could this also cause an abscess on the colon and liver?

There is a network of nerve fibers that penetrate the wall of the colon. These little nerves stimulate the muscle in the wall of the colon to contract or relax. They affect the blood flow to the colon by constricting or relaxing the blood vessels and they affect the amount of secretions or mucus formed in the colon.

The nerves function on their own without your conscious control. The network is hooked up to the hypothalamus in your brain which is the seat of your emotions. Depending upon what emotion you are experiencing, the colon will be engorged with blood or literally blush, or the blood will be drained out of it, making it pale.

If your colon were readily visible to other people you would have a hard time concealing your emotions.

It follows that anxiety and nervous states can send impulses to the colon that can cause overcontraction or spasm of colon muscles or form excess mucus and otherwise affect its function. Depending on the balance of factors, this can result in diarrhea, constipation, or spastic colon.

Now, nervous states are not the only thing, though, that can

Schizophrenia radio show topic

Is it truth or myth that schizophrenia is incurable and only some of the symptoms can be alleviated?

Dr. Louis B. Florman, medical director of the Elmcrest Psychiatric Institute in Portland, Conn., discusses his views about cures with Morris B. Squire of Forest Hospital on "The Search for Mental Health" this Sunday at 8 a.m. on WJJD-FM 104.3.

"The Search for Mental Health," a public service radio series produced by the Forest Hospital Foundation, is heard weekly on WJJD and is nationally distributed.

cause dysfunction of the colon. Various diseases of the colon itself can cause dysfunction. These include diseases such as food poisoning or even a tumor of the colon.

THE FUNCTION of the colon is also affected by what you eat and drink. Some people do not tolerate coffee very well at all, and it can affect the function of the colon. Various flavor oils can irritate the colon as can spices such as garlic.

If you eat food that contains no bulk, the colon may not have enough undigested fiber material to work against and it will overcontract or go into spasm. That is one reason why you need roughage in your diet, specifically bulky vegetables and cereals.

The colon won't perforate from nerves alone. You usually have to have had small pocket-like formations of diverticula formed first. These can rupture, and the effect may be much like a ruptured appendix, though usually on the left side. And, like a ruptured appendix, if the perforation is large and permits bacteria from the colon to be seeded in the abdomen, it could cause a liver abscess or abscesses elsewhere in the abdomen.

Do the fats and oils in pecans, almonds, and avocados cause cholesterol to build up in the body?

None of these contain cholesterol. However, too many calories of any foods, and particularly fats, apparently stimulate the formation of excess fatty particles and cholesterol in the body in most people. If you stay lean and don't eat too many of these foods, they are fine. All three of these items are high in fat content, even though they contain no cholesterol.

Win at bridge

South gets a perfect count

South could have picked up an easy 500 points by just doubling three diamonds, but he liked to play notrump and bid the game.

West opened the king of spades and led a diamond at trick two. East led back a diamond and South was on lead. He could see eight easy tricks. His problem was to score a ninth with either the jack of hearts or the queen of spades.

He started proceedings by cashing the ace, king and jack of clubs. West, who had discarded a spade on the second diamond, let another spade go on the jack of clubs. Now South had a perfect count. West had been dealt six spades, four hearts, one diamond and two clubs.

He also had a sure thing irrespective of the location of the queen of hearts. He simply cashed his last diamond; led a heart to dummy's ace and discarded a spade on the queen of clubs. He was left with the king and one heart and the queen and one spade in his hand.

West chucked a heart to hang on to the ace-jack of spades and South led a heart to his king. If West held the heart queen he would have been endplayed. As it was, South dropped East's queen and made an overtrick.

Louis M. Nichols

Louis M. Nichols, 48, of Arlington Heights, was pronounced dead on arrival Tuesday morning at Northwest Hospital, Chicago, after an apparent heart attack.

Visitation is today in Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, from 3 p.m. until time of funeral service at 8:30 p.m. Officiating will be the Rev. David E. Laird of First Baptist Church, Palatine.

Then the body will be taken to the Tyler Memorial Funeral Home, Tyler, Tex., where a second funeral service will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday. Burial will be in Memorial Cemetery, Tyler, Tex.

Surviving are his widow, Tommie L., nee Griffor; a daughter, Linda, at home; parents, L. R. and Marie Nichols, and a brother, Bobby J. of Visalia, Calif.

Mr. Nichols was a sales manager for Protection American Co., a manufacturing firm of automotive equipment parts. A veteran of World War II, he was born in Mount Vernon, Tex.

Cecil R. Powell

Cecil Roy Powell, 87, of Canby, Ore., formerly of Chicago, died Sunday in Canby. Born in Chicago, July 12, 1887, he was a retired self-employed carpenter, and was a member of the Chicago Carpenters Union Local No. 13. He was a veteran of World War I.

Visitation is today in Ahlgrim and Sons Funeral Home, 330 W. Golf Rd., Schaumburg, from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Surviving are his widow, Arvina; two daughters, Mrs. Lorene Chaaris of Arcadia, Calif., and Mrs. Mary Reinhardt of California; two stepdaughters, Mrs. Carolyn Hood of Canby, Ore., and Mrs. Margaret Weld of Palatine; two stepsons, Harvey Crain of Elk Grove Village and Robert Crain of Brookfield; 17 grandchildren; eight great-grandchildren; a brother, Dewey of Chicago, and four sisters, Zelma Lemley, Mrs. Evelyn Jackson, Mrs. Helen Gaydos and Mrs. Enid Lowther, all of West Virginia.

Funeral service will be held Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the chapel of the funeral home. Officiating will be the Rev. Stanley M. Tozer of First Presbyterian Church, Palatine. Burial will be in Ridgewood Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Family requests, in lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to the Cancer Society.

Edytha Cuzzort

Mrs. Edytha M. Cuzzort, 70, nee Thompson, of Wheeling, died Monday in Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines. She was born March 5, 1904, in Chicago.

Surviving are a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Joan (the late James) Cuzzort of Arlington Heights, and three grandchildren, Mrs. Carol (David) Handwerk of Chicago and Douglas and Glenn Cuzzort of Arlington Heights. She was preceded in death by a son, James.

A memorial service for Mrs. Cuzzort will be held at a later date.

Klossak of Wheeling Funeral Home, 189 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling, made the arrangements. Private family visitation will be at the funeral home.

FTC sets agreement

Small firms to get shot at network TV ad time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission has announced the three TV networks have agreed to set up regional advertising systems that will allow smaller companies to get a crack at air time.

The agency revealed that it has been investigating the networks to determine whether the lack of air time for regional ads was an unfair practice. By agreeing to set up the regional systems, the FTC said, the networks were not necessarily admitting they had been doing anything wrong.

The FTC said CBS, ABC and NBC take in $2 billion a year in network advertising fees, with major national advertisers dominating.

"THE COMMISSION believes that if the top 30 national TV advertisers would participate in a regional preemption or cut-in procedure for a small percentage of their total advertising time, the benefits to competition will far outweigh what should only be a minor inconvenience to them," the FTC said.

It said technology is such that ads need not be transmitted to the same combination of stations with the same program.

"Network coverage of commercial material in specific regions of the country is therefore possible in conjunction with a single national program," it added. "The feasibility of a regionalized network is best illustrated by some sporting events. In the case of professional football telecasts, there may be as many separate regions on the network as there are teams in the league."

Under the agreement the networks will set up regional sales offices to determine the demand for regional ads. They also agreed to actively solicit such ads and to keep detailed records of their operations.

After one year the networks will see how the project worked and give the FTC a report, the agency said.

Broker-lawyer accord

What is the "Illinois Real Estate Broker-Lawyer Accord"?

It is an agreement effected in 1966 that states what a real estate broker and an attorney should or should not do when handling a real estate transaction for a client. If you have a complaint against either party, a special eight-man committee of brokers and attorneys may consider the matter if it is brought to their attention by your attorney or broker. For a copy of the Accord, write the Illinois State Bar Assn., Illinois Bar Center, Springfield, Ill. 62701.

Origer pulls power play... Davidson out!

by MIKE KLEIN

As you read this, blond bomber Gary Davidson is no longer commissioner of the World Football League. And Tom Origer looks to be a powerful man when the nitty-gritty gets really gritty.

Davidson and the WFL have learned not to mess with Origer or he will blow you away. The message came across clear and strong yesterday at the O'Hare International Airport hotel.

Origer entered a hastily called late morning WFL summit with the clustered media outside room 1103 expecting he would announce there was no more Chicago Fire. Presumably, Origer would plead financial insanity and quietly step aside.

But when the millionaire construction magnate and seven others emerged briefly about two hours later, there was an entirely new and potentially stronger WFL with Origer very much a factor. Here are the essentials:

- Davidson is out as commissioner with Donald J. Regan elevated to the new position of executive director. Regan has served as WFL general legal counsel. He was present yesterday.

- A six-man operations committee, that reports to Regan, has been formed with Memphis Southern owner John Bassett serving as chairman. Others include Origer and Davidson who'll assume front office duties with the Southern California franchise.

- And equally important, WFL headquarters will move from Newport Beach, Calif., to New York City, effective in January. It is a move Origer has sought for months. He has heavily criticized the country club atmosphere at Newport Beach where, Origer said, "There's been a lot of money thrown away."

A couple smaller points included no further fumbling with this season's WFL playoffs. Eight of 10 remaining franchises will vie for the World Bowl title.

In moving to New York, the WFL seeks to shore up its shaky financial aspects and look toward eventual overseas expansion. Between 10 and 14 franchises will operate next year.

The newly more influential Bassett and Origer plus the much less powerful Davidson met questioners about 1:30 p.m. before continuing their skull session. Davidson went first, announcing his resignation, effective immediately.

He stepped aside quickly, seemed interested in answering few questions, and left the limelight to Origer and Bassett.

Origer vowed to keep his Fire alive "through the first of the year. I don't contemplate any other actions right now. We are going to finish the season and look forward to next year."

Although everyone says it was a genial meeting of friends, there's little doubt that Origer has engineered quite a coup.

"Yeah, I feel like I got my politics across," said Origer who's been at odds with Davidson many times over WFL management. Last week, Origer said Davidson must be replaced.

Asked before yesterday's meeting whether he could co-exist with Davidson as commissioner, Origer said, "No." He entered room 1103, presumably to pull out, but told reporters, "I feel like a political candidate saying I'm not going to run."

Whether Origer truly intended to dump his Fire, as reported, now seems debatable. He did say, "It's time to face the facts. If they had stayed on a self-destruct course, then I would have said the hell with it."

Origer stands to lose no less than $750,000 this season with improved financial prospects for next year.

"The two most important moves today were Regan taking over to build our credibility and moving the offices to New York where we can attract heavy investors," Origer said. Davidson will serve on the expansion committee.

The six-man operations committee under Bassett includes Origer, Davidson, Hawaii's Sam Battistone, Birmingham's Bill Putnam and Philadelphia's John Besso. (The Fire plays an eight o'clock game at Philadelphia tonight.)

All those men attended yesterday's O'Hare meeting as did Howard Baldwin and Upton Bell of the Charlotte Hornets.

Personal attorney Marvin Fuller and Fire executive vice president Al Lange were with Origer. The Fire owner has been tight-lipped on all recent events, keeping only Lange informed.

Card wrestling coach wins weekly contest

Another coach broke into the winner's circle this week as Jack Cutlip, the head wrestling coach and frosh "A" football coach at Arlington High School, foiled a week of upsets to take the eighth edition of Paddock Publications' "Pick the Winners" Contest.

Cutlip will become eligible for the grand prize, a sortie out to the West Coast for the Rose Bowl, which will be determined at a luncheon to be held Dec. 14. If he doesn't come up a big winner, Cutlip will at least get to listen to the game on the AM-FM radio he'll receive as the weekly winner.

Incredibly, Cutlip picked the entire high school card correctly and missed on only the Harper-Triton game and Illinois-Iowa. The high school results were as unpredictable as any this season with the main shockers being Hersey's loss to Arlington and St. Viator's wasted trip to St. Francis deSales.

"I've watched Hersey all season and I've seen Viator twice," Cutlip explained. "I knew Viator had a lot of injuries and I chose because of that."

"I saw Hersey last week against Palatine and I wasn't impressed. Then when I saw them warming up against Arlington I knew they were going to lose."

The rest of the high school card went like this: Maine West moved into title contention with a win over Niles East, Maine East slipped past Glenbrook South, Rolling Meadows stopped Forest View in a mild upset, Buffalo Grove edged Palatine, Prospect foiled Elk Grove, Wheeling won their long awaited match with Fremd and Schaumburg made their tune up for the Super Bowl more impressive than Hersey by dispatching the Conant Cougars.

Harper insured a winning season with their 35-26 triumph over Triton while in the major college dogfights Notre Dame trounced Miami, Texas Tech smothered SIU, Iowa shocked Illinois, Missouri showed Colorado and UCLA bopped California.

Buffalo juiced the Bears in the pro ranks while New England survived against Minnesota, St. Louis remained undefeated with their win over Washington and Kansas City scalped San Diego.

Cleveland beat Denver in the tie-breaker, 23-21.

Large crowd sees Bears' star

Gary Huff charms luncheon crowd

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Gary Huff, a southern man out of Natchez, Miss., Florida State and the Chicago Bears charmed an audience of 200 at the second Paddock Pro Sports Club luncheon of the season held yesterday at Arlington Park Towers.

Lacking the polished delivery and flair for public relations possessed by Virgil Carter, the initial speaker of the season, Huff relied on his low key manner, dry sense of humor and tranquil voice to entertain his guests.

"I was told not to get up here and give an emotional speech," Huff said in his opening remarks, "and I don't think I ever could. I'm a pretty quiet person and I like to just listen when the plays are brought into the huddle."

"When I played football in high school and college I always played on a winning team. I've still been trying to get back into the groove here with the Bears."

After a career at Florida State which could be best described as passable (Huff ranks 11th on the all-time major college standings for yardage gained through the air) Huff was drafted in the second round by the Bears.

His first season with Chicago was spent on the bench behind Bobby Douglass. Huff remarked on this and the fickle nature of the fans.

"There were times last season," Huff recalled, "when I didn't want to stand up because the fans would start yelling to put me in. So when I did get in last year against Detroit I hadn't warmed up properly and I think only my first three passes were intercepted."

"Then I started to hear some of those boos. Still, the fans pay their money and they have a right to expect professional athletes to be able to play."

"I think Chicago fans are spoiled. They are used to having championship football teams here and it's hard for them to accept the kind of problems the Bears have been having the last few years."

While the hard times for the Bears are hardly over, they are letting up a bit. Chicago is 3-4 this season and has played on even terms with teams like Buffalo and Minnesota. Huff credits the turnaround to an improved level of communication among players and coaches and the hiring of a new general manager.

"I think it is very important to have everybody from the owner down through the general manager, coach, quarterback and players to be on the same level, all working toward the same thing," Huff said. "That's why after some games Abe (Gibron, Bears' head coach) will call me into the office and talk to me about some of the things I've been saying to the press."

"For instance, after the Buffalo game I felt that they just plain beat us but Abe told the reporters that we were a young team and that's why we made mistakes."

"But I don't think you can blame every loss on the fact that we're young."

The new general manager is Jim Finks, formerly of the Minnesota Vikings.

"Jim is like any other efficiency expert hired by a corporation," Huff said. "He hasn't talked to many players yet but has just been observing and seeing where changes could be made so the organization can run better."

"But I've got a sinking feeling that briefcase he carries around with him everywhere he goes has a big ax in it and when the season is over a lot of heads are gonna roll."

"Still, having Jim around will make it easier for the players when it comes to contracts and salaries. For instance I might go up to Abe and say I think I deserve a raise. He might say I think I deserve one too so we'll both go to Muggsy Halas but he might disagree. So we'll wind up with a three-way argument."

"With Jim the players will deal directly with him and he'll have the authority to grant or withhold raises."

"During the Buffalo game," Huff said, "Bo Rather ran what we call a flag route and I threw a pass to him that could have gone for a touchdown but he dropped it. Now I didn't think 'Damn you, Bo Rather, why did you drop my pass?' My first thought was, 'At least I put it there where he could catch it.' I had done my job and I felt good about that."

Class system would benefit harriers

Every year about this time the Fremd cross country team heads for the state meet. This year is no exception — the Vikings travel to Peoria Saturday for another championship race. They are a good bet to win their second state title in six years.

Also at this time of year, the rest of the Mid-Suburban League harriers hang up their spikes for another season. For them and their coaches it marks another year of varying success and frustration. For them, winning a berth in the state meet is nearly impossible.

The sad truth is that the Chicago area — and the Mid-Suburban League in particular — produces some superb cross country talent that will never see the light of day in Peoria or Champaign or wherever the state meet is held in the future.

With Fremd dominating the MSL and with teams like York, Maine East, and Proviso West capturing sectional spots for the state meet, other area squads don't have much of a chance to qualify.

"There will be teams at Peoria that we beat at the Mattoon Invitational and that Palatine beat at Mattoon," said Hersey cross country coach Larry Travis. "But that's the way it is. We've got a very strong sectional — probably the strongest sectional in the state. Year after year, we get a lot of quality teams."

Fremd is a strong team and they deserve to represent the area in the state meet. But there are other local teams with just as much a right to battle for the state title as some downstate squads that squeezed through easy sectionals.

This year Palatine and Conant built strong teams that would have done well in Peoria. The Pirates and the Cougars tied for second place behind Fremd in the MSL standings.

But they couldn't buck the awesome competition at the Maine East sectional where only three teams can qualify for the state meet. Plenty of other good squads couldn't make it at Maine East — Deerfield, Barrington, Evanston, and Maine West, to name a few.

"I'm not the kind of guy to toot my own horn or anything," said Conant coach Jack Ary. "but we've been overshadowed by Fremd this year. I wouldn't take anything away from them — they're a good team and I hope they win the state title. That would be good for the conference."

Ary's team might have been tough enough to win several of the state's 24 district meets, not to mention some of the sectionals. But at Maine East, the Cougars could get only a fifth place, not good enough to qualify for the state meet behind Fremd, Maine East, and Waukegan.

Conant did get fine performances from its harriers, including a qualifying seventh spot for senior Mark Kaufman and 17th and 18th place efforts from Dave Elderkin and Mike Moran.

But Conant will stay home Saturday while Fremd and Maine East journey to Peoria. Ary thinks that the state cross country meet should be divided into classes like the state track meet, giving more big Chicago area schools a chance to compete.

"Cross country being a team sport, I think they should have two classes," said Ary. "It would make more sense than having a class system in track where it's more of an individual thing."

Travis agreed: "With a class setup, you'd have maybe five sectionals in the Chicago area instead of three. That would break up the competition a little."

A plan of this type would mean that smaller "Class B" schools from downstate wouldn't have to run against the bigger schools. It would also mean that more of the strong suburban schools could qualify for the meet in Class A.

Fremd coach Ron Menely is in favor of the idea, and as a member of the IHSA advisory board for cross country, he can do something about it.

"We requested it last year," Menely said. "We won't know anything until we get to the advisory board meeting in November, though. Our primary purpose is to equalize the competition so that A-level teams and B-level teams have an equal chance to win a title. The secondary purpose is to get more A-level schools into the state meet."

But Menely has run into opposition from the IHSA, where the desire is for two state meets of 12 teams each. Menely and several other coaches would prefer two 24-team races.

"The way the IHSA wants to do it," said the Fremd coach, "is to eliminate sectionals and go with maybe 12 districts for each class with only the winner qualifying. But that would be worse than what we have now. Then teams like Waukegan and Maine East wouldn't qualify."

"The IHSA is only concerned about having a geographical state champion. They don't want to reward the athletes for their hard work. On the other hand,

Lions drop to third in state poll after loss

St. Viator's 10-7 loss to St. Francis De Sales didn't hurt the Lions in the state rankings as much as might have been expected as they dropped only a single notch to third place.

East St. Louis, which had been pressing Viator for second place the last couple weeks, inherited the No. 2 perch with an 8-0 record. St. Laurence remained atop everybody, 22 points ahead of the runnerup team.

St. Viator is also the only vanquisher of Evanston and the Wildkats moved to within a single point of the Lions in fourth place. They were tied for fourth with Rockford East.

Another top team, Hinsdale Central, also lost. The Red Devils were upset by York and dropped from ninth to tenth ranking with a 6-2 record.

The 1, 2 and 3A rankings remained close with only nine points separating the top three teams. Decatur St. Teresa held onto the top spot, closely pushed by Monmouth and West Chicago. All three teams are 8-0.

"I guess it's got to be frustrating for the other teams," said Menely. "I just thank our lucky stars that we've gotten as far as we have."

HOT-DOGGER of the Year in 1973, Wayne Wong will dazzle visitors at the Expowinter '74 Ski Show at Arlington Park with a variety of unbelievable acrobatic stunts.

Ski blizzard hits Arlington

by JIM COOK
Outdoor Editor

There's no business like snow business and winter sports enthusiasts will get a shovel full at the Expowinter '74 Ski Show that opens tomorrow and closes Sunday at Arlington Park.

This year's edition, co-sponsored by the Chicago Metropolitan Ski Council and the U.S. Ski Association, has snowballed into one of the largest exhibits in the nation.

And well it should: Estimates for this year, despite rumbles from inflation and the energy crisis, predict that over one-half million Americans will challenge the slopes and spend almost $200 million in the process.

The appealing aspect of the sport is that it draws a universal audience. From thumb-suckers to senior citizens, skiing is an adventure that poses no limitations.

Once a luxury for only well-to-do, upper-class sportsmen, ski lifts are now towing presidents (Gerald Ford is an avid skier) and those on welfare.

Enjoying the countless exhibits and booths at Expowinter '74 may be as exhausting as navigating a cross-country skier's route.

Innovations in ski equipment and fashions, alone, are eye-catching magnets. The full line of skis, bindings, boots, poles and accessories will be displayed at Skiing Magazine's "Skiing Equipment Theatre."

The theatre also will feature slides and films about ski equipment, explain the details of informative, but confusing labels, provide approximate retail prices and recommend the degree of ability needed to handle the equipment properly.

With the advent of popular "shortie" skis, learning the fundamentals is a matter of hours rather than days or weeks. Also outdated is the old rule of thumb that says the length of the ski should extend from the floor to the skier's overhead, outstretched arm.

Those who are conscious about their appearance on the slopes will flock to the Ski Fashion Circus, a unique approach to modeling new apparel.

The Reges Family Troupe will don various garments... pants, ski jeans, jackets, jumpsuits and parkas... on the trapeze, trampolines and performing rope.

Perhaps the most populated area in the exposition hall will be the bargain basement where used ski equipment is sold and swapped.

Skiers who want to display their items for sale may bring them when the show opens tomorrow. There is a nominal fee for each person selling in the swap, plus a small service charge per item sold.

The seller need not stay with the equipment, but must claim the proceeds from the sales or the unsold equipment when the Ski Show closes Sunday.

Another gimmick that promises to draw hordes of skiers is the Boot Try-On Island. The major brands of Scott, Koflach, Hanson, Technica and Raichle will be available for fitting, walking around and talking with experienced boot fitters.

And for those who associate skiing with broken legs, there will even be a phys-

Reap catfish stocking

Catfish anglers will be interested in knowing that flathead catfish averaging 15 pounds have been stocked in three Illinois lakes. Sang Chris Lake received 125 of the big catfish, Baldwin Lake gained 60 and Greenville Lake had eight planted. Biologists predict the catfish are spawning in June and July and provide excellent angling in the future.

Wong is clearly a magician on skis as his "hot-dogging" ventures on a moving ski mountain will suggest.

A special Ski Touring Course, a 70-foot indoor track covered with "poly-snow" will give interested cross-country skiers a chance to perform under simulated conditions.

Comedy relief will be supplied by Rudi Wyrsh, the Clown Prince of Skiing, whose agility on stilts will humble even the top downhillers.

A beer garden and live rock band will also entertain visitors of the Ski Show. Hours for Thursday's opening day show are from 6-11 p.m., resuming Friday from 6 p.m. to midnight, continuing Saturday from 1 p.m. to midnight and concluding Sunday from 1-7 p.m.

Sponsored by the YMCA, Fitness Island will conduct a simple heart recovery test to show the general cardiovascular fitness of an athlete.

As a skier steps up and down for three minutes, his pulse recovery rate is measured. Supervisors will be happy to recommend a variety of exercises to get the skier in better physical shape.

Once past the preliminaries of equipment and clothing, the skier will be anxious to investigate the best skiing locations that will suit his gear and budget.

Ski Vacation Village offers expert travel information, lodging and package and charter tours from a least expensive trip to the most luxurious and for the beginner searching for bunny slopes to the seasoned skier hunting for the deepest powder in the Rockies or Alps.

Area fisherman snags giant salmon with lakefront cast

Outdoor Editor

It was a gray morning in October when Lou Martin of 816 W. St. James in Arlington Heights planned his day. Lou wouldn't have it any other way.

The former butcher at Howland's Meat Market in downtown Arlington, Martin was now relaxing from his new job as custodian at Arlington High School.

Lou's first order of business was to buy a new five and one-half foot worm rod — the durable kind that tames the giant muskies and northerns.

But Lou Martin was headed east, straight east toward Diversy Harbor and Lake Michigan, with his rod and tackle. He wasn't alone when he began rigging the end of his line with hardware.

Other fishermen were there, slinging metallic lures through the 10-foot sea of blue. The target was salmon.

"It's called snagging," Martin explained. "You tie a treble hook and a one-ounce sinker and heave it as far as you can. You wait for it to hit the bottom and then rip it through the water."

"By repeating the process, you're likely to snag the salmon that are now starting to swim into the shallows."

Last Tuesday, Lou Martin snagged dinner for a week.

"It was cloudy and cool," Martin remembered. "Ideal conditions for snagging. You don't want it sunny or warm, because the salmon dive into the deep water and out of reach of shore fishermen."

As he yanked his treble hook and weight off the bottom, Martin sank the barbs into a monster 20-pound, 1-ounce chinook and the battle was on.

But with the proper equipment, the chinook was no match for the 54-year-old angler. "I got him about three inches behind the head," Martin said.

Just four days before, Martin was in the same situation... tugging on a giant salmon. "I had a six and one-half foot light-action spinning rod and the thing just splintered in my hands. So I guess you could call this a revenge trip."

"They were catching them all around me," Martin said. "I would say there were about six caught beside mine and some of them were bigger, too," he grudgingly admitted.

Ironically, fishing from boats was spottier than the shorebirds. Reports from Lincoln Park Lagoon indicate that respectable numbers of brown trout and chinook were being taken.

The same conditions extend across the border into Wisconsin where browns and chinook are being snagged at both Port Washington and Milwaukee.

Many are being caught by anglers near the mouth of the Pike River in Kenosha harbor and at 68th street.

"I'm going to fillet it like a walleye," Martin concluded. "This should be good for a couple meals."

Hot fishing ahead

The Illinois Department of Conservation says it has taken a sampling of Lake Shelbyville and found an excellent reproduction of white and largemouth bass, crappie and shad. The department said the results indicate fishing should be better than ever next spring because shad are necessary food for predator fish.

To prevent spooking and quick bag limits

Identify ducks; then pull trigger

Many duck hunters are unable to identify ducks and geese on the wing, but those with the experience to determine what waterfowl species they are dealing with before it is within shooting range constantly enjoy more successful seasons.

For example, I once hunted with a novice who was quick to knock down a low flying merganser shortly after the season opened. By shooting at the bird, he warned an incoming flock of scaup of our presence.

A short while later, after moving to a marsh pothole, the same novice bagged two coots as three mallards were heading toward our decoys.

Both mistakes were costly, but because

Vic Watia

It was the opening day we eventually ended up with our limit of ducks. If it had been later in the season when birds were not as plentiful in the area, shooting at the merganser and coots could have ruined the day.

Being able to identify ducks on the wing is especially important today because of the point system in filling bag limits. Shooting high-point ducks, which are determined by their scarcity, puts less fowl on the table and is not a good conservation practice.

The novice duck hunter must learn that each duck varies not only in color, shape, size, action and voice, but habitat as well.

For example, puddle ducks such as mallards and pintails, frequent marshes, potholes, rivers and other shallow water areas. They dabble for food rather than submerging, ride high on the water and take off directly upward.

Diving ducks, such as the merganser, generally look for deep bodies of water, such as lakes and bays. These ducks feed deep under the water on fish and aquatic plants, except for canvasbacks and redheads which like wild celery and eel grass. During takeoff, the birds patter along the water.

Each flock of ducks maneuvers differently, and such maneuvers can aid in determining what species is approaching. Flocks of mallards and pintails will fly in loose groups, whereas teal and shovelers stay in small bunches. Canvasbacks will form waving lines to temporary "V's" and mergansers may fly in single file.

The novice also must learn to study silhouettes, looking for the size of heads, bills, bodies and tails. When the ducks are close enough, locating colors in the proper areas can lead to positive identification.

Ducks also make certain sounds in flight, not only with voice but with wings. Some ducks voice a quack, others can whistle or squeal. The wings of a goldeneye in flight make a whistling sound, whereas the wood duck's wings make more of a swishing sound.

The novice can make it easier on himself by first concentrating on how to identify waterfowl he plans to hunt the most. If he is a puddle duck hunter, he should concentrate on species in that category. The same goes for the hunter after diving ducks.

Duck blind sites

Fifty blind sites will be drawn daily for waterfowl hunting this season at Sangchris Lake State Park, southeast of Springfield. Shooters will be required to furnish boat blinds and a minimum of 12 decoys.

Two waterfowl refuge areas have been established on the lake. For more information, contact the ranger at Sangchris or write the Conservation Department Division of Wildlife Resources at 605 State Office Bldg., Springfield, Ill., 62706.

FLIGHT SPEED OF DUCKS

The speed of a duck's flight depends on two factors. Its ability to fly through the air by its own exertions; and the helping or hindering influence of the wind. For most ducks, ordinary flight is around 40 to 50 m.p.h. plus an additional 10 to 15 m.p.h. when chased. Contrary to popular opinion, mallard and pintail are faster than teal. Canvasback, when chased, have been timed at 72 m.p.h. Thus, a badly frightened canvasback with a 30 m.p.h. tail wind, would be capable of reaching 100 m.p.h. ground speed.

Open your eyes on the slopes

Skiers who wear prescription lenses find it difficult, if not impossible, to wear ski goggles over their glasses. And on a dull, grey, snowy day on the slopes it's a lot easier to judge those moguls when you see them through an amber or smoke brown lens.

Embassy Creations distributes a ski goggle that solves this problem for the skier who needs prescription lenses. The Super See'r has an inner carrier that holds the prescription lenses between the tinted outer lens and the clear inner lens. And prescription ground lenses are easily inserted, so you have a pair of prescription ski goggles.

The Super See'r is properly insulated to prevent fogging. The polycarbonate, impact resistant outer lens can be ordered in either amber or smoke brown tints. And all lenses are polished for optical clarity.

Check with your optical practitioner or write: Embassy Creations, Suite 2701, 2650 North Lakeview, Chicago, Ill., 60614.

Michigan ripped by fires

For the first four months of this year, 411 forest fires had burned 2,460 acres in Michigan. Only 2,664 acres were burned in all of 1973. This is a strong indication of exactly how dry and fire-conductive the woods up north have been. Watch those cigarettes and campfires. Most of the fires are man-made!

The Ski Show. It's a good time for everybody.

The Wong Way. On the Ski Machine.

"I gotta try it! I'm so turned on. It's outta sight. Wayne Wong... skiing... in person! Clendonin and all... whedies, daffies... their whole bag. Freestyle is sure where it's at. I can't wait for snow."

Deals. Bargains. The Ski Vacation Village.

"Every year Bill and I shop the Ski Show for the best places to ski. This year it's places we can afford. The new SKI Vacation Village answered all our questions... how to go, where to stay. We're skiing Nepal in January."

Buy low. Sell high. The Ski Swap.

"Me! Every fall I clean out my ski closet. At the Ski Show I shop the Ski Swap for good used skis. Used skis? Who cares. I save a bundle!"

Hot new stuff. The SKIING Equipment Theater.

"I've never seen anything like the SKIING Equipment Theater! In one place, everything new—skis, boots, bindings. This is the way to shop, compare, get the right answers to everybody's needs, from skiing experts."

Nothing-but-the-best. The Ski Film Festival.

"Forget Cannes, baby, this is it. The five best ski movies of the year, bar none. Listen, sweethearts, you can feel the wind in your hair. I'm so turned on I can't stand myself. I may even go skiing!"

Unbelievable! A Ski Fashion Circus.

"(giggle, giggle) Darling! It's unbelievable. To begin with, ski clothes are dynamite. But can you see putting them in a circus? On a trapeze? Trampolines, acrobats, clowns? It's unique. I'm glad I came!"

Skier's pulse. The "Y" Fitness Test.

"I can't believe it happened to me. At the Ski Show they have this easy exercise test. The YMCA exhibit. I failed. They said 'EXERCISE! Don't ski 'til you get in shape! Me! I still can't believe it!'"

A Ski Show is a happy thing. Something for everybody. Fun things to do. Lively exhibits, exciting demonstrations. See, enjoy and learn what's new in skiing. Everything, under one roof, at one time. Money-saving deals on equipment & trips. Contests, games, prizes and much you probably won't see anywhere else. Things to make your skiing better, safer, happier, and give you more for your money.

LIGHTENING THE LOAD. Hershey quarterback Scott Topczewski loses the handle on the football Friday against Arlington as Greg Kleiber (81) and other Cardinal linemen rush in. The junior quarterback never did find the pigskin, but teammate Dave Carey recovered it for a five-yard loss on the play. Pressure from the Arlington defensive unit forced a pair of interceptions and kept the Huskies in hot water all night. Arlington won, 13-7.

Viator in water polo finals, open Friday with Fenwick

St. Viator's varsity water polo team has advanced to state finals this weekend at Glenbrook North High School. The Lions made their move last Saturday, winning the second of two games, 7-3, against GBN's Spartans in eliminations held at New Trier West.

Under coach John Fleck, the Lions lost on Saturday to Glenbrook, 8-7, before tightening their defense to win by four goals.

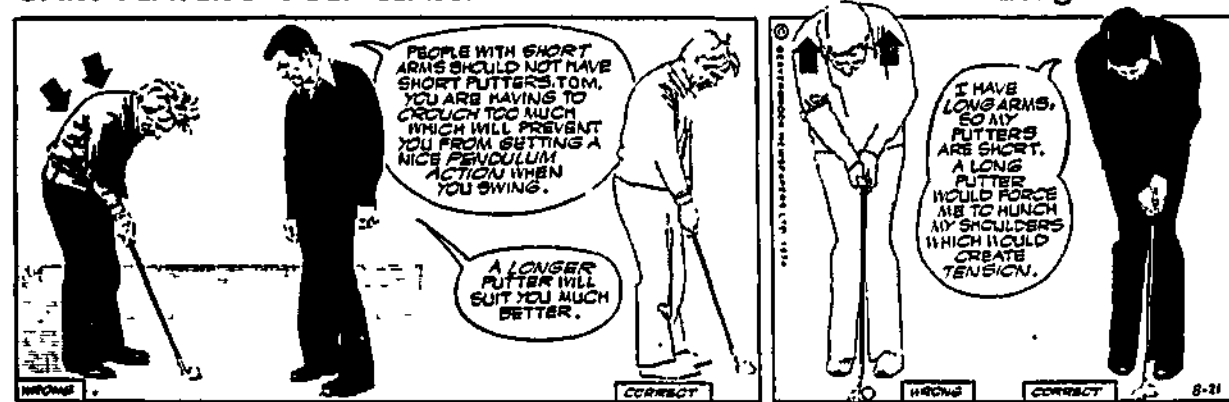

On Friday evening, these games held at Glenbrook North, the Lions beat Glenbrook South, 14-7, and Thornridge, 8-7. Then competition moved to New Trier.

St. Viator, Loyola, Oak Park and Fenwick comprise one of two brackets for state finals. The other bracket includes Rock Island, Mount Carmel, Brother Rice and Evanston.

The Lions open their state title quest at 5 p.m., Friday, against Fenwick, a traditional power from the Catholic League. They'll play Loyola Academy at 10 a.m., Saturday, and Oak Park at 2 p.m.

Saturday's championship game gets off at 8:30 p.m. with the third place preliminary at 7:15 p.m. For information on other pairings, contact the Glenbrook North athletic department at 272-6400.

Hockey season gets underway for prep boys

Prospect, Forest View and the Junior "B" Minor Hawks were first week winners in Northwest Suburban High School hockey played last Saturday at the Arlington Spectrum.

The Knights from Prospect were 8-4 winners over Elk Grove with Jere Weber scoring four goals. Dicky Duell two and Timmy Cunningham two. Javers scored twice for Elk Grove with Larry Mitsch and Rodseth contributing one goal apiece.

Four young men scored goals as Forest View's Falcons beat Buffalo Grove, 7-4. Kleir had a hat trick while Kuwa scored two goals, Jim Ryan one and Woloshyn one. For the Bison, Schneck put in two pucks while Mastendrea and Newton scored one apiece.

The Minor Hawks clobbered Barrington, 8-1, with Marshall's four goal performance the highlight. Carmen, Richmond, Kurtzas and Luitgaarden added single goals.

Saturday's schedule for the Spectrum shows Buffalo Grove vs. Cary Grove (3:30 p.m.), Prospect vs. Barrington (4:50 p.m.), Forest View vs. Crystal Lake (6:30 p.m.) and Elk Grove vs. Elgin (8 p.m.).

Metro Hockey League to open Sunday at Randhurst

Thirty-eight teams face off to start the third season of the Chicago Metropolitan High School Hockey League on Sunday, Nov. 3, with action taking place in five divisions.

In the Northwest Division, eight teams will play eighty-four games at Randhurst Twin Ice Arena, Mount Prospect, on Thursday evenings and Sunday afternoons through mid-February — followed by playoffs in each division and league playoff championships in March. Each team plays a 21-game schedule.

Initial encounters this Sunday at Randhurst are as follows:

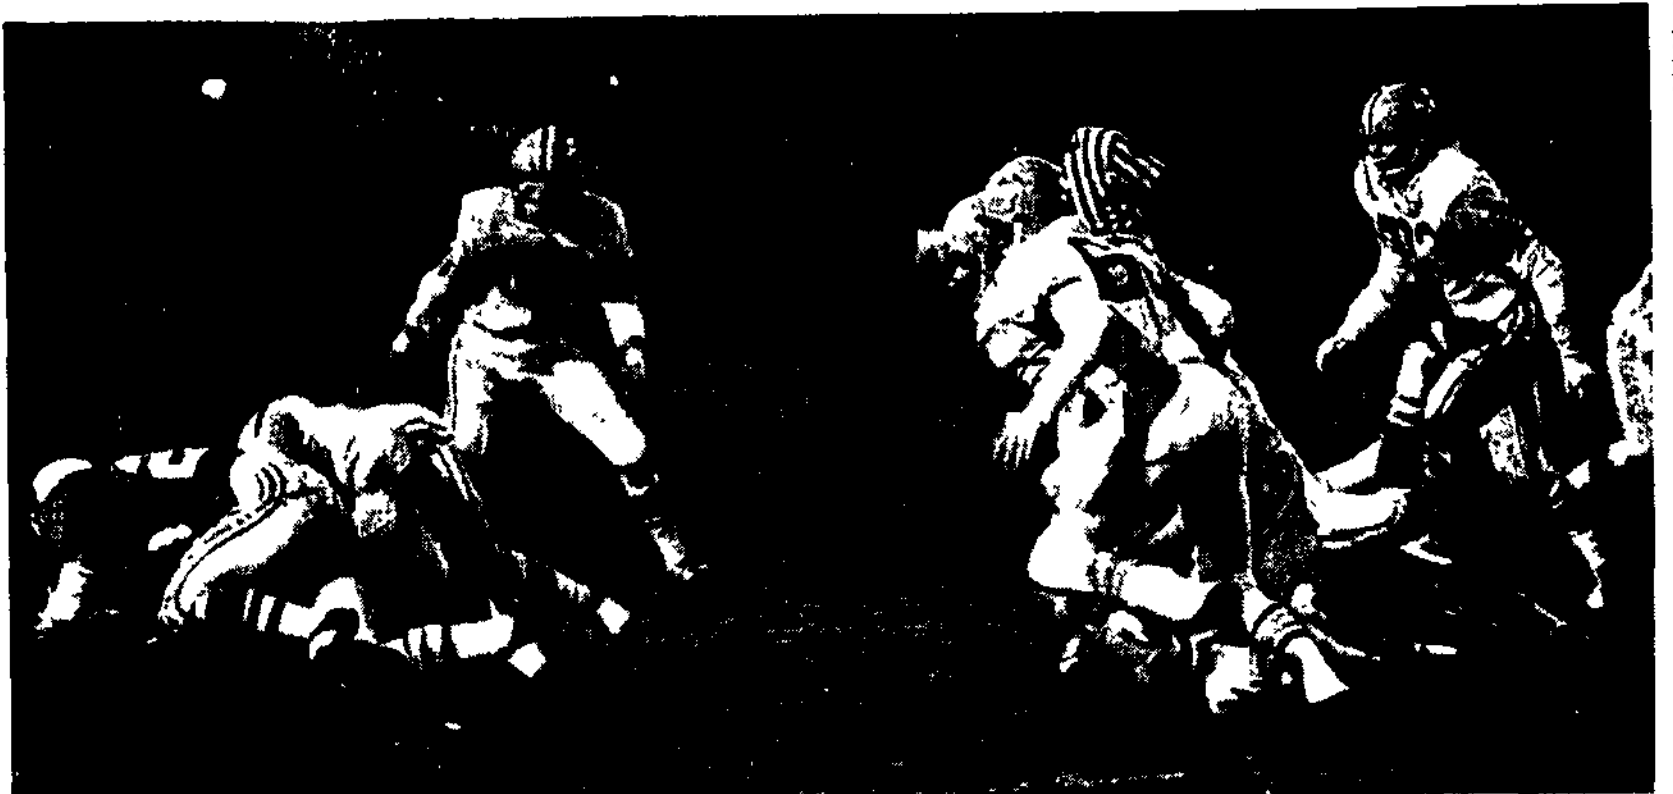

Arlington High School vs. Driscoll High School (Addison) at 12:30 p.m.; William Fremd (Palatine) vs. John Hersey (Arlington Heights) at 2:00 p.m.; Lake Forest vs. Palatine at 3:30 p.m.; and Rolling Meadows vs. St. Viator (Arlington Heights) at 5:00 p.m. Next games are scheduled at Randhurst on Thursday, Nov. 7, with Arlington meeting St. Viator at 7:00 p.m. and Palatine vs. Rolling Meadows at 8:30 p.m. The public is invited to all games. The Randhurst Arena has good bleacher seating for 2,500 spectators. A nominal $1 admission charge is payable at the door prior to each game.

The Chicago Metro High School Hockey League is a non-profit organization affiliated with the Illinois Amateur Hockey Association. The League is comprised of boys attending the various high schools and has grown from 32 teams in 1973, to the present 38-team League.

Last year, Evanston High School beat Proviso West in Class AA playoffs to capture the Scholastic Cup, and Deerfield bested Willowbrook to win the Founder's Cup in class A competition.

A complete League game schedule is available at Randhurst Twin Ice Arena, located at the southeast corner of the Randhurst Shopping Center parking lot, Rts. 12 and 83, Mount Prospect, or by writing Mr. Dick Abrahamson, 1441 Lake Louise Dr., Palatine.

SCRAMBLING GRIDDERS from Hersey and Arlington converge on the football in Arlington's 13-7 win Friday.

Hawk grid coach pleased with season

Hoffman finishes with perfect record

"We're extremely happy the way things ended up," said Bill Gourley, Hoffman Estates' head coach, after his junior varsity team had concluded a perfect season.

The Hawks, proud holders of an 8-0 record, stopped a tough Fenton team at Hoffman Estates Monday, 22-7.

"I was glad to be able to play the last three games (also Prospect and Hersey) that we did," continued Gourley. "It was better competition."

"Fenton brought all the juniors that had played on the varsity and brought up sophomores. We did, too (sophomores, that is), and it made for a much better game. It gives us more of an idea what we have to do."

Hoffman Estates' offense set up Fenton for its only touchdown by fumbling deep in their own territory in the first quarter. The Bison punched it in from about 35 yards out to become the first team to take the lead on Hoffman all year. They are only the third team that's managed to score a touchdown this season. The others were Prospect and Bufalo Grove.

The Hawks took the lead for good in the second period. Dave Lipko capped a drive with a two-yard run. The two-point conversion made it 8-7.

Hoffman got eight more in the third quarter. Wayne Jackson hit Joe Gajewski for a 25-yard searing strike.

Lipko brought down the curtain to the 1974 campaign in the fourth quarter, breaking a draw play for a 45-yard touchdown. The game was called after that dazzler because of darkness. Five minutes remained on the clock.

The Hawk defense, proud holder of five shutouts, limited the Bison to 89 total yards. Meanwhile, Hoffman's offense rolled up 231 yards.

"We did accomplish some of the things we set out to do," said Gourley. "Now we've got our third phase to work on. We're having a meeting today (Tuesday) to set up the ground work of what I think the kids have to do over the winter ... to do the things that a varsity schedule demands."

Chevrolet, Shell teams hot

by GENE KIRKHAM

Des Plaines Lanes hosted the Paddock Classic League with two teams moving up a notch in the standings and Des Plaines Ace Hardware increasing their lead over Formco Metal Products to five points.

Arnie Yusim Chevrolet moved into a tie for third place with a seven point win over Kolo Real Estate with every game within the 10 to 20 pin range.

Arnie Yusim won 933 to Kolo's 923, 988 to 960 and 908 to 896 with a 2829 total. Carl Mackerer led his team with 190, 233, and 193 for a 616 series. For Kolo Realty Glen Chessier rolled a 640 series with games of 223, 210, and 207.

Rolling Meadows Shell was the other seven point winner of the night as they defeated Teddy's Liquors in a match that could have gone either way at any time. Scores were up and down in this match as all of the teams changed lanes every game. Al Jordan's 583 for Rolling Meadows Shell was high.

Des Plaines Ace Hardware maintained their lead over Formco Metal Products with a five point win in an exciting match.

Formco won two points by winning the first game with a 958 while Ace rolled 986 to win the second game.

The final game went down to the wire featuring a 251 game by Don Christensen of Ace Hardware and a 267 game by Mike Shoop of Formco.

The final score in that game was 1028 for Ace Hardware to 1015 for Formco Metal Products.

Shoop of Formco led the scoring individually for the night. Starting with a 172 game Shoop rolled an even 500 the next two games with 233 and 267 for his 672 series.

For Des Plaines Ace Hardware Don Christensen rolled 172, 214, and 251 for a 637 series. Ron Garr had 177, 212, and 213, for 602.

Sullivan Pontiac and Ace Products traded points with Sullivan winning four and Ace winning three. Sullivan won the first two games by six pins and by 14 pins with Ace winning the final game by enough to give the series point 2712 to 2633.

Paddock Classic member Carl Mackerer of Arnie Yusim Chevrolet had one of those once-in-a-lifetime scores recently at Mages River Road Bowl. Bowling with a borrowed ball in a mixed league with his wife, Mackerer shot 290, 202, and 300 for a 792 series. Congratulations on that spectacular shooting.

Paddock Classic bowlers can be seen at Beverly Lanes Nov. 2 with the following games scheduled: Des Plaines Ace Hardware vs. Arnie Yusim Chevrolet, Kolo Realty vs. Formco Metal Products, Teddy's Liquors vs. Sullivan Pontiac, and Ace Products vs. Rolling Meadows Shell.

Blues dazzle in Pee Wee hockey

In a shutout for goalie Joe DePinto, the Des Plaines Blues Pee Wee traveling team defeated the Niles Park District 6-0. Mike Evans and Dan Edwards pushed in goals in the second period while Bob Wagner, Scott Martini and Tony Cardona each tipped in a goal in the third period.

Assists were credited to Greg Beth, Bob Cain and Martini.

The Blues extended their winning streak with a 3-0 slaughter of Crystal Lake in an invitational tournament. Hat tricks were scored by Greg Beth, Billy Berner and Dan Edwards. The other six goals were scored by Bob Wagner, Scott Martini, Dan Hicken, Tony Cardona, Mark Rosella and Jeff Orsini.

Scott Martini and Jeff Orsini each scored breakaway goals during the Blues' 6-1 cake-walk past the Hoffman Park District. Martini scored a second time with an assist from Steve Grantz. Other goals were scored by Dan Hicken, Billy Berner and Dan Edwards.

Assists were earned by Steve Grantz, Jeff Orsini and Mike Evans.

On Oct. 21, Cass Ford took the lead in the Quilt Pee Wee league as they defeated Kunkel Realty 4-1. Cass goals were scored by Steve Grantz and Mike Martini with two and Mike Evans. Kunkel goals were notched by Bob Seaholm, Dan Tomaszewski and Greg Beth with two.

The game is scheduled to begin at 6:15 p.m. with ticket prices at $1.50 for adults and $.75 for students.

In recent high school action at the Rolling Meadows complex, the Rolling Meadows varsity hockey club defeated Arlington 5-3.

Hunsberger rolls 675

Striking captures 7 points

by GENE KIRKHAM

Bowling at Hoffman Lanes the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League had the highest individual score of the season while Striking Lanes tightened their grip on first place.

Joan Hunsberger of Mason Shoes was the individual star of the night as she powered Mason Shoes to a five point win over Sullivan Pontiac. Joan had games of 212, 246, and 217 for the highest individual series of the season, 675.

Irma Faust of Mason rolled a 203-550 series. For Sullivan Pontiac: Ruth Baurhyte had 206-538, Lou Lass had 222-522, and Betty Parkhurst had 503.

Striking Lanes had the only seven point win of the night as they defeated Des Plaines Lanes all three games.

Striking increased their first half lead to nine points over second place L-Tran Engineering.

Des Plaines Lanes was led by Bobbie Kosteiny with a 204 game and a 566 series while Striking had 544 from Bette Brelle, 541 from Lu Schoenberger, and 515 from Judy Brumond.

Ten Pin Bowl won five of seven points from L-Tran Engineering, winning the first game by six pins as L-Tran won the second by 11 pins.

Ten Pin took the third game and the series point as they were led by Ethel Junger with 211-560, Marge Lindenberg with 203-534, Gloria Lucchesi with 203-527, and Betty Peterman with 506.

For L-Tran, Sue Wentworth had 547 with a 213 game, Isobel Kosi had 520, Marlis Pleckhardt had 518, and Tosh Inahara had 505.

Thunderbird Country Club rolled 923 and 911 the second and third games to win those two and the series point from Ziebart of Des Plaines who won the first game for two points.

Jean Ladd had 213, 177, and 190 for a 580 series, Mary Yurs had a 234 game and a 533 series, Joan Wisniewski had 535, and Dee Kachelmuss had 533 for Thunderbird Country Club.

For Ziebart of Des Plaines, Peggy Harris had 171, 210, and 192 for 573, and Tiny Cazel had 529.

Next week's schedule has the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League bowling at Beverly Lanes with the following games scheduled: Des Plaines Lanes vs. Thunderbird Country Club, Striking Lanes vs. Ziebart Rustproofing, Sullivan Pontiac vs. Ten Pin Bowl, and Mason Shoes vs. L-Tran Engineering.

Parents seek improved services

Facilities lacking for deaf-blind child

"FEEL THE SOUND," urges Mrs. Mickey Paprocki, teacher, as she uses the vibration technique to gain Mark's attention, establish eye contact and elicit some kind of vocalization. Mark, deaf-blind since birth, frequently makes sounds of his own, but has not yet learned to imitate sounds or form words.

by ELEANOR RIVES

The "rubella bulge," that's what they call it, those parents of handicapped children, ages 7, 8 and 9, whose numbers swell the statistics and bubble the graph line as a result of the mid-'60s measles epidemic.

Mrs. Norman Hafertepe of Mount Prospect is one such parent. Her second child, Mark, 7 years old, was born both deaf and blind. His brother, Eric, is 9.

Carol Hafertepe contracted rubella (German measles) in her first month of pregnancy. When Mark was born with cataracts, the doctor recognized at once that he was a "measles" baby. Within the first few weeks of his life, when he showed no reflex action to loud noises, it was apparent that he also had an almost complete hearing loss. Chances are he is retarded, perhaps just mentally delayed. It's difficult to test a young deaf-blind child.

WHEN MARK reached 18 months of age, his mother began her never-ending round of ferreting out services and training that would help her son develop his full potential.

At the Winnetka Institute of Hearing and Speech, he underwent innumerable tests, was fitted with hearing aids in both ears and started on a program of speech therapy and tactile stimulation. When he was 2 years 6 months, Carol began taking him to Michael Reese Hospital three days a week.

"We spent more time traveling than the total four hours of tutoring each week," said Carol.

In Illinois, the state is required to provide educational services for children ages 3 to 21 with certain handicaps. If the local school district is not equipped to do this, the state reimburses the school district up to $2,000 per year to purchase private resources for the child.

ONCE MARK reached the age of 3, the state paid for his training. He continued at Michael Reese. Then at 4 years of age, the Hafertepe, through an arrangement between the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization (NSSEO) and the Special Education Department of Lake County (SEDO), placed him in a Lake County special education school.

The following summer Mark spent six weeks at Michigan State School for the Blind, a federally subsidized program in Lansing, a deaf-blind regional center.

At age 5, Mark, then able to walk, entered the Samuel A. Kirk Center in Palatine, a public school for handicapped and retarded children. Now at Kirk, still the only deaf-blind child in the school, he is beginning to outgrow the program there and perhaps should soon go somewhere else.

WHERE IS somewhere else?

The deaf-blind combination is an unusual one. Parents of deaf-blind children are faced with unusual problems. In Illinois, 160 children between the ages of 0 to 21 are deaf-blind. For 111 of the 160, the Greater Chicago area is home. Yet the two major residential centers for deaf-blind children are in Springfield and Jacksonville.

Springfield or Jacksonville — these are the options open to Mark and his parents. How do parents maintain family ties when their child is 200 or 235 miles away?

To meet problems such as these, parents of deaf-blind children, professionals and other interested persons formed the Illinois Association for Parents of the Deaf-Blind in May 1973. Carol Hafertepe, charter member, assumed the post of second vice president, and subsequently first vice president.

THE PURPOSE of the association is to upgrade services and resources for deaf-blind children, working for educational and training programs for the kids, to educate the public to the children's needs and the fact that they're around, and to keep the membership informed, by means of a newsletter, of all current information relating to the deaf-blind.

What has been accomplished in the short year and a half of the organization's existence?

"We have a bill in committee at the state legislature," said Carol, who was one of only two parents of deaf-blind children who served on a state study committee last January, February and March.

THE COMMITTEE'S recommendation: "There should be a regional center in the metropolitan Chicago area since the major portion of the Illinois deaf-blind population lives here."

Carol added, "All resources for these children should be brought together in one center — residential and/or day care, depending upon what the parents desire. It's so costly to provide one child-one area programs. So many specialized services must be duplicated."

She added quickly, "Don't get me wrong — Kirk has a super program for my son, but people in another area may not have it so good. Parents of deaf-blind kids often must fight for what they want and need for their child in the local schools because of lack of trained teachers and of funds. There are so few facilities available to these kids.

"I HAVE BEEN TOLD there is only one certified deaf-blind teacher in the entire state of Illinois."

Parents of the deaf-blind were shocked by the federal administration's recent recommendation to the Congressional Appropriations Committee to cut funds subsidizing services and resources for the deaf-blind by more than $2 million. In fiscal 1974, the appropriation was $14,055,000; the recommendation for fiscal 1975 is $12 million. It could be disastrous to deaf-blind programs. Deaf-blind children and their parents need the security of continued resources and services, said Carol Hafertepe.

Readers who wish to help may write to Sen. Charles H. Percy, 1200 New Senate Office Bldg., and Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, 456 Old Senate Office Bldg., Washington, D. C. 20510. Those in the 12th congressional district may also address U. S. Rep. Phillip M. Crane, 1407 Longworth House Office Bldg., Washington, D. C. 20515; in the 10th district, U. S. Rep. Samuel H. Young, 226 Cannon House Office Bldg., Washington, D. C. 20515.

These lawmakers should be asked to restore funding of Title VI-C for deaf-blind children at least to its level of fiscal 1974.

Settlement of an estate

by JULIE MARTOCCIO

Dear Atty. Martoccio:

In regards to settlement of an estate, what is the time limit before there is a penalty? It is close to two years since my husband passed away, and no settlement yet. Thank you. — L.V.

Dear L.V.:

When all the bills and taxes are paid and a final accounting is given to the court by the executor or administrator, he is discharged from his duties. Usually the time limit is 18 months especially where an estate is small and there are no contested claims, lawsuits, etc. against it. It is then up to the court to dismiss the executor or administrator. Any violations of the probate court rules make the executor or administrator subject to penalty.

If, however, the estate involves a large sum of money or there are disputes between family members, the time can stretch out over a number of years!

Since you did not include specific information about the condition of your husband's estate, you may not find your answer in what appears above. Perhaps a short summary of what takes place when an estate is probated might help to clarify the situation.

• Probate means the process of proving a will in court. When you leave a will, your estate is managed by an executor named by you and your expressed wishes are carried out as closely as possible.

• If there is no will, the court will appoint an administrator and proceed to act under the laws of intestacy (who gets what when there is no will) to settle the estate. The executor or administrator then proceeds to carry out his many involved and specific duties with the necessary aid of a lawyer.

The following information will give you some idea of what an executor (from this point on, "executor" will also mean "administrator") must do before an estate may be closed.

• Locate the will, arrange for the burial of the deceased, collect and safely keep the deceased's effects, probate the will in court proving its validity, etc., and be appointed executor. After that the executor must take the next steps.

• Keep accurate records of all estate transactions, open the safe deposit box under the proper conditions of examination, etc., assume control of all personal property and do whatever is necessary to either liquidate or carry on the deceased's business.

• Determine the debts that are owing to the estate and provide for payment of them. Arrange for collection of insurance policies payable to the estate. The executor must also:

• Arrange for transferring stocks, bonds and other securities from the name of the deceased to the executor, pay all the taxes and other expenses of the estate.

• Have all real and personal property appraised for tax purposes.

• Defend the estate in suits that may arise against it, pay all the legacies to those named in the will, or those entitled to them when there is no will, and submit a final accounting to the court.

I hope you have found your answer from the information in this column. If you have not, I suggest you ask the attorney who is handling the estate the same question and also tell him why you are concerned.

(Readers are invited to submit questions regarding legal problems of women and children. Names and facts that would identify the writer are withheld on request. Hobbies add zest to life

If what you make best is a sour face, maybe you should explore the business of making something that's fun.

You do that by using hands and mind in the pursuit of a creative hobby.

Some guys have a hobby of watching girls and some gals have a hobby of watching guys. Such hobbies don't count in the hobbies recommended here.

Hobbies under discussion are the kind that give you a finished product — made by you. October, National Hobby Month, is time to review your activity on the front.

Psychologists maintain such hobbies add zest to life and give "pleasure you can measure."

For example, if before a hobby your best creation was a sour face, you'll probably be happier making something useful and maybe even beautiful or fun.

You'll make fewer sour faces, probably. Says Dr. William H. Van Precht, a psychoanalyst in New York:

"INTEGRATION of creative hobbies, family life and social activities can produce meaningful life experiences in which growth of individual capacity to enjoy life is allowed maximum opportunity for expression.

"Today, the complexities of everyday living brought about by advances in technology and science promote a greater potential for the development of anxiety and neurosis.

"An absorbing hobby interest may not be a cure all for most emotional difficulties, but it can offer periods of release from many tensions which tend to reduce the enjoyment of everyday life."

Another authority on the mental health front, Dr. Robert Mercer, a clinical psychologist in private practice in New York, told how hobbies contribute to the improvement of mental health. He said:

"Just as there is a primary instinct to seek food and shelter for physical self-preservation and growth, so there is — especially for human beings — an important second instinct, the instinct to be creative for mental self-preservation and growth.

"I mean an instinct, not just a disposition or predisposition.

"Instincts are something we are born with — innate patterns of potential behavior which are necessary to survival and growth. If we don't follow our instinctual behavior patterns, we get into trouble and suffer.

"THUS, ON THE physical level, if we fail to obtain food and shelter, we soon perish; on the mental level, if we fail to create we wither away, very slowly but very surely."

Dr. Van Precht sees the adoption of a creative hobby as a kind of antithesis to the relatively constant emotional tensions of work day or school day routine demands.

"A hobby offers diversion and relaxation," he said. "The mind and body needs a periodic change of pace and some enjoyable and non-compulsory recreational pursuits should occur for most persons every day.

"Much of the feeling of frustration and tiredness at work or school may be prevented through the constructive form of recreational therapy provided by hobbies."

Where families are concerned, hobbies are for sharing. Said Dr. Van Precht:

"Families who share hobby and crafts projects usually experience the warm, wonderful feeling that exists through working together, sharing their interests and having fun together."

WITCHES AND GOBLINS will be extending their Halloween visits to Saturday when they dine and dance at the Pumpkin Masquerade sponsored by Elk Grove Village Newcomers in the Elk Grove Elks Club. Ruthanne Dahlberg and Mary Bartram will be competing for costume prizes. The public, in spook costume or not, is invited. Tickets, $10, are available by calling 529-4972. The party begins with cocktails at 6:30. Dinner is at 7.

Juniors plan informal coffee for new members

An informal coffee for new members and prospective members of the Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club will be held at 8 next Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Carolyn Acuff, 801 S. I-Oka, Mount Prospect.

The club is a member of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and its work is devoted to philanthropy and service to the community. Monthly business meetings are held in the Mount Prospect Community Center the second Wednesday of each month and department meetings are held each month in members' homes.

Departments are small groups devoted to service in a specific area. This year they are fine arts, home life and family living, public affairs, youth and senior citizens.

THE NEXT monthly general meeting Wednesday, Nov. 13, will feature a program on transactional analysis by Dr. David Russell and a film presentation by the American Cancer Society concerning breast cancer.

Anyone interested in attending the coffee or wanting more information about the club may contact Mrs. Carolyn Acuff, 259-9706.

Bride wears family cross for her Sept. 21 wedding

Mr. and Mrs. R. Neil Hille

Law conference

DePaul University's Women's Caucus will be host for the 1974 Midwest Women and the Law Conference to be held Nov. 8-10 at the university, 25 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago.

Workshops will be conducted on "Women in the Labor Force," "Criminal Law and Institutions," "Women in Society," "Forms of Practice" and "Law as a Community Organizer."

Women in the Chicago area are invited. Cost of $10, including a banquet Saturday night. Further information may be obtained by calling WE 9-3525.

Keynote speaker will be Sarah Weddington, member of the Texas House of Representatives who argued before the U.S. Supreme Court the case which held Texas' abortion law to be unconstitutional.

A family keepsake was Mary Elizabeth Burhmann's "something old" on her wedding day, Sept. 21. At three in the afternoon she was married to R. Neil Hille of Mount Prospect, and in her bridal attire was a cross that her mother had worn, and also her grandmother, at their weddings.

Mary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Burhmann, 1886 Northshore Ave., Des Plaines. Her bridegroom's parents are the Willard Hilles of Denver, Colo.

They came east for the couple's double ring nuptials in Our Lady of Hope Catholic Church, Rosemont, and for the dinner reception which followed at the Colonial Inn Restaurant, Schiller Park. The bride and groom wrote their vows themselves.

DONNA ROSTKOWSKI of Des Plaines served as Mary's maid of honor. Her two sisters-in-law, Lori Buhrmann, Buffalo Grove, and Andie Buhrmann, Schaumburg, along with Pat Benacka, Des Plaines, were bridesmaids and Christine Buhrmann, 6, her niece, of Buffalo Grove, was flower girl.

At the altar with the groom was Wally Arnold of Round Lake Beach as best man. Groomsmen included the bride's brothers, Rick of Buffalo Grove and Hank of Schaumburg, and Tom Swanson of Carpentersville. The bride's 7-year-old nephew, Matthew Buhrmann of Schaumburg, was ring bearer.

A week's honeymoon at Niagara Falls and the White Mountains of New Hampshire followed for the couple, and they are now living in Mount Prospect. The bride works for International Health Products, Des Plaines; the groom for Robertson Photo Mechanix, Des Plaines.

Mary is a Maine West High School graduate of 1972. Neil attended Harper College.

Where to get UNICEF boxes

Halloween is here again, and for many groups of children and individuals it is becoming a time to think about others and Trick or Treat for UNICEF.

There are plenty of the orange and black cardboard collection boxes, 5,000 to be exact, on the open breezeway of the John Shubeck home at 628 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights. Groups and individuals wishing the boxes may pick them up anytime. Those wishing information on identification badges or other information about UNICEF may talk with the Shubecks when picking up the boxes or call them at 392-1313.

The Shubeck distribution point also serves all suburbs in the Arlington Heights area, according to UNICEF's Chicago office.

This year the United Nations Children's Fund has declared a worldwide emergency and hopes to raise extra funds to send food and medical supplies to victims of the famine which has seared Africa. More than 28 per cent of its budget in the United States comes from the Trick or Treat program.

Cupid's Deadlines:

Engagements due at least six weeks before wedding date.

Marriages due three weeks after wedding for complete story; five weeks after wedding for brief story.

ALPHA SIGMA ALPHA
North Suburban Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Sigma Alpha is planning a progressive dinner for Saturday. The dinner will begin in Park Ridge at the home of Gretchen Oster and continue on to the Mount Prospect home of Marge Tiedemann and the Schaumburg home of Judy Williams.

Alumnae have also planned a Founders' Day brunch for Nov. 18 at a local restaurant. For information on this and other upcoming activities readers may call Mrs. Williams, president, 885-1075.

KAPPA DELTA
Kappa Delta's Chicago Luncheon for 1974 will be held Saturday at Plentywood Farm, Bensenville. There will be a social hour from noon until luncheon at 1 p.m. Featured speakers will be Mr. and Mrs. Harold White with a poetry and slide presentation on their world travels entitled "Paths of Poets — I."

Any Kappa Deltas interested may contact Mrs. James Tomcik, Buffalo Grove, 537-3319.

Liz Carpenter will speak at Harper College Thursday

Liz Carpenter, press secretary to Lady Bird Johnson during President Lyndon B. Johnson's White House years, will speak on the "Women's Political Movement" at 2 p.m. Thursday in Room A242a, at Harper College, Palatine.

The speech, sponsored by Harper's Women's Program, is open to students and the public. There is no admission charge. Child care facilities available at a nominal cost may be reserved by phoning 397-3000, extension 248.

Mrs. Carpenter, author of "Ruffles and Flourishes, Reminiscences of My Years at the White House," has been touring the country speaking in favor of the Equal Rights Amendment and advocating women's participation in politics and government.

She currently is involved as a public relations executive, author and speaker and is active in the National Women's Political Caucus. Mrs. Carpenter is also completing her second book which takes a lighthearted look at the women of the '70s.

New life for furniture

Looking for ways of changing furnishings you already have? Try cutting the legs down or off old pieces of furniture. This will not only create a new piece, but it may also give the furniture a new function. For example, a small dining table quickly becomes a coffee table. A bar stool turns into a footrest.

For a Happy Life

It's fun in November to:

1. Eliminate debris and litter in your basement.
2. Spend an extra five minutes each morning on your personal appearance.
3. Take an eight-hour vacation.
4. Re-do a large old picture frame and use it to display family remembrances.
5. Cast off your fears and replace them with courage. Courage conquers all things.
6. Invite five favorite couples to a Harvest Brunch.
7. Buy one or two Christmas presents some sunny afternoon.
8. Note this by Henry Ward Beecher: "Every man should have a fair-sized cemetery in which to bury the faults of his friends."

Skim fat, skim calories with cooked-ahead roast

Dear Dorothy: I'm told there is a way to save on calories by making casseroles or soups a day ahead so that the fat congeals and can be lifted off. Do you know of any recipes like this? — Elizabeth Misham

Here's a fine one. Buy a round-bone chuck roast about two and a half inches thick. Sprinkle on a little flour and brown it on both sides in a little shortening. Brown a sliced onion on the side at the same time. Pour on a small can of tomato sauce and sprinkle four crushed ginger snaps over the whole thing.

Cover and let cook for about two hours in a 300-degree oven. Then add half a bouillon cube dissolved in a half-cup of water and a half-cup of red wine. When tender, take the meat out of the sauce, let cool and refrigerate.

Add about a tablespoon of lemon juice and a heaping tablespoon of brown sugar to the sauce. It may also need a bit of salt and pepper. Strain and refrigerate this sauce.

Next day, slice the meat, cutting away the visible fat. Lift the congealed fat off the sauce and warm the whole thing in a casserole. I use a glass 9 inches by 13 inches baking dish, placing the meat orderly and the sauce over it and cover the dish with foil. Low in calories and delicious!

The homeline

Dear Dorothy: Following a friend's suggestion, I've been adding a small box of baking soda to our cat litter box. Not only has it completely eliminated odors, but we now get double service out of each litter box change. — Evelyn Parzyk

Tip to brides: I know there is a mesh cover you can use to cover a pan when you're frying something. But a good substitute is to invert a colander over the pan. You'll find your food will fry crisply and you won't get hot grease on you or the wall next to the stove.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60004.)

There's love in the autumn air

Cynthia Ann Benson

Irene Bittner

Kathleen Burke

Jill Weith

"Sweetest Day" marked the engagement of Cynthia Ann Benson to Jan Taylor Svec, as announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent J. Armato of Mount Prospect. Jan is the son of the John R. Svec of Palatine.

The bride-to-be is a 1973 graduate of Hersey High School and works for Montgomery Ward in Mount Prospect. Her fiancé, a 1966 graduate of Oak Park-River Forest High School, is employed by the Elk Grove Village Post Office.

They plan to be married in November 1975.

The engagement of Irene E. Bittner to Edward F. Cauwels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Cauwels, 2273 S. Thorntree Ln., Palatine, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Bittner, 625 Eagle Ln., Palatine. The couple plans a Dec. 21 wedding.

Irene is a graduate of Palatine High School now attending Moser School. She is also employed by Cockrell Coffee Service, Schaumburg. Edward, a graduate of Fremd High School, is with Contract Builders Hardware, Barrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Burke, McHenry, announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Patricia, to John Stephen Fedyski, son of the John E. Fedyskis, 2 Drake Tr., Prospect Heights. The couple plans an April 12 wedding.

Kathy, a '73 graduate of Western Illinois University, is employed as a mental health specialist at Elgin State Hospital. Her fiancé graduated from Western in 1972 and is employed as a computer programmer for Allstate Insurance Co., Northbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Weith of Woodstock, formerly of Des Plaines, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jill Ellen, to Phillip J. Holtz of Crystal Lake.

Jill, a graduate of Maine West High School, has attended Oakton Community College, Morton Grove, and also McHenry County College, Crystal Lake. She is presently employed at Admiral Corporation in Harvard, Ill. Phil was graduated from McHenry County College and is now employed at Prestress Construction in Crystal Lake.

The couple has chosen Feb. 1 as their wedding day.

MAINTENANCE MECHANIC

Lots of available overtime... just another plus at Mystik Tape! As an all-around troubleshooter, your duties will be as diverse as your skills. You'll maintain our production equipment by overhauling, repairing and operating machines and tools (i.e. lathes, milling machines, drill presses, grinders, welding equipment, etc.). Additional duties include routine and special inspections on equipment, some bench work and production parts fabrication.

To qualify, you should have a solid background in mechanical maintenance. You've had enough on-the-job experience to prove your ability to follow installation layouts, manufacturer's drawings, blueprints, and verbal and written instructions. In return for your know-how, we offer a top-notch salary as well as full company benefits. Apply:

Nixon condition called critical

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon went into vascular shock Tuesday afternoon and was listed in critical condition following an operation to stop blood clots threatening his life.

Earlier in the day, Nixon, 61, had been reported as "doing well" and in "stable condition" after an operation of about an hour by five doctors starting at 8:30 a.m. PST at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

Optimistic reports that Nixon was in a normal post-operative condition and his phlebitis arrested by insertion of a clip on a vein in a leg groin continued throughout the day until a new bulletin was released in early evening.

Dr. John Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said at that time that his patient had gone "suddenly into vascular shock."

"A team of physicians and intensive care unit nurses administered counter-shock measures for three hours until a stable vascular condition was once again restored."

The bulletin said the "serious complications" were probably caused by the fact Nixon had been undergoing such extreme anticoagulant therapy that he was subject to excessive bleeding.

"Replacement of blood lost and a relaxation of anticoagulation therapy was instituted," Lungren said.

"At 5 p.m. this afternoon the vascular stability is still maintained. At this time the patient is still considered critical."

The sudden turn for the worse in the condition of the man who resigned the presidency under fire Aug. 9 came after a day in which his doctors had painted a picture of him permanently overcoming blood clots and being released from the hospital by the end of this week.

Pat Nixon was at her husband's side when he came back from the operating room and initial reports had indicated that the plastic clip would stop any floating clots from reaching his heart or lungs.

Lungren had said previously that anyone undergoing major surgery and general anesthetic was taking a risk but decided that an operation was immediately necessary after a test Monday night disclosed a new fresh blood clot in Nixon's thigh which endangered his life.

The team of surgeons performed the operation on an emergency basis, with Nixon's agreement, because of fear the new clot in the left leg above those found before and closer to the vena cava might reach the heart.

"The new clot threatened to become a pulmonary embolus and thus endanger Mr. Nixon's life," Lungren said.

$1,400 and $400 in checks taken 3 nabbed in robbery of drug store receipts

Three youths were arrested Tuesday as suspects in Monday night's robbery of more than $1,400 and $400 in checks from two women employees of Check Drugs, 303 E. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

One of them, Steve B. Dembowski, 17, of 10354 Michael Todd Terr., Glenview, will be arraigned today in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court. The two others, both 16-year-old Wheeling Township boys, were charged in family court petitions and were sent to the Audy Home Tuesday night. The three are charged with robbery.

Wheeling Lt. Thomas Conte said Dembowski approached the two women employees at 8:53 p.m. as they were carrying the money from the drug store across the adjacent parking lot to the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank, 4 S. Milwaukee Ave.

"Apparently they had been planning this because they knew the store employees' schedule of dropping off the receipts into the night depository," Conte said. He added the two juveniles had left Dembowski before he approached the women and demanded the night-deposit bag.

CONTE SAID THE women first refused to hand over the money but then complied when Dembowski allegedly opened his jacket to show he had a knife sheath attached to his belt. Conte said the women thought he had a knife, although no knife was shown by Dembowski.

Dembowski then took the bag, which contained $1,484.65 in cash and $418.64 in checks, and ran south through the parking lot where he was joined by the two juveniles, police said. Although there was a further report to police of three youths seen running south of the robbery scene, police lost track of them.

Conte said the trio apparently split the cash near the Wheeling Drainage Ditch, where they supposedly threw the deposit bag and the checks into the ditch. The checks have not been recovered, although all but $30 of the cash was recovered, Conte said.

ONE OF THE juveniles left his companions after they reached the area of apartments north of Old Willow Road in Wheeling Township. That youth was seen near Denny's Restaurant, Milwaukee Avenue south of Palatine Road, by Det. Kenneth Dawson who first questioned the youth and then found him armed with a gun, Conte said.

Later, Dawson and Det. Earl Suel, while checking all the motels and hotels in the area, found Dembowski and the other juvenile registered under their own names at the Flamingo Motel, Milwaukee Avenue and River Road. Conte said he was unsure whether the juvenile who was arrested first supplied the names of the other two suspects.

Police said the other two suspects were arrested at that time and the rest of the money was recovered.

Conte said sheriff's police are investigating the possible involvement of one or more of the three suspects in local burglaries.

Illegal weapons suspect nabbed

A Mount Prospect man charged with illegal possession of explosives last month and free on bond pending his trial was arrested again Monday on illegal weapons charges.

Elk Grove Village police said the man, Larry Osburn, 27, of 804 Elm St., was stopped near Ill. Rte. 83 and Oakton Street Monday night after his car was allegedly seen speeding by an Elk Grove patrolman.

Police said the patrolman observed several rounds of ammunition on the front seat of Osburn's auto. Further search of the car turned up illegal "fighting sticks," a 10-inch knife, a revolver and a tear-gas gun, police said.

Osburn was charged this time with two counts of unlawful use of weapons, speeding and possession of open liquor in his auto.

FREED AFTER posting $1,000 bond, he will appear Nov. 27 in the Elk Grove Village branch of Circuit Court. Osburn posted $20,000 bond on the earlier charge, a felony. Monday's arrest, according to Elk Grove Village police, was classified as a misdemeanor and the maximum bond is $1,000.

Federal agents and Elk Grove investigators are probing Osburn's background for his possible connections with extremist groups.

Agents of the Treasury Dept.'s Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division said Tuesday they are still working on the case.

At the time of the September arrest, also on Rte. 83, police described Osburn's car as a small arsenal of weapons and ammunition. It held explosive devices, and black powder bombs and weapons, police said.

Village sets trick-or-treat hours

Wheeling Village Pres. Ted Scanlon has called for a safe Halloween and has designated 4 to 7:30 p.m. as official trick-or-treat hours Thursday.

The village Civil Defense horn will go off to signify the beginning and end of the trick-or-treat period. Officials have urged parents to make sure their children trick-or-treat only during that time.

Scanlon has asked residents to turn on porch lights and that parents not allow their children to trick-or-treat alone.

Members of the police, fire and Civil Defense Dept. will be on duty to assure the safety of youngsters while they trick-or-treat, Scanlon said.

Scavenger firm may sue for license

A private scavenger service said it may file a lawsuit against Wheeling if the village won't issue the firm a license to pick up refuse in the village.

The firm, Top Disposal Service of Elmhurst, is seeking the license so it can pick up refuse from a manufacturing company that recently relocated in Wheeling. The firm handled refuse collection for the manufacturer before it moved to Wheeling and wants to continue the service.

A village ordinance, however, limits the number of scavenger licenses to four and all currently are held by other disposal firms.

I. J. Stagman, an attorney representing Top Disposal, said his client only wants to service the one company and thinks the village should issue a license.

THE ORDINANCE limiting the number of licenses falls under the health and sanitation section of the Wheeling Municipal Code. Stagman said Top Disposal will not pick up anything that would pose a threat to the health and safety of village residents, thus the ordinance would not apply.

The firm, he said, will pick up only dry trash that is nontoxic and will not rot. For that reason, he said, the firm should not be considered a garbage collector.

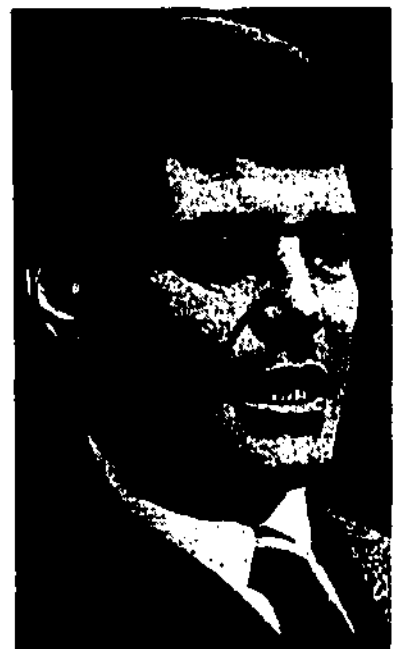

The following firms have scavenger licenses in Wheeling: Arc Disposal Co. Inc., Rosemont; Wheeling Disposal Inc.; Buffalo Grove Disposal Co., and Rylon Disposal Inc., Chicago.

In addition to Top Disposal, Best Scavenger Service of Glenview has requested a scavenger license so it could be allowed to pick up refuse from various manufacturers in Wheeling.

The requests for additional scavenger licenses were considered Monday night by the judiciary and purchasing committee, but no decision was reached.

TRUSTEE ALBERG LANG, chairman of the committee, said he thinks the matter should be given further study. "We are going to have to determine if there are enough licenses now and if not, we'll have to determine how many more are needed," he said.

Lang said he is not necessarily opposed to increasing the number of licenses, but thinks the village still should regulate the number. "I feel the village should regulate this because otherwise it will have no control and we'll have chaos," he said.

PHILIP CRANE

by JOE SWICKARD

Philip M. Crane and Betty Spence agreed in a debate Tuesday that the two major issues in the election are inflation and the possibility of massive voter apathy.

The candidates for the seat in the 12th Congressional district met in a debate sponsored by the National Assn. of Letter Carriers at Miner Junior High School in Arlington Heights. The audience of about 50 persons seemed evenly divided between backers of Crane, the Republican incumbent, and Mrs. Spence, his Democratic challenger.

Crane, after noting a Democratic control of the federal legislature, said inflation was the result of "printing press money" being used by Congress to buy votes with the voters' "own money."

"Politicians have learned, unfortunately, that spending is short-term good politics," he said.

LABELING INFLATION as "indirect taxation," Crane charged it was the result of Congress giving in to "special interest groups" by funding their projects through deficit finances.

"If Congress doesn't change its practice of spending in the next five years it can lead to the ruin of this country's economy," he said. "We are threatening the destruction of all our institutions."

Mrs. Spence said that after many meetings and recommendations "nothing has been done" in Washington to curb inflation.

She attacked President Gerald Ford's 5 per cent surtax proposal as taking from the people and giving to big industry.

The middle-class citizen, she said, is already carrying his fair share of taxes and "We in the 12th District can't afford the surtax."

AS PART OF A program to stem inflation, she proposed vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws, a balanced federal budget and a tight rein on defense spending.

She further proposed a "short-term" program of public employment, oil price rollbacks and full crop production by farmers.

Crane hit reports that up to 70 per cent of the electorate would stay at home during the election. He said it would be "catastrophic" if these reports are borne out next Tuesday.

He acknowledged that people do have reason for feeling "betrayed" by recent scandals, but said scandals have been a part of the political system throughout history at all levels. He cited corruption from Wheeling to Watergate as "unfortunate" examples of public misconduct.

Mrs. Spence said federal child-abuse legislation was necessary to prevent a recurrence of incidents such as the beating death of Johnny Lindquist of Chicago.

Four area men survive bus crash in Israel

Four area men are among the survivors of a bus accident in Israel Saturday that took the lives of three Americans on a skin-diving trip.

The four are Steven Fox of Des Plaines and Edward Turney, William Schmoldt and Greg Shutt, all of Mount Prospect.

The four are members of the International Divers Assn., who were on a bus that overturned along a Sinai highway.

Fox, 17, a senior at Forest View High School, was released Tuesday from a hospital at Eilat, said his mother, Betty Jo Fox. Mrs. Fox said her son suffered mostly cuts and bruises.

TURNEY, OWNER OF THE Prospect Bike and Dive Shop, also suffered minor injuries and has been released from the hospital, Mrs. Fox said.

Schmoldt suffered multiple injuries and is in a full body cast that is expected to keep him in the hospital five to six weeks. Shutt, general manager of the Prospect Bike and Dive Shop, suffered a broken back and is expected to remain in the hospital several weeks, Mrs. Fox said.

Killed in the mishap were Robert Wolf of Deerfield, Mrs. Ralph Zerkel of Northbrook and Mrs. Lionel Schultz of Barrington.

About 28 persons were on the bus when the accident occurred. Police said the bus went out of control when a rubber hose in its brake system cracked as the bus was descending a winding stretch of two-lane asphalt coastal road between the Red Sea port of Eilat and Sharm el-Sheikh at the tip of Sinai.

Without brakes, the bus reached speeds close to 100 m.p.h. before it left the road on a curve, rolling over twice before coming to rest on its side.

Mrs. Fox said she expects her son and other less severely injured victims to arrive in the United States this weekend.

Buffalo Grove considers hike in water rates on Dec. 1

by TOM VON MALDER

Water bills for Buffalo Grove residents will go up $3.15 a month for a typical 6,000-gallon household use, if a new rate system proposed Tuesday night is adopted by the village board.

The rate increase would go into effect Dec. 1 and be reflected in January and February billings, said Village Mgr. Daniel T. Larson. He told members of the village board at a finance committee meeting the increases are needed to make up a projected $140,000 deficit in the water system's emergency repair fund within the next three years.

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong called the proposed increase "unpleasant but necessary." The full village board is expected to vote on the matter in mid-November.

EVEN WITHOUT the boost in rates, Buffalo Grove water rates are higher than in other nearby suburbs.

The proposed increases include both a higher cost for water and changes in the bases for computing the cost. The proposal calls for a 5,000-gallon minimum monthly bill of $7.50 rather than the existing 3,000-gallon minimum monthly bill of $3.

General Caucus orientation set Monday night

An orientation meeting for the General Caucus of Wheeling-Prospect Heights Dist. 21 will be at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the administration building, 999 Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

Jack Lane, board president, will discuss the responsibilities of school board members.

Delegates and alternates to the caucus from community organizations also will be informed of their roles in seeking and endorsing school board candidates for the April election.

Citizens interested in serving on the caucus as a delegate-at-large may be nominated for election to the caucus at the Nov. 18 business meeting. Delegates-at-large must be nominated by a registered voter in Dist. 21 and will be elected into the caucus by the delegates of community organizations.

Promote Robert Hoos to fire lieutenant

Wheeling Fireman Robert Hoos will be promoted to fire lieutenant Friday.

Hoos, a 3½-year veteran of the fire department, was the only one of nine candidates to pass the recent promotional exam. Only one man was to be promoted at this time, but the fire and police commission and the fire department hoped an eligibility list also would have resulted from the test.

Hoos is married and has a son. His brother William is a Wheeling policeman.

Wheeling Village Mgr. George Passolt has suggested the village replace its 45-seat bus with a smaller vehicle to save money.

"While the large bus has been extremely helpful in getting our bus system started, it is rarely utilized to its full 45-passenger capacity," Passolt said in a report to the village board.

He also said it is "extremely difficult" to get parts to repair the bus. "Sometimes we have to go to the South Side of Chicago for a part and we can't afford to have it out of operation for a long time."

Passolt suggested the village sell the bus in December and consider renting a small bus.

The board several weeks ago directed Passolt to study replacing the bus with a smaller vehicle that would be more economical while still satisfying the village's needs.

AFTER HEARING Passolt's report Monday night, the board decided to study the matter further.

Trustee William Hein, who suggested the possible elimination of the large bus, said he now is concerned that a smaller bus might not be able to accommodate all the school children in the morning. The bus is not filled to capacity most of the time, but is crowded in the morning, he said.

If the village goes to a smaller bus, it would be able to accommodate only 16 persons. "Maybe we should give this a stronger look before we decide to eliminate it," Village Pres. Ted Scanlon said.

Passolt suggested if the village decides to eliminate the large bus it sell it back to the company from which it was purchased. The village paid $10,411 for the bus and could get $3,811 if it is sold back, he said.

Regardless of whether the large bus is sold, Passolt said the village will retain the present service.

THE VILLAGE now has two buses that operate within its corporate limits. The large bus follows a designated route and schedule while a smaller shuttle bus has no schedule.

The village also is studying the feasibility of starting a commuter bus service to and from area railroad stations. Hein said he would like to see this service started sometime next year.

Passolt and Thomas Markus, administrative assistant, have suggested the village pay $2,000 to participate in transportation development study being conducted by the North Suburban Mass Transit District.

"This study would hopefully give us additional information on our eligibility for federal funds for capital improvements in our transit system," Passolt said.

Village bus service lost $28,400 in 1973 and officials said the deficit probably will be greater this year. The Illinois Department of Transportation recently awarded Wheeling an $18,329 grant to help reduce the deficit.

Bus driver rapped for crossing tracks

by JUDY JOBBITT

A bus driver has been reprimanded for driving a busload of Mount Prospect students across the railroad tracks Thursday while the gates were down.

The disciplinary action came after parents complained to the school, Mount Prospect police and Cook County School Bus Inc.

Clyde Diamond was driving students from Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect home about noon on Thursday, police said. The school had been dismissed early for a teacher work-shop day.

Diamond told police he followed the regular route north on Emerson Street to cross Prospect Avenue and the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks. The gate at Emerson Street was reported down

Second incident in week

Carpentersville man victim of television sales fraud

For the second time in a week, a suburban man fell victim to a fraudulent television sales scheme in Schaumburg. A Carpentersville resident was defrauded of $730 in cash Monday.

An Oak Forest businessman was bilked out of $1,700 Oct. 22 in a similar scheme, where color television sets were to be sold at special prices and picked up at the loading dock at Marshall Field and Co. in the Woodfield Shopping Center.

Marshall Field is not connected with the solicitations, and store security agents reported to police that Monday's incident marked the fifth such attempt within two weeks. However, only two have been reported to police.

Lee Holte of Carpentersville told police he handed over $730 in cash to a man outside a restaurant at the shopping center. Schaumburg police are investigating the two reported incidents in which the con artist's mode of operation was the same.

BOTH MEN WERE solicited by telephone calls from a man named "Bob." Holte was told there were a 25-inch floor model and a 19-inch portable color television set available at discount prices, it was reported.

Holte met the man at the shopping center after ordering four sets. Holte was told to meet another man in front of the restaurant — the same location the Oak Forest man was to meet his contact.

The cash was exchanged, and Holte was given a Field's receipt and told to wait by the store's loading dock for the merchandise. Authorities were told by store agents that the sales slip was stolen from a Wisconsin store.

Police warned area residents to be on the alert against similar solicitations and to call local authorities if they receive any suspicious telephone calls offering special deals.

Nixon condition called critical

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon went into vascular shock Tuesday afternoon and was listed in critical condition following an operation to stop blood clots threatening his life.

Earlier in the day, Nixon, 61, had been reported as "doing well" and in "stable condition" after an operation of about an hour by five doctors starting at 5:30 a.m. PST at Long Beach Memorial Hospital. Optimistic reports that Nixon was in a normal post-operative condition and his phlebitis arrested by insertion of a clip on a vein in a leg groin continued throughout the day until a new bulletin was released in early evening.

Dr. John Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said at that time that his patient had gone "suddenly into vascular shock."

"A team of physicians and intensive care unit nurses administered counter-shock measures for three hours until a stable vascular condition was once again restored."

The bulletin said the "serious complications" were probably caused by the fact Nixon had been undergoing such extreme anticoagulant therapy that he was subject to excessive bleeding.

"Replacement of blood lost and a relaxation of anticoagulation therapy was instituted," Lungren said.

"At 5 p.m. this afternoon the vascular stability is still maintained. At this time the patient is still considered critical."

The sudden turn for the worse in the condition of the man who resigned the presidency under fire Aug. 9 came after a day in which his doctors had painted a picture of him permanently overcoming blood clots and being released from the hospital by the end of this week.

Pat Nixon was at her husband's side when he came back from the operating room and initial reports had indicated that the plastic clip would stop any floating clots from reaching his heart or lungs.

Lungren had said previously that anyone undergoing major surgery and general anesthetic was taking a risk but decided that an operation was immediately necessary after a test Monday night disclosed a new fresh blood clot in Nixon's thigh which endangered his life.

The team of surgeons performed the operation on an emergency basis, with Nixon's agreement, because of fear the new clot in the left leg above those found before and closer to the vena cava might reach the heart.

"The new clot threatened to become a pulmonary embolus and thus endanger Mr. Nixon's life," Lungren said.

Cost determining factor

City-operated bus line may be in offing

A city-operated bus system might be in the offing for Des Plaines if it would cost less than other transit proposals.

Mayor Herbert H. Behrel Tuesday said the city "might" look to operating its own intra-city bus routes if the costs of obtaining service from the North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTAN) and the Chicago Transit Authority (CTA) is too high.

Behrel said he is seeking information from Niles on its free bus service, which began operating last year.

He said the information will be turned over to the recently formed transportation study committee, which is reviewing proposals from NORTAN and the CTA.

THE MAYOR'S COMMENTS came in the wake of reports Tuesday that the United Motor Coach Co. (UMC) may go out of business before any emergency aid from the Regional Transportation Authority or federal funds, which would allow NORTAN to take over the bus company, can be received.

A spokesman for Niles said its bus operation costs $2,737 a month to operate. The cost does not include $60,000 to purchase three Mercedes-Benz buses. Niles also uses public works employees to maintain and drive the buses. The village pays for the service with a portion of its federal revenue-sharing funds.

"If we are looking at spending a lot of money for NORTAN to run buses in Des Plaines, maybe we should run our own," Behrel suggested.

He also indicated that a dual system, utilizing NORTAN buses for intercity routes and a city-owned system for local runs, could be developed. Niles and Evanston have that type of operation, Behrel said.

The mayor also suggested the city might be able to seek subsidies from the RTA for its own system.

Local bus operations are expected to undergo a change in ownership in the next 30 to 45 days. NORTAN is waiting for about $1 million to purchase the UMC physical facilities. The city has been asked to join NORTAN and contribute about $65,000 to maintain 14 bus routes which operate in the city.

The city also has received a proposal from the CTA offering to establish bus service, but initial reports indicate the service could cost between $300,000 and $400,000.

The city council committee which is studying the proposal has scheduled another meeting at 2 p.m. Monday at the city hall.

Vote could be mandatory or advisory Referendum on changing government may be urged

by STEVE BROWN

A four-part referendum next April to change the structure of Des Plaines city government may be proposed to the city council, said Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th, chairman of the city code and judiciary committee.

Abrams indicated the committee is trying to determine if the referendum should be mandatory or advisory.

He said the proposed referendum would seek voter opinion on possible changes in the offices of mayor, clerk and treasurer and ask if there should be one or two aldermen per ward.

ABRAMS SAID IF the referendum were only advisory and the voters called for the abolition of the treasurer's office, Illinois law would require another referendum.

City Atty. Charles Hug has been asked to research the legal aspects of the referendum and Abrams said if his report is received before the council meeting Monday, the committee may make a formal recommendation.

Abrams said the city council might be criticized for not having a mandatory referendum.

"The council is going to have to make some recommendations on this matter whether they want to or not," Abrams said.

The council had voted in recent months to make no changes in the offices of mayor, treasurer or city clerk.

SOME ALDERMEN have proposed the mayor's position should be made part-time and that a full-time administrator be hired to handle the day-to-day operations of the city.

The Des Plaines chapter of the League of Women Voters recently released a study of city government and made a recommendation calling for an administrator.

Abrams said the council also might be asked if it wants to include an item on the ballot to reduce the number of aldermen from 16 to eight. He indicated this move also would require a referendum before it could be adopted.

The committee has been studying possible changes in city government for more than a year.

Boy, 14, hurt when auto hits his bicycle

A 14-year-old Des Plaines boy was injured late Monday when he was struck by a car while riding his bicycle near Wolf Road and Greenview Avenue.

Marty Ryan, 433 Vassar Ln., was treated for a possible fractured leg and cuts and bruises on his face at Holy Family Hospital.

Police said the boy and two of his companions were riding south on the east side of Wolf Road when Marty cut across the street where a car driven by Evelyn L. Feldten, 59, of 909 N. Riverside, Park Ridge, was coming.

The woman told police she saw the boys and applied the brakes and tried to avoid the Ryan boy when he cut in front of her. The woman was not ticketed.

Mayor defends commercial zoning for Walgreen land

by LUISA GINETTI

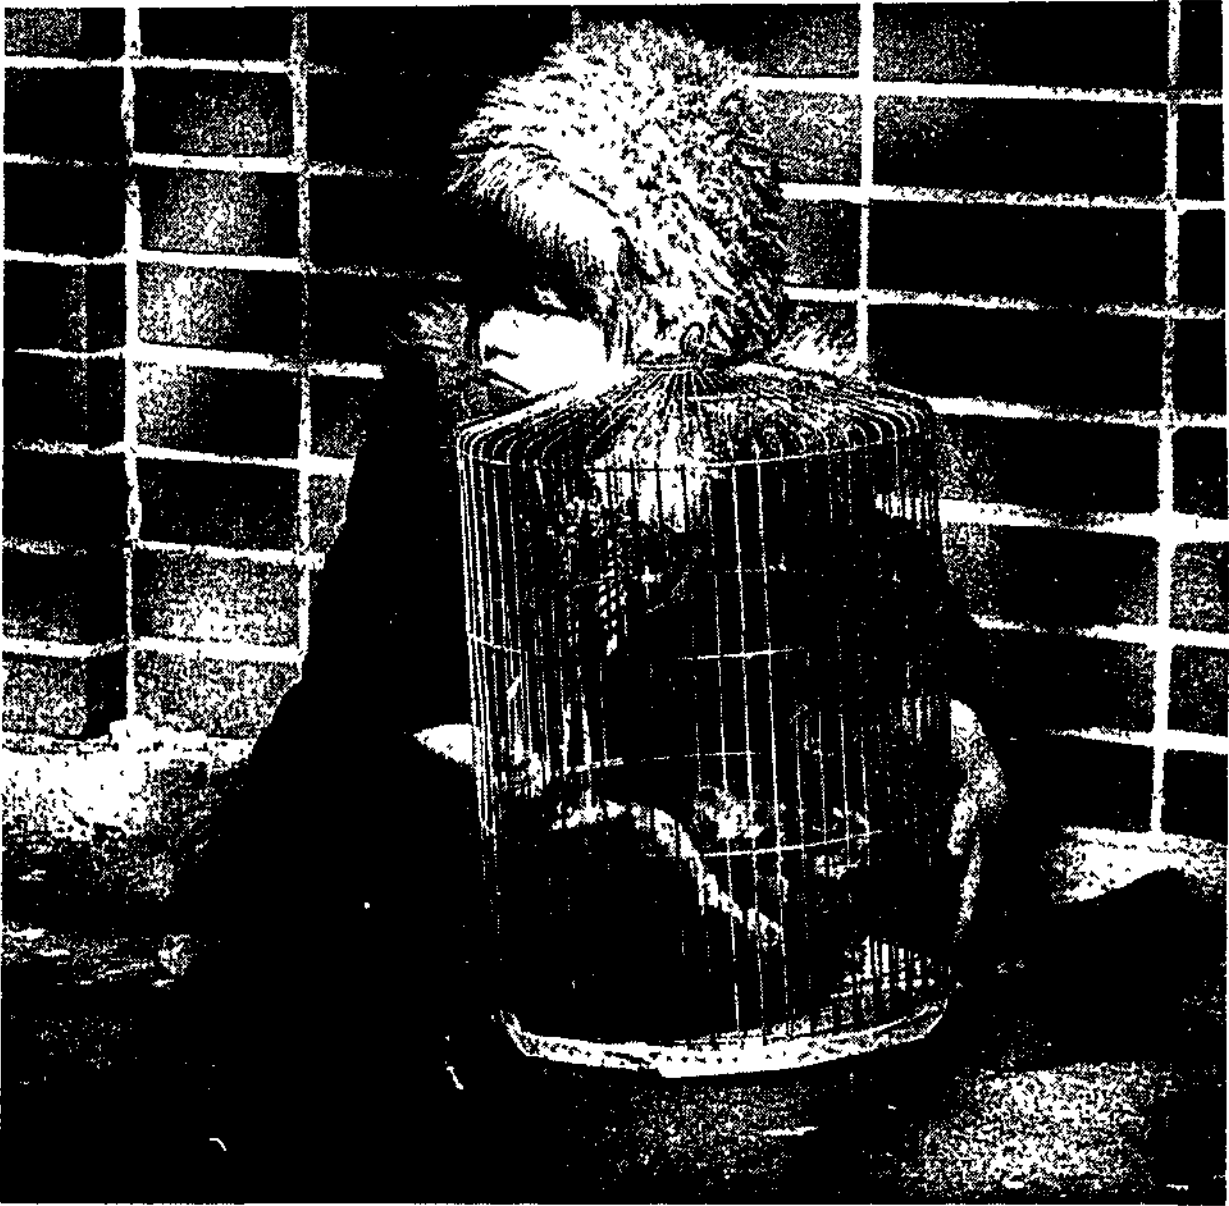

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel Tuesday said he does not believe it is urgent for the city to act to change the commercial zoning of the 26-acre Walgreen Co. property and he doesn't understand the concern being raised about the land's status.

"I don't see how this will affect the residents behind the property," the mayor said. "I disagree with the people east of Leo Street that this commercial development is bad. We went through all the monkeyshines with Walgreens to get the agreement and I don't see this as objectionable."

The mayor's comments came in the wake of an opinion issued by City Corporation Counsel Robert DiLeonardi that an extensive list of restrictive covenants placed on the land in 1970 when it was

LWV to study land use, urban planning

The Des Plaines chapter of the League of Women Voters has decided to tackle land use and urban planning in the city.

The league is sponsoring a meeting for city residents today at 8 p.m. at the Des Plaines City Hall to explore the issue.

A spokesman for the league said the group is attempting to take a positive look at what is being done about planning in the city.

The group plans to develop a report on their findings and present it to the city council soon, the spokesman said.

Traffic patterns, open space, zoning regulations and the proposed downtown redevelopment project will be among the topics discussed.

The league involvement in the land use issue follows the group's activities in connection with the on-going study into possible changes in the form of government in the city.

The league spokesman said the chapter has been studying various city practices and a review of those matters will be included in the final report.

PHILIP CRANE

Apathy, inflation vote keys

by JOE SWICKARD

Philip M. Crane and Betty Spence agreed in a debate Tuesday that the two major issues in the election are inflation and the possibility of massive voter apathy.

The candidates for the seat in the 12th Congressional district met in a debate sponsored by the National Assn. of Letter Carriers at Miner Junior High School in Arlington Heights. The audience of about 50 persons seemed evenly divided between backers of Crane, the Republican incumbent, and Mrs. Spence, his Democratic challenger.

Crane, after noting a Democratic control of the federal legislature, said inflation was the result of "printing press money" being used by Congress to buy votes with the voters' "own money."

"Politicians have learned, unfortunately, that spending is short-term good politics," he said.

LABELING INFLATION as "indirect taxation," Crane charged it was the result of Congress giving in to "special interest groups" by funding their projects through deficit finances.

"If Congress doesn't change its practice of spending in the next five years it can lead to the ruin of this country's economy," he said. "We are threatening the destruction of all our institutions."

Mrs. Spence said that after many meetings and recommendations "... nothing has been done" in Washington to curb inflation.

She attacked President Gerald Ford's 5 per cent surtax proposal as taking from the people and giving to big industry.

The middle-class citizen, she said, is already carrying his fair share of taxes and "We in the 12th District can't afford the surtax."

AS PART OF A program to stem inflation, she proposed vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws, a balanced federal budget and a tight rein on defense spending.

She further proposed a "short-term" program of public employment, oil price rollbacks and full crop production by farmers.

Crane hit reports that up to 70 per cent of the electorate would stay at home during the election. He said it would be "catastrophic" if these reports are borne out next Tuesday.

He acknowledged that people do have reason for feeling "betrayed" by recent scandals, but said scandals have been a part of the political system throughout history at all levels. He cited corruption from Wheeling to Watergate as "unfortunate" examples of public misconduct.

MRS. SPENCE ALSO said people "have reason to feel betrayed" and public officials must work to overcome "... the total and complete lack of trust" in them.

Crane defended his recent vote against a child-abuse protection law because it would "run the risk of preempting the traditional parent-child relationship" and could "give" children over to the federal government.

Mrs. Spence said federal child-abuse legislation was necessary to prevent a recurrence of incidents such as the beating death of Johnny Lindquist of Chicago.

Too close to Easter, ministers say

Schools asked to change spring vacation dates

Clergymen from Des Plaines and Park Ridge are petitioning the Maine Township High School Dist. 207 board to refrain from scheduling spring vacation the week before Easter.

The Rev. Garry A. Scheuer Jr., vice president of the Des Plaines Ministerial Assn., said there "is no big moral, religious or theological issue involved — it's just a matter of convenience."

In a letter to the four township school boards, the ministerial group, a federation representing 15 churches in Des Plaines, said the week is "a significant time for Christian churches ... Settling a spring vacation during this time tends to play down the importance of the church in our society."

The letter also says families with youngsters in a parochial elementary school and a public high school are "pulled in two directions. Surely the family has enough stresses on it already. Anything that can strengthen or unify the family needs the support of us all."

Scheuer said the week before Easter coincides with spring vacations every "5 or 10 years."

"We don't know if the boards have any flexibility in the time they set for spring vacation," he said. "We only hope the school board will be cognizant of the churches' concerns."

DIST. 207 BOARD members said they will seriously consider the ministerial association's request in planning for next year's calendar. Supt. Richard Short said, however, there are many factors involved in scheduling school holidays.

School boards petitioned by the minister's group included Des Plaines Dist. 62, East Maine Dist. 63 and Park Ridge Dist. 64.

In other business, a representative of Construction Management Co. reported that construction of the Maine North High School addition is proceeding on schedule. He said the addition should be completed by the August 1975 deadline.

rezoned from single-family residential to commercial is invalid.

Walgreen recently abandoned plans to build a national office headquarters complex on the site at 1400 E. Touhy Av. and has instead put the land up for sale for $4.5 million.

MEMBERS OF THE city council municipal development committee have been discussing the status of the zoning and covenants to determine if they apply to future owners of the land.

According to DiLeonardi's opinion, read at a committee meeting Monday night, the covenants are likely to be held invalid as a result of recent U.S. Supreme Court rulings that have thrown out contract zoning of the type negotiated for the Walgreen land.

Ald. Arthur Erbach, 5th, urged the committee to recommend that the council rezone the property to C-1 commercial to in effect provide the protections from certain types of business development on the land that were barred in the original list of covenants when the land was rezoned C-2 commercial.

Erbach said residents in the area, who opposed the original rezoning in 1970 and fought for inclusion of the restrictive covenants, have expressed concern to him over the most recent developments. He said he and the residents are concerned that if the covenants are considered legally invalid, the zoning of the land is C-2 with no restrictions.

"I HAVE RECEIVED one call on the matter but behind one call there are usually a lot more concerned people," Erbach said Tuesday. "I want to make sure any problems are resolved before they arise and I'm sure as people become more aware of what is involved, their concern will be just as great as at the time of the original rezoning."

In his letter to the committee, DiLeonardi recommended the council revert the land to R-2 residential zoning. The committee is awaiting further explanation from the attorney as to why this may be a more defensible action than changing the zoning to C-2.

Behrel Tuesday said residents should not be concerned with the status of the property.

"Even if someone came in with plans for a gas station at Lee and Touhy streets, they would have to fulfill all of the special use requirements and the same thing goes with a restaurant," Behrel said.

"WE CAN'T GIVE guarantees to the people," the mayor said. "We will certainly protect the interest of the people but we cannot deny a developer the right to develop the property. It has all got to be logical and practical."

The mayor said Des Plaines has never allowed high-density complexes as have some of its neighboring communities. He cited apartment structures at Oakton Street and Elmhurst Road in Mount Prospect and apartments on Mannheim Road in Rosemont as examples of poor planning because they are not far enough from the road.

South America film slated

A film showing a trip across South America, including the Amazon jungles and Lake Titicaca, will be presented by the Maine-Niles Township Adult and Continuing Education Program (MONA-CEP) Tuesday, Nov. 5, at Niles North High School.

The film will be shown at 8 p.m. Admission is $1.50 for adults, 75 cents for senior citizens.

Hospital nurses seek union election

The newly formed Lutheran General Hospital Nurses' Assn. has called for an election to determine if the hospital's 450 nurses want the group as their union.

The association Tuesday filed a petition with the National Labor Relations Board for a representative election. If 50 per cent plus one of the nurses voting approve the union, it will become the bargaining agent for registered and licensed practical nurses at the Park Ridge hospital.

Roger Gold, attorney for the nurses, said the election will be held within 30 to 45 days if hospital officials agree. He said the association has the support of 30 per cent of the nurses which is needed to call for such an election.

Gold said that no settlement has yet been worked out on charges by the group that the hospital allegedly interfered with the nurses' rights to form a union. Hospital officials and the labor board are trying to reach a settlement on the issue.

Change meeting date

The East Maine Dist. 63 will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 6, at Ballard School, 8320 Ballard Rd., Niles, instead of Nov. 5 as scheduled.

Youth faces illegal gun charge

An 18-year-old Des Plaines youth was charged with unlawful use of a weapon early Tuesday after he was seen displaying a gun in a Dunkin' Donuts Shop at 850 E. Elmhurst Rd.

David Lee Bilske, 845 Prairie Ave., also was charged with failure to possess a gun owner's identification card and having fictitious license plates.

Bilske was arrested after police received a call from the donut shop stating Bilske took the gun out of his pocket when he was looking for change to pay for four doughnuts he and his companion, Daniel C. Schlessner, 19, of the same address, purchased.

Police obtained the license-plate number of the car in which the two men drove away. Patrolman Richard Eyre spotted the car eastbound on Dempster near the Outer Belt railroad tracks and stopped the car at Wolf Road and Rose Avenue.

Bilske told police the gun was on the front seat of his car. The two men were brought to the Des Plaines police station where only Bilske was charged.

Bond for Bilske was set at $1,000. He is to appear in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court Dec. 12.

Paramedic program ready soon

The Des Plaines Fire Dept. paramedic program may be operating in a few days, Fire Chief Donald Corey said.

Corey said four of the five men in the program have completed all the requirements for full certification and the fifth is expected to be fully certified any day.

The fifth only has to complete a final trauma run with the Arlington Heights paramedics to complete his five training runs and receive full certification. All have successfully completed the paramedic course offered by Northwest Community Hospital.

A specially equipped mobile intensive care unit from which the paramedics will operate has been in use by the fire department for several weeks, although the special paramedic equipment in the vehicle has not been used.

THE VAN-TYPE ambulance equipped with $8,000 worth of lifesaving equipment will be used for on-the-scene treatment of accident and heart attack victims.

Included are radios used to keep paramedics in touch with doctors at area hospitals who instruct the firemen in treating victims.

Corey said the department has asked the city to appropriate funds in next year's budget to purchase a second mobile intensive-care vehicle. Eventually the city will have three such vehicles with a unit at each of the city's three fire stations.

The city's entire 74-man fire department will be trained as either certified paramedics or emergency medical technicians within the next two years, according to a new training plan Corey inaugurated.

The first group of paramedics will work out of Fire Station No. 1, 450 S. River Rd.

Nixon condition called critical

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon went into vascular shock Tuesday afternoon and was listed in critical condition following an operation to stop blood clots threatening his life.

Earlier in the day, Nixon, 61, had been reported as "doing well" and in "stable condition" after an operation of about an hour by five doctors starting at 5:30 a.m. PST at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

Optimistic reports that Nixon was in a normal post-operative condition and his plebitis arrested by insertion of a clip on a vein in a leg groin continued throughout the day until a new bulletin was released in early evening.

Dr. John Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said at that time that his patient had gone "suddenly into vascular shock."

"A team of physicians and intensive care unit nurses administered counter-shock measures for three hours until a stable vascular condition was once again restored."

The bulletin said the "serious complications" were probably caused by the fact Nixon had been undergoing such extreme anticoagulant therapy that he was subject to excessive bleeding.

"Replacement of blood lost and a relaxation of anticoagulation therapy was instituted," Lungren said.

"At 5 p.m. this afternoon the vascular stability is still maintained. At this time the patient is still considered critical."

The sudden turn for the worse in the condition of the man who resigned the presidency under fire Aug. 9 came after a picture of him permanently overcoming blood clots and being released from the hospital by the end of this week.

Pat Nixon was at her husband's side when he came back from the operating room and initial reports had indicated that the plastic clip would stop any floating clots from reaching his heart or lungs.

Lungren had said previously that anyone undergoing major surgery and general anesthetic was taking a risk but decided that an operation was immediately necessary after a test Monday night disclosed a new fresh blood clot in Nixon's thigh which endangered his life.

The team of surgeons performed the operation on an emergency basis, with Nixon's agreement, because of fear the new clot in the left leg above those found before and closer to the vena cava might reach the heart.

"The new clot threatened to become a pulmonary embolus and thus endanger Mr. Nixon's life," Lungren said.

Prospect man faces illegal weapons rap

A Mount Prospect man charged with illegal possession of explosives last month and free on bond pending his trial was arrested again Monday on illegal weapons charges.

Elk Grove Village police said the man, Larry Osburn, 37, of 804 Elm St., was stopped near Ill. Rte. 83 and Oakton Street Monday night after his car was allegedly seen speeding by an Elk Grove patrolman.

Police said the patrolman observed several rounds of ammunition on the front seat of Osburn's auto. Further search of the car turned up illegal "fighting sticks," a 10-inch knife, a revolver and a tear-gas gun, police said.

Osburn was charged this time with two counts of unlawful use of weapons, speeding and possession of open liquor in his auto.

FREED AFTER posting $1,000 bond, he will appear Nov. 27 in the Elk Grove Village branch of Circuit Court. Osburn posted $20,000 bond on the earlier charge, a felony. Monday's arrest, according to Elk Grove Village police, was classified as a misdemeanor and the maximum bond is $1,000.

Federal agents and Elk Grove investigators are probing Osburn's background for his possible connections with extremist groups.

Agents of the Treasury Dept.'s Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division said Tuesday they are still working on the case.

At the time of the September arrest, also on Rte. 83, police described Osburn's car as a small arsenal of weapons and ammunition. It held explosive devices, and black powder bombs and weapons, police said.

THE BAD REPUTATION bees have is undeserved, says Brother Roland Maher, who has enjoyed beekeeping for 20 years. He often allows the creatures to crawl on his hands and arms, saying they seldom sting him because they know he is a friend and won't try to steal their honey. He uses a smoke can to quiet the bees, though, when they're being shown to visitors.

Curves cut in landscape sidewalk plan

Village officials eliminated Tuesday night most of the curves designed to save trees and bushes in the Elk Grove Boulevard sidewalk project.

Members of the village board's capital improvements committee decided that bushes and shrubs in the sidewalk right-of-way would be moved at village expense and would have to be replanted by homeowners.

Mature trees would be moved and replanted at village expense by a landscaping contractor or, if necessary, the sidewalk would be routed around them.

The committee ironed out more than a dozen curves in the plans that had been drawn in the original engineering plans to avoid bushes, trees and other obstacles in the sidewalk right of way.

The $225,000 project is designed to relocate sidewalks, which are now adjacent to the street, to make room for parkways. Homeowners on Elk Grove Boulevard will be invited to a meeting of the committee next month to discuss the project.

Trustee Ronald Chernick, chairman of the committee, said that landscape relocation would be required on only about 12 of the lots in the two-mile stretch of the boulevard involved in the project.

Beekeeping brother has faith in his 'friends'

by JILL BETTNER

It's about time somebody said a few nice things about bees for a change, says Brother Roland Maher, a nurse at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

Brother Roland has been raising the much maligned creatures for about 20 years and stories of people wiping them out to remove unwanted hives from walls in their homes upset him.

Usually a mild-mannered elderly gentleman, Brother Roland bristles over some of the bad publicity heaped on his pets.

He said that besides making honey, bees have preserved the existence of at least 87 fruits and vegetables by pollinating their seeds.

"After the things they do for us and what they mean to our lives, I hate to see people talk about bees like they're vicious creatures that should all be annihilated," he said.

BROTHER ROLAND keeps about 60,000 bees in two wooden crates he built behind the powerhouse at the hospital. The bees have covered the small wooden frames inside with thick honeycombs.

Brother Roland soon plans to move the two groups to the brothers' retreat home at Pleasant Bay, Wis., where he keeps several other hives.

Using only a smoke can to quiet the bees when showing them to visitors, Brother Roland said he very seldom wears gloves or a bee veil when working with them. They know, he said, that he means them no harm.

Brother Roland admitted he occasionally has been stung when he or someone else made the bees feel threatened. But he defended the bees' action.

"Can we blame the bees for trying to protect their home and their hard-earned stores of honey which is their only means of survival?" he asked. "Which of us would let a robber break into our home and rob it while we stood by and did nothing about it?"

REMOVING A BEE hive from inside the wall of a home need not be dangerous if done correctly, said Brother

Roland, who urges people not to use pesticides or knock down the wall.

A Des Plaines family recently uncovered a wall inhabited by thousands of bees while remodeling their home. After an all-out war against them with pesticides proved unsuccessful, the family called in a carpenter to tear out the wall and then blasted the bees with what was described as "a powerful aerosol bomb."

Killing the bees and destroying the honey with the pesticides was unnecessary, Brother Roland said.

By attaching a wire cone over the hole outside the wall that the bees are using to get in and then providing a box for the bees to go into, the bees will emerge over several weeks and bring the honey with them, he said. The bees and the honeycombs can then be moved.

BROTHER ROLAND said he has always been fascinated by bees and considers them extremely intelligent. Besides using every bit of space in the hive to build honeycombs of perfect hexagons, bees have their own heating and air-conditioning systems in the hive and each carries a built-in radar system, he said.

Since he began his hobby, Brother Roland has read much about bees and subscribes to several magazines for beekeepers. He has heard about an entire "bee library" somewhere on the East Coast and said, "I'd like to go there, but if I did, I might not come out."

Apathy, inflation vote keys

by JOE SWICKARD

Philip M. Crane and Betty Spence agreed in a debate Tuesday that the two major issues in the election are inflation and the possibility of massive voter apathy.

The candidates for the seat in the 12th Congressional district met in a debate sponsored by the National Assn. of Letter Carriers at Miner Junior High School in Arlington Heights. The audience of about 50 persons seemed evenly divided between backers of Crane, the Republican incumbent, and Mrs. Spence, his Democratic challenger.

Crane, after noting a Democratic control of the federal legislature, said inflation was the result of "printing press money" being used by Congress to buy votes with the voters' "own money."

"Politicians have learned, unfortunately, that spending is short-term good politics," he said.

LABELING INFLATION as "indirect taxation," Crane charged it was the result of Congress giving in to "special interest groups" by funding their projects through deficit finances.

"If Congress doesn't change its practice of spending in the next five years it can lead to the ruin of this country's economy," he said. "We are threatening the destruction of all our institutions."

Mrs. Spence said that after many meetings and recommendations "nothing has been done" in Washington to curb inflation.

She attacked President Gerald Ford's 5 per cent surtax proposal as taking from the people and giving to big industry.

The middle-class citizen, she said, is already carrying his fair share of taxes and "We in the 12th District can't afford the surtax."

AS PART OF A program to stem inflation, she proposed vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws, a balanced federal budget and a tight rein on defense spending.

She further proposed a "short-term" program of public employment, oil price rollbacks and full crop production by farmers.

Crane hit reports that up to 70 per cent of the electorate would stay at home during the election. He said it would be "catastrophic" if these reports are borne out next Tuesday.

He acknowledged that people do have reason for feeling "betrayed" by recent scandals, but said scandals have been a part of the political system throughout history at all levels. He cited corruption from Wheeling to Watergate as "unfortunate" examples of public misconduct.

MRS. SPENCE ALSO said people "have reason to feel betrayed" and public officials must work to overcome "... the total and complete lack of trust" in them.

Crane defended his recent vote against a child-abuse protection law because it would "run the risk of preempting the traditional parent-child relationship" and could "give" children over to the federal government.

Mrs. Spence said federal child-abuse legislation was necessary to prevent a recurrence of incidents such as the beating death of Johnny Lindquist of Chicago.

4 area residents survive, 3 die in Israel bus crash

Four area men are among the survivors of a bus accident in Israel Saturday that took the lives of three Americans on a skin-diving trip.

The four are Steven Fox of Des Plaines and Edward Turney, William Schmoldt and Greg Shult, all of Mount Prospect.

The four are members of the International Divers Assn., who were on a bus that overturned along a Sinai highway.

Fox, 17, a senior at Forest View High School, was released Tuesday from a hospital at Eilat, said his mother, Betty Jo Fox. Mrs. Fox said her son suffered mostly cuts and bruises.

TURNER, OWNER OF the Prospect Bike and Dive Shop, also suffered minor injuries and has been released from the hospital, Mrs. Fox said.

Schmoldt suffered multiple injuries and is in a full body cast that is expected to keep him in the hospital five to six weeks. Shult, general manager of the Prospect Bike and Dive Shop, suffered a broken back and is expected to remain in the hospital several weeks, Mrs. Fox said.

Killed in the mishap were Robert Wolf of Deerfield, Mrs. Ralph Zerke of Northbrook and Mrs. Lionel Schultz of Barrington.

About 28 persons were on the bus when the accident occurred. Police said the bus went out of control when a rubber hose in its brake system cracked as the bus was descending a winding stretch of two-lane asphalt coastal road between the Red Sea port of Eilat and Sharm el-Sheikh at the tip of Sinai.

Without brakes, the bus reached speeds close to 100 m.p.h. before it left the road on a curve, rolling over twice before coming to rest on its side.

Mrs. Fox said she expects her son and other less severely injured victims to arrive in the United States this weekend.

Went around lowered gates

School bus driver rapped for crossing rail tracks

by JUDY JOBBITT

A bus driver has been reprimanded for driving a busload of Mount Prospect students across the railroad tracks Thursday while the gates were down.

The disciplinary action came after parents complained to the school, Mount Prospect police and Cook County School Bus Inc.

Clyde Diamond was driving students from Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect home about noon on Thursday, police said. The school had been dismissed early for a teacher work-shop day.

Diamond told police he followed the regular route north on Emerson Street to cross Prospect Avenue and the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks. The gate at Emerson Street was reported down across the tracks. Diamond said he went east on Prospect Avenue to Mount Prospect Road to try to cross the tracks there.

THE GATES also were down at Mount Prospect Road. Police reported that Diamond said he checked for trains and saw none coming, although he did see one stopped at the Cumberland Station.

He crossed the tracks without an accident.

Two parents called police and reported the driver's actions. Police investigated the incident with the bus firm.

"He did something wrong," said E. Zimmerman, bus company manager. He said Diamond told him that he thought the gate at Mount Prospect Road also was stuck so proceeded with caution across the tracks.

Zimmerman said Diamond has been reprimanded and informed of a "no bus is to be driven across railroad tracks against a closed gate until the barrier is lifted by an authorized person."

SAM DONATUCCI, assistant principal at Lincoln, said he received a call from a parent who was concerned about the incident. He said he called the bus company and was informed that a policeman waved Diamond through the crossing.

Because of this information, he said he did not investigate it further except to be reassured of the company's policy and the driver's notification about it.

Rand Park dog show registration open

Registration is open for the 25th annual Rand Park Dog Training Club show Dec. 1 at Elk Grove High School.

The show is for all American Kennel Club registered breeds. Competition will be in four categories including novice, open, utility and graduate novice.

More than 100 trophies will be awarded and silver dollars will be presented to all qualifiers to commemorate the show's 25th anniversary.

Dog owners in Des Plaines may register their pet by calling Ken Roovaart at 824-4815. Registration ends Nov. 13.

Judging will begin at 8:30 a.m. Dec. 1 and continue through the day. Spectators will be admitted with a $1 fee for adults and a 50-cent charge for children under 12.

Boy, 14, hurt when auto hits his bicycle

A 14-year-old Des Plaines boy was injured late Monday when he was struck by a car while riding his bicycle near Wolf Road and Greenview Avenue.

Marty Ryan, 433 Vassar Ln., was treated for a possible fractured leg and cuts and bruises on his face at Holy Family Hospital.

Police said the boy and two of his companions were riding south on the east side of Wolf Road when Marty cut across the street where a car driven by Evelyn L. Feldton, 59, of 900 N. Riverside, Park Ridge, was coming.

The woman told police she saw the boys and applied the brakes and tried to avoid the Ryan boy when he cut in front of her. The woman was not ticketed.

Second incident in week

Suburban man victim of television sales fraud

For the second time in a week, a suburban man fell victim to a fraudulent television sales scheme in Schaumburg. A Carpenter's resident was defrauded of $730 in cash Monday.

An Oak Forest businessman was bilked out of $1,700 Oct. 22 in a similar scheme, where color television sets were to be sold at special prices and picked up at the loading dock at Marshall Field and Co. in the Woodfield Shopping Center.

Marshall Field is not connected with the solicitations, and store security agents reported to police that Monday's incident marked the fifth such attempt within two weeks. However, only two have been reported to police.

Lee Holle of Carpentersville told police he handed over $730 in cash to a man outside a restaurant at the shopping center. Schaumburg police are investigating the two reported incidents in which the con artist's mode of operation was the same.

BOTH MEN WERE solicited by telephone calls from a man named "Bob." Holle was told there were a 25-inch floor model and a 19-inch portable color television set available at discount prices, it was reported.

Holle met the man at the shopping center after ordering four sets. Holle was told to meet another man in front of the restaurant — the same location the Oak Forest man was to meet his contact.

The cash was exchanged, and Holle was given a Field's receipt and told to wait by the store's loading dock for the merchandise. Authorities were told by store agents that the sales slip was stolen from a Wisconsin store.

Police warned area residents to be on the alert against similar solicitations and to call local authorities if they receive any suspicious telephone calls offering special deals.

Journal features arts guild

The Elk Grove Arts Guild, a joint enterprise of the humanities division of Elk Grove High School and the Elk Grove Village Public Library, will be featured in the February issue of the English Journal, the largest national magazine for English teachers and official organ of the National Council of Teachers of English. The humanities division and the library will be cited for "sensitivity to community needs" and for being "innovative and imaginative in seeing beyond institutional walls."

Citizens wishing to take part in the Arts Guild may call Richard Calisch, 439-4800, ext. 71, or Mary Clark, 439-0447. They will receive a schedule of events including those of a large number of community organizations. There is no cost or obligation.

Density must be slashed on track land

by KURT BAER

The Richards Group of Illinois apparently will have to cut by half the number of apartments it is planning for Arlington Park Race Track if it expects the Village of Arlington Heights to approve the project.

A special joint committee of the village board and the plan commission voted unanimously Tuesday night to recommend that all of the village's normal density restrictions be applied to the proposed development at Arlington Park.

The decision means that instead of the 5,000 units proposed by the Richards Group for a 190-acre site north of the Arlington Park Towers Hotel, a maximum of about 2,700 dwelling units will be permitted.

Acting on the advice of Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel, the committee was steadfast in its position that the density of the apartment plan for Arlington Park is not negotiable.

"IT IS A QUESTION of law and I don't think questions of law are negotiable," said Trustee Frank Palmatier in response to a suggestion by Richard F. Babcock, Richards Group attorney, that the village and the developer might be able to compromise on the number of apartment units.

"We don't negotiate questions of density in this town. We never have and I don't think we're going to start now," Palmatier said.

The committee recommended that the Richards Group proceed to the plan commission with its project. But Babcock said after the meeting that he did not know whether the 5,000-unit plan would go to the plan commission.

Earlier in the meeting Babcock indicated the Richards Group might be willing to trade off approval of the 5,000 units for restrictions on the future development of the rest of the 400-acre Arlington Park complex.

"You'd be foolish to do that because if you did we'd hold you to it. We would never allow the race track to be used for anything but its present purposes and obviously there's not going to be a race track there for the end of time," Palmatier said.

"I'M NOT PROPOSING restriction to the end of time," Babcock replied. "Then you're wasting your time," Palmatier said.

Babcock said he disagreed with Siegel's opinion that the now-expired annexation agreement between the race track and the village did not waive density restrictions, and he left open the possibility of a court battle over the project.

"This is an area where responsible lawyers can disagree, especially in light of the language in the preannexation agreement," Babcock said, adding that there is "very little law" in Illinois on the subject of annexation agreements.

"We have funny ways of settling differences of opinion between attorneys," he said at another point.

Another trustee on the special committee, Russell Colvin, zeroed in on the twelve 33-story buildings in the Richards Group plan, buildings which he said may have been "tossed out as a shocker."

"THE FEELING of our community is that we would not have that kind of building," Colvin said, despite the fact that the annexation agreement apparently does permit high-rise construction at the race track.

Babcock denied that the 33-story apartment buildings or any other plan had been included in the plan "just for shock value."

Colvin said he did not want the race track or the village to start "choosing sides" over the development. But he said village officials must be sensitive to the feelings of Arlington Heights residents. "After all, this is the biggest thing that's come along," he said.

"LEAF ME ALONE!" says 13-month-old Marnie Harrison, who was busy getting her first look at fall while her father, Douglas, picks up behind her.

'Accountability' session Monday

Elk Grove Village residents will have a chance to talk things over with village trustees at an accountability session at 8 p.m. Monday at Elk Grove High School, 500 W. Elk Grove Blvd.

The meeting has been arranged by the Elk Grove Jaycees. Randy Melind, Jaycees public relations director, said he is hoping for a large crowd.

"This is not just an opportunity to question village officials on problems such as furnaces, home fuel or future growth, but to offer suggestions on how some areas may be improved," he said.

Melind said the accountability session is the first of its kind to be conducted in the community.

"It gives residents concerned about our village an opportunity to sound-off to the right people and receive the right answers," he commented. "We sincerely hope the residents will take this opportunity and talk to the village officials in an informal atmosphere."

Police probe shooting of Addison man

Police from two suburbs are investigating the shooting of an Addison man who was treated early Tuesday at Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

The man, Arthur Pechen, 25, was taken to the hospital by Elk Grove Village police about 5:30 a.m. after the car in which he was a passenger was stopped for a traffic violation, police said.

Pechen told police he was shot in the hip by a robber in the driveway of his home, 1000 Ill. Rte. 53, and was being taken to the hospital by the driver, Dean Miller of Cicero, when Miller's car was stopped.

Addison and Cicero police are investigating the shooting and are planning to question both men.

Chicagoan arrested with bribe attempt

A Chicago man was arrested Monday for the attempted bribery of an Elk Grove Village patrolman.

Earl Stewart, 39, of 6824 S. Jeffrey St., was charged with compounding a crime. Free on $100 bond, Stewart must appear in Elk Grove Village branch of Circuit Court Dec. 4 to answer the bribery charge and a traffic violation.

Police said Stewart was stopped for a traffic violation at Nicholas and Lunt streets in the Elk Grove Village industrial park and offered the arresting patrolman $10 to drop the charge.

A News Analysis

Taxpayers in Hoffman Estates will find more of the family budget going to the village next year and the reason for the bigger bite should not surprise the already-struggling consumer.

Inflation has collared the village. Several new taxes planned to go into effect Jan. 1 are regarded by officials to be the best way to pay for the rising cost of services.

"We got hit with inflation like anyone else," Village Mgr. George Longmeyer said. "Inflation has been just as severe on the village as it has been on the housewife. We either cut services or balance the budget."

Higher costs for supplies, services and labor have accounted for 15 to 18 per cent increases in village expenses, Longmeyer said, and while officials have pledged not to increase real estate property taxes, at least three new taxes will go into effect next year. They are:

- A 5 per cent utility tax will be charged on all gas, electric and telephone bills. The tax, expected to cost

Motorola building theft loss at $26,000

The value of building materials taken over the weekend from the Motorola Inc. building under construction in Schaumburg has been raised to about $26,000.

It had been estimated Sunday that the loss from the building near Meacham Road and the Northwest Tollway would be between $5,000 and $10,000. But the Sunday figure was wrong because some subcontractors on the job had not been contacted.

Taken from small storage areas on the floors from the basement to the seventh floor were tools, copper wire, radios and other equipment, it was reported.

Police received theft reports from 15 subcontractors.

THIRD GRADERS at Schaumburg Elementary School let loose of some 200 balloons, each containing a card with a student's name asking the finder to write a letter to the student. The balloon launch was part of the third-grade reading and science programs. Students got the idea for the launch from a story they read. They studied wind currents in science class to get an idea where the balloons would land.

Questions delay real estate transfer tax

Questions over a proposed real estate transfer tax in Hoffman Estates have prompted village officials to delay action on the matter.

Village trustees agreed Monday to return to committee the proposed tax after queries on its use, enforcement and payment arose. The tax, which officials hope to enact by Jan. 1, will be reviewed by trustees in committee.

The proposed tax would be based on a similar one adopted by the City of Chicago this year. It would charge buyers of property in the village up to one-tenth of one per cent of the cost of the real estate. The charge on an average $40,000 home in the village would be $40.

It has been estimated that the tax could generate $40,000 for the first four months of 1975, according to the village budget.

As proposed, the tax would levy a charge on the buyer rather than the seller of property, but trustees and Village Pres. Virginia Hayter questioned whether that would be appropriate.

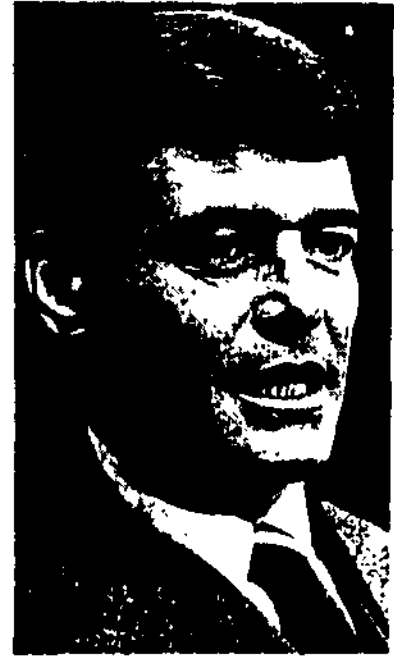

VILLAGE ATTY. Edward Hofert said the Chicago statute, on which the village proposal is based, apparently was aimed at the buyer for a legal reason and he recommended trustees determine that reason.

He said an enforcement factor may be in part responsible because collection from the buyer, who would remain in the village, may be easier than from the seller, who may leave.

A question also arose on the enforcement of the tax by the county recorder of deeds office. Village Mgr. George Longmeyer said the recorder's office has indicated it would attempt to cooperate with the village, but apparently cannot legally refuse to file a deed.

AT ONE POINT the need for the tax was questioned by Trustees Edward Hennessy and Dyrle Rathman. Hennessy said board action one week ago reducing the 1975 vehicle sticker cost will cut revenue income by $25,000. At the same time the village is seeking the real estate tax to increase its income.

PHILIP CRANE

by JOE SWICKARD

Philip M. Crane and Betty Spence agreed in a debate Tuesday that the two major issues in the election are inflation and the possibility of massive voter apathy.

The candidates for the seat in the 12th Congressional district met in a debate sponsored by the National Assn. of Letter Carriers at Miner Junior High School in Arlington Heights. The audience of about 50 persons seemed evenly divided between backers of Crane, the Republican incumbent, and Mrs. Spence, his Democratic challenger.

Crane, after noting a Democratic control of the federal legislature, said inflation was the result of "printing press money" being used by Congress to buy votes with the voters' "own money."

"Politicians have learned, unfortunately, that spending is short-term good politics," he said.

LABELING INFLATION as "indirect taxation," Crane charged it was the result of Congress giving in to "special interest groups" by funding their projects through deficit financing.

"If Congress doesn't change its practice of spending in the next five years it can lead to the ruin of this country's economy," he said. "We are threatening the destruction of all our institutions."

Mrs. Spence said that after many meetings and recommendations "... nothing has been done" in Washington to curb inflation.

She attacked President Gerald Ford's 5 per cent surtax proposal as taking from the people and giving to big industry.

The middle-class citizen, she said, is already carrying his fair share of taxes and "We in the 12th District can't afford the surtax."

AS PART OF A program to stem inflation, she proposed vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws, a balanced federal budget and a tight rein on defense spending.

She further proposed a "short-term" program of public employment, oil price rollbacks and full crop production by farmers.

Crane hit reports that up to 70 per cent of the electorate would stay at home during the election. He said it would be "catastrophic" if these reports are borne out next Tuesday.

He acknowledged that people do have reason for feeling "betrayed" by recent scandals, but said scandals have been a part of the political system throughout history at all levels. He cited corruption from Wheeling to Watergate as "unfortunate" examples of public misconduct.

MRS. SPENCE ALSO said people "have reason to feel betrayed" and public officials must work to overcome "... the total and complete lack of trust" in them.

Crane defended his recent vote against a child-abuse protection law because it would "run the risk of preempting the traditional parent-child relationship" and could "give" children over to the federal government.

Mrs. Spence said federal child-abuse legislation was necessary to prevent a recurrence of incidents such as the beating death of Johnny Lindquist of Chicago.

Several new taxes to hit village residents hard

• Real estate transfer tax on all property sold in the village will begin Jan. 1. This tax, to be required from property buyers, will be assessed at about one-tenth per cent the value of the real estate sold. The tax scale calls for a $40 charge on a home sold for $40,000, the estimated average cost of a home in the village.

• A use tax on personal property items which require registration in Illinois, but are purchased by residents outside the state to avoid paying Illinois sales tax. Funds derived from this tax are expected to be minimal, but the tax will take away the advantage of buying items such as cars in states where sales tax is less than in Illinois.

Taxpayers will get a "break" in one area, though, since the village has authorized a reduction in the cost of vehicle stickers for next year. The stickers will cost $6 compared with $7.50 this year, a reduction which is expected to cut back revenues by about $25,000.

The new taxes will supplement property tax revenues which are generated for the village according to its $108 million assessed valuation and other village income such as motor fuel tax funds, federal revenue-sharing money and state income tax.

The village's tax rate is about 77 cents per $100 assessed valuation, about 13 cents of which goes to payment of bonds for the municipal building.

THE VILLAGE'S total operating budget for fiscal 1974 is about $4.3 million. In comparison, neighboring Schaumburg, which benefits from the mammoth sales tax generated by the Woodfield Shopping Center, levies no property tax and operates with a higher $7.2 million budget.

The lack of a broad sales-tax base has been a factor in the village's need to rely on taxing.

The utility tax, which officials hope will generate up to $300,000 the first year, will be specifically aimed at paying for the expected deficit in the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District. The district will dissolve when fire protection duties are assumed by the village, but the transfer will include the liability of a red-linked budget.

A deficit of $100,000 to $250,000 is being forecast in the district budget, and village officials last month said the amount could not be paid unless a new revenue source could be tapped.

"THE SOLE INTENT of the utility tax was to offset the fire district deficit," Longmeyer said. "We could have absorbed it on the property tax, but that would have been permanent. Once we made it a property tax levy, it would be on the books for a year. With this we have more control of it plus we will get the money from it immediately."

The real estate transfer tax is a revenue source which is needed to help fund ongoing village needs, he said.

"We had to make some critical cuts last year," Longmeyer said. Financial limitations forced the hiring of example, of only six new policemen, even though 11 had been requested, he said. Asphalt and cement costs have increased, salary demands have gone up and garbage costs are expected to rise next year as well, and special capital improvement work also is needed, he said.

"The next major project has to be our sidewalks," Longmeyer said.

EQUIPMENT NEEDS in the public works department, the repair of older equipment and water wells and demands for more health inspectors will require additional revenue, he added.

The real estate transfer tax would be applied to all residential, commercial, industrial and new construction sales. Budget predictions estimate the tax will bring in $40,000 for the first four months of 1975.

Nixon condition called critical

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon went into vascular shock Tuesday afternoon and was listed in critical condition following an operation to stop blood clots threatening his life.

Earlier in the day, Nixon, 61, had been reported as "doing well" and in "stable condition" after an operation of about an hour by five doctors starting at 5:30 a.m. PST at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

Optimistic reports that Nixon was in a normal post-operative condition and his phlebitis arrested by insertion of a clip on a vein in a leg groin continued throughout the day until a new bulletin was released in early evening.

Dr. John Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said at that time that his patient had gone "suddenly into vascular shock."

"A team of physicians and intensive care unit nurses administered counter-shock measures for three hours until a stable vascular condition was once again restored."

The bulletin said the "serious complications" were probably caused by the fact Nixon had been undergoing such extreme anticoagulant therapy that he was subject to excessive bleeding.

"Replacement of blood lost and a relaxation of anticoagulation therapy was instituted," Lungren said.

"At 5 p.m. this afternoon the vascular stability is still maintained. At this time the patient is still considered critical."

The sudden turn for the worse in the condition of the man who resigned the presidency under fire Aug. 9 came after a day in which his doctors had painted a picture of him permanently overcoming blood clots and being released from the hospital by the end of this week.

Pat Nixon was at her husband's side when he came back from the operating room and initial reports had indicated that the plastic clip would stop any floating clots from reaching his heart or lungs.

Lungren had said previously that anyone undergoing major surgery and general anesthetic was taking a risk but decided that an operation was immediately necessary after a test Monday night disclosed a new fresh blood clot in Nixon's thigh which endangered his life.

The team of surgeons performed the operation on an emergency basis, with Nixon's agreement, because of fear the new clot in the left leg above those found before and closer to the vena cava might reach the heart.

"The new clot threatened to become a pulmonary embolus and thus endanger Mr. Nixon's life," Lungren said.

Track property housing density faces big cut

by KURT BAER

The Richards Group of Illinois apparently will have to cut by half the number of apartments it is planning for Arlington Park Race Track if it expects the Village of Arlington Heights to approve the project.

A special joint committee of the village board and the plan commission voted unanimously Tuesday night to recommend that all of the village's normal density restrictions be applied to the proposed development at Arlington Park.

The decision means that instead of the 3,000 units proposed by the Richards Group for a 180-acre site north of the Arlington Park Racetrack, a maximum of about 2,700 dwelling units will be permitted.

Acting on the advice of Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel, the committee was steadfast in its position that the density of the apartment plan for Arlington Park is not negotiable.

"IT IS A QUESTION of law and I don't think questions of law are negotiable," said Trustee Frank Palmatier in response to a suggestion by Richard F. Babcock, Richards Group attorney, that the village and the developer might be able to compromise on the number of apartment units.

"We don't negotiate questions of density in this town. We never have and I don't think we're going to start now," Palmatier said.

The committee recommended that the Richards Group proceed to the plan commission with its project. But Babcock said after the meeting that he did not know whether the 3,000-unit plan would go to the plan commission.

Earlier in the meeting Babcock indicated the Richards Group might be willing to trade off approval of the 3,000 units for restrictions on the future development of the rest of the 400-acre Arlington Park complex.

"You'd be foolish to do that because if you did we'd hold you to it. We would never allow the race track to be used for anything but its present purposes and obviously there's not going to be a race track there for the end of time," Palmatier said.

"I'M NOT PROPOSING restriction to the end of time," Babcock replied.

"Then you're wasting your time," Palmatier said.

Babcock said he disagreed with Siegel's opinion that the now-expired annexation agreement between the race track and the village did not waive density restrictions, and he left open the possibility of a court battle over the project.

"This is an area where responsible lawyers can disagree, especially in light of the language in the preannexation agreement," Babcock said, adding that there is "very little law" in Illinois on the subject of annexation agreements.

"We have funny ways of settling differences of opinion between attorneys," he said at another point.

Another trustee on the special committee, Russell Colvin, zeroed in on the twelve 33-story buildings in the Richards Group plan, buildings which he said may have been "tossed out as a shocker."

"A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS" will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday by students at Rolling Meadows High School, 2901 Central Rd. Tom Lawson, left, will appear as Cardinal Wolsey. Thomas Backet, right, will be portrayed by Scott Shumacher. For tickets, call 259-9640.

City stands alone without blood plan

Rolling Meadows is the only Northwest suburb that does not have a municipally sponsored blood-replacement program, a Herald survey shows.

Within the city, there are two private blood donor programs, both organized by churches. Trinity Lutheran Church limits donors, and generally limits recipients, to members of its congregation. Community Church of Rolling Meadows opens its program to the public, but only a small number of donations come from outside the congregation.

In eight other local suburbs municipal governments sponsor blood programs. In most, churches and civic organizations also conduct their own blood programs, similar to those of Trinity Lutheran and Community Church. Some local governments pay an employee to direct the program, although most rely on volunteers.

Thief gets $90 to $100 in church burglary

Between $90 and $100 was stolen from Meadows Baptist Church, 2401 Kirchoff Rd., Rolling Meadows, early Wednesday morning.

The theft was discovered by the Rev. Michael Green, pastor, at about 6:30

In Rolling Meadows, municipal sponsorship of blood drives has been considered, and turned down several times. Most recently, the board of health in April reaffirmed its position that a city a.m. Tuesday. Rev. Green said the church had been checked at midnight Monday, and had not been burglarized then.

COMMUNITY-WIDE blood programs are fairly standard in concept and design. Local residents are asked to donate enough blood to meet a quota — usually equal to four per cent of the community's population. Attaining the quota within a year's time entitles any resident, whether he has donated or not, to unlimited supplies of "free" blood for transfusions. Some programs also cover persons who live outside the community.

Both Trinity and Community churches organized their programs through Mt. Sinai Hospital Blood Center, Chicago. (Continued on page 8)

City only NW suburb without blood program

Trinity's also is through the Aid Association for Lutherans. Neither church is assigned a quota, but Trinity generally has between 75 and 100 donations, and Community Church has averaged 85 pints in the blood drives it holds once a year.

Trinity provides in its bylaws to supply blood for the needs of persons outside the congregation, but it requires formal approval by the pastor, chairman and secretary of the association branch. Rev. Carl Thrun said the church never receives blood requests from nonmembers, but when members become aware of an individual emergency need they sometimes donate for a particular person.

COMMUNITY CHURCH receives about eight or ten pints from nonmembers each year, and any resident of the community is welcome to use the "free" blood available because of the program, Rev. William Herman said. Requests should be made directly to him, and he will inform Mt. Sinai to supply the blood to the hospital where the patient is being treated.

But Rev. Herman feels it would be inaccurate to say Community Church sponsors a community-wide program.

Both pastors say the city should have a program. "It would be a fine thing. I would very much encourage it," Rev. Herman said. "Hopefully we will never have a catastrophe," he said, but he added the supply generated by his church might not be adequate if one occurred.

Rev. Thrun notes the city is populated by "comparatively young" persons, without "a lot of need, but with the ability to give. One day we'll be old, and we'll need it," he said.

"This is the time we should tap them for just good common human concern," Rev. Thrun said.

The ministers agreed their church programs would continue to thrive, and would not suffer from competition by a city program.

CONCERN THAT competition could kill the church programs is one reason Kenneth Johnson, president of the Board of Health, gave for the board's recommendation against a city program. The city council accepted the board's judgment and aldermen say they are not inclined to reopen the matter.

Johnson noted there also are private programs through employers in the city and of residents of the city. Persons participating in those would not participate in a city program, Johnson said. If they did, the private programs might suffer, he said. Johnson doubts a local program could be a success.

Less than one tenth of one per cent of city residents avail themselves of free glaucoma and diabetes testing sponsored by the city that is given in the resident's home, Johnson said. He added he was told by a blood bank spokesman small communities like Rolling Meadows generally have a successful first year, and are unable to meet quotas the second year.

The city would have to "beg and cajole" residents to donate, Johnson said, and those who gave once would say "let someone else do it" the second time around.

JOHNSON ALSO noted in individual cases of blood needs, city residents are quick to volunteer donations. While the Board of Health would not oppose a city council decision to start a program, "it was just our personal opinion that people wouldn't give," he said.

Johnson also said blood received through nonprofit centers is not really free. While the centers are barred by law from charging for the actual blood, they are permitted to charge processing fees to type blood, determine antibody levels and test for hepatitis. Hospitals pay those fees, but pass them along to patients, sometimes disguising them in bills, and the fees are inflated both by the blood centers and by the hospitals, Johnson charged.

Joel Johnson, donor services director for the North Suburban Blood Center, and Roger Sullivan, coadministrator for Beverly Blood Center, both disputed Kenneth Johnson's claims. Beverly has found donor enthusiasm is sustained over several years, Sullivan said, and smaller communities generally meet their quotas more easily than large ones, because "smaller towns have more companionship, a more homy feeling." Larger communities are more prone to apathy, he said.

Beverly charges hospitals a $26-per-unit processing fee. North Suburban charges $23.

Nixon condition called critical

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon went into vascular shock Tuesday afternoon and was listed in critical condition following an operation to stop blood clots threatening his life.

Earlier in the day, Nixon, 61, had been reported as "doing well" and in "stable condition" after an operation of about an hour by five doctors starting at 5:30 a.m. PST at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

Optimistic reports that Nixon was in a normal post-operative condition and his phlebitis arrested by insertion of a clip on a vein in a leg groin continued throughout the day until a new bulletin was released in early evening.

Dr. John Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said at that time that his patient had gone "suddenly into vascular shock."

"A team of physicians and intensive care unit nurses administered counter-shock measures for three hours until a stable vascular condition was once again restored."

The bulletin said the "serious complications" were probably caused by the fact Nixon had been undergoing such extreme anticoagulant therapy that he was subject to excessive bleeding.

"Replacement of blood and a relaxation of anticoagulation therapy was instituted," Lungren said.

The sudden turn for the worse in the condition of the man who resigned the presidency under fire Aug. 9 came after a day in which his doctors had painted a picture of him permanently overcoming blood clots and being released from the hospital by the end of this week.

Pat Nixon was at her husband's side when he came back from the operating room and initial reports had indicated that the plastic clip would stop any floating clots from reaching his heart or lungs.

Lungren had said previously that anyone undergoing major surgery and general anesthetic was taking a risk but decided that an operation was immediately necessary after a test Monday night disclosed a new fresh blood clot in Nixon's thigh which endangered his life.

The team of surgeons performed the operation on an emergency basis, with Nixon's agreement, because of fear the new clot in the left leg above those found before and closer to the vena cava might reach the heart.

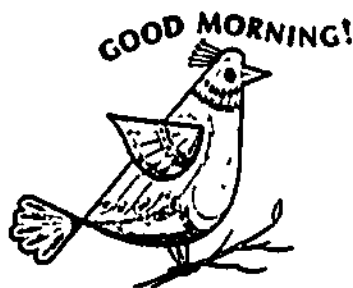

"The new clot threatened to become a pulmonary embolus and thus endanger Mr. Nixon's life," Lungren said.

Would save $3.72 to $8.52

Fonte renews call for lowered taxes

Trustee Richard W. Fonte has renewed his call for a lowering of taxes in Palatine.

Fonte, chairman of the administration, finance and legislation committee, said he "would like the board to consider abating the police or fire levy."

Eliminating the police levy would save homeowners $3.72 on property assessed at $12,000, while eliminating the fire levy would result in a savings of $8.52.

Fonte's statements came Monday night after the board approved a change in the village's accounting procedures which added $31,000 to the general fund.

"THIS IS MONEY we did not know was available when we considered the tax levy," Fonte said.

Fonte said he believes the village can maintain its present level of police and fire services in spite of eliminating one of the levies by using the $31,000.

The projected police tax rate for 1975 is 31 cents per $100 assessed valuation, to generate $40,000, and the projected fire levy is 7.1 cents, to generate $90,000.

The board has until Dec. 31 to amend the tax levy ordinance it adopted last month. The tax levy ordinance established the amount of money the village will need from real estate taxes. The ordinance is filed with the county clerk who uses it to determine what the 1975 tax rate will be.

The village tax rate accounts for a small portion of the tax bill Palatine residents receive each year.

The additional $31,000 was added to the general fund on the recommendation of David Veatch, village auditor. Veatch recommended the village close the $45,000 land dedication waiver fund and the $5,000 public benefit fund and transfer the funds to the general fund.

"Many years ago these funds were set aside but there was no decision on how they should be used," Fonte said. He explained the current village board was not even aware the funds existed until the audit was completed.

Fonte said he would call for a review of the village's cash and tax levy ordinance at an administration, finance and legislation committee when Veatch is present to answer questions.

FONTE HAD originally proposed abolishing the property tax to finance general village expenditures and Civil Defense. Instead of relying on the property tax to finance village operations, Fonte suggested the village look to other sources of revenue including sales tax, state and federal revenue-sharing and motor-fuel tax funds.

Other trustees voted to hold the line on taxes and some village administrators asked for an increase in the tax levy.

The board voted to maintain taxes at their current level of 13.9 cents per $100 assessed valuation in September but this decision was made before trustees were aware of the $51,000.

Families who move into the stately old homes of Palatine encounter both joys and problems unique to a house built more than 50 years ago.

Fare hike may not affect elderly

Senior citizens will be exempt from a proposed 20-cent-per-mile hike in taxi fares if a proposal by Martin Cab Co. is approved by the Palatine Board.

Richard Vana, Palatine manager of Martin Cab Co., has asked the board to approve the fare raise and 10-cent increase in the base price of a taxi ride. A program that would allow Palatine's senior citizens to ride anywhere in the village for 50 cents also is being proposed by Vana. Martin Cab Co. now operates four cabs within the village.

The rate hike and senior citizen program Monday both were referred to the health, safety and welfare committee of the board for review and a recommendation.

The proposed rate hike would increase the base price of a taxi ride from 60 to 70 cents and the cost per mile from 50 to 70 cents. If the rate hike is approved, Martin Cab would drop its 20 per cent over-the-meter cost for taxi fares outside the village limits, said Vana. This means a passenger would always pay the rate shown on the meter.

THE MULTIPLE-LOAD rate also would be reduced if the rate hike is approved, Vana said. He explained that passengers presently are charged both a mileage and time rate. The proposal is to drop the time rate on taxi loads of two or more passengers.

Apathy, inflation vote keys

by JOE SWICKARD

Philip M. Crane and Betty Spence agreed in a debate Tuesday that the two major issues in the election are inflation and the possibility of massive voter apathy.

The candidates for the seat in the 12th Congressional district met in a debate sponsored by the National Assn. of Letter Carriers at Miner Junior High School in Arlington Heights. The audience of about 50 persons seemed evenly divided between backers of Crane, the Republican incumbent, and Mrs. Spence, his Democratic challenger.

Crane, after noting a Democratic control of the federal legislature, said inflation was the result of "printing press money" being used by Congress to buy votes with the voters' "own money."

"Politicians have learned, unfortunately, that spending is short-term good politics," he said.

LABELING INFLATION as "indirect taxation," Crane charged it was the result of Congress giving in to "special interest groups" by funding their projects through deficit finances.

"If Congress doesn't change its practice of spending in the next five years it can lead to the ruin of this country's economy," he said. "We are threatening the destruction of all our institutions."

Mrs. Spence said that after many meetings and recommendations "nothing has been done" in Washington to curb inflation.

She attacked President Gerald Ford's 5 per cent surtax proposal as taking from the people and giving to big industry.

The middle-class citizen, she said, is already carrying his fair share of taxes and "We in the 12th District can't afford the surtax."

AS PART OF A program to stem inflation, she proposed vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws, a balanced federal budget and a tight rein on defense spending.

She further proposed a "short-term" program of public employment, oil price rollbacks and full crop production by farmers.

Crane hit reports that up to 70 per cent of the electorate would stay at home during the election. He said it would be "catastrophic" if these reports are borne out next Tuesday.

He acknowledged that people do have reason for feeling "betrayed" by recent scandals, but said scandals have been a part of the political system throughout history at all levels. He cited corruption from Wheeling to Watergate as "unfortunate" examples of public misconduct.

MRS. SPENCE ALSO said people "have reason to feel betrayed" and public officials must work to overcome "the total and complete lack of trust" in them.

Crane defended his recent vote against a child-abuse protection law because it would "run the risk of preemption the traditional parent-child relationship" and could "give" children over to the federal government.

Mrs. Spence said federal child-abuse legislation was necessary to prevent a recurrence of incidents such as the beating death of Johnny Lindquist of Chicago.

ranch home they owned in Prospect Heights.

Brass doorknobs, brass keyhole covers, crystal chandeliers and radiator heat characterize the three-story, 10-room house. Unlike many old homes, daytime fills the house with sunlight, as it streams in through the many high, narrow windows in the plaster walls.

Wooden louver doors separate the dining room from the hall and the kitchen. An L-shaped central stairway to the second floor is typically old-fashioned with a walnut banister and white wooden spindles.

A MARBLE FIREPLACE in the parlor provides heat during the colder months, and two parlor doors open to an enclosed porch that offers "fresh air and lots of pleasure during the warm months," Mrs. Treiber says.

A clear, leaded glass, fan-shaped window hangs over the top of the heavy white wooden door. The main bathroom and the kitchen facilities are modernized — nothing else. One small closet in the front of the home was converted into a half-bathroom many years ago. A miniature old-time corner sink and a chandelier still are part of the three-foot-by-four-foot bathroom.

All the archways between the rooms are rounded, and all the bedroom closets on the second floor have small windows. Woodwork has been painted white. A small butler's pantry attached to the kitchen was converted to a bar area by previous owners.

The walls were freshly painted and the house was "clean and in good condition" when her family moved in, Mrs. Treiber said.

SHE SAYS SHE and her family "love our new home because it has so much decorating potential." They have converted the third floor attic into a bedroom for their teen-age daughter and have converted what was once a library on the first floor into a family room.

"One thing we've discovered already is that it's almost impossible to find chimney sweeps anymore to clean out your fireplace for you. We've already got a clog in ours," she said.

Mrs. Treiber and her husband also have been contemplating the exterior paint job ahead of them next spring.

"The upkeep on an old house like this is unbelievable. The inside is enough to keep clean, but the lawn work and keeping up the trees on our property is really a chore," she said.

MRS. TREIBER said despite the maintenance, she's "delighted" they bought the home. Today it probably would cost at least $150,000 to build the house the same way — much less than what the Treibers paid for it, she said.

The Treiber family hasn't been able to find out too much of the home's history. Mrs. Treiber only knows the home's first owner was a Palatine bank president and a county superintendent of schools also once lived in the house.

"It's been easy for us to make this a comfortable home right away," she said. "All the modern furniture that we had in our other home and all the antique furniture that we have collected blend together well in this type of a house. They probably wouldn't in a newer home."

An 18th-Century china cabinet and pie-saver cabinet are antiques Mrs. Treiber has been able to place in the dining room, where she also has a more modern dining set.

DONALD AND CHRIS Payton have found the same decorating advantage exists in their 48-year-old home at 235 N. Bothwell. When the couple moved into the home in June, they placed an antique oakwood dining set and hutch in the dining room and modern-style furniture that included "mushroom chairs" in the living room. "And it looks good that way, it all blends in together," Payton said.

The Paytons moved into the 10-room, Queen Anne-style home from a one-bedroom apartment in Palatine.

"The most difficult thing that we've found has been cleaning and improving the condition of the home," he said.

Nixon condition called critical

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon went into vascular shock Tuesday afternoon and was listed in critical condition following an operation to stop blood clots threatening his life.

Earlier in the day, Nixon, 61, had been reported as "doing well" and in "stable condition" after an operation of about an hour by five doctors starting at 5:30 a.m. PST at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

Optimistic reports that Nixon was in a normal post-operative condition and his phlebitis arrested by insertion of a clip on a vein in a leg groin continued throughout the day until a new bulletin was released in early evening.

The bulletin said the "serious complications" were probably caused by the fact Nixon had been undergoing such extreme anticoagulant therapy that he was subject to excessive bleeding.

"Replacement of blood lost and a relaxation of anticoagulation therapy was instituted," Lungren said.

"At 5 p.m. this afternoon the vascular stability is still maintained. At this time the patient is still considered critical."

The sudden turn for the worse in the condition of the man who resigned the presidency under fire Aug. 9 came after a day in which his doctors had painted a picture of him permanently overcoming blood clots and being released from the hospital by the end of this week.

Seven-member group formed

First task of downtown commission: Recommending location of library

by LYNN ASINOF

The first task of Mount Prospect's new downtown development commission will be to recommend the location of the new public library.

At their first meeting Tuesday night, commission members noted the urgency of making a recommendation on the library site. "If we do nothing, there'll be a building right here," Chairman Robert Bennett told the commission, pointing to the Central School site at Main Street and Central Road.

Bennett, who previously chaired the ad hoc downtown planning group, noted that the two consulting firms hired to study the downtown area proposed locating the library closer to the Mount Prospect State Bank. Because the village is moving its administrative offices to the bank building at Emerson Street and Busse Avenue, Bennett said, the consultants said this would create a more unified service area.

THE COMMISSION IS hoping to begin a study of alternative sites for the library at a meeting Nov. 5. The library architect and one of the consulting firms will be invited to discuss the Central School site and other locations.

Among other locations to be considered are property just north of the present library and property at the northeast corner of Emerson Street and Busse Avenue.

Noting that the character of the downtown redevelopment might be vitally affected by the library location, commission member Harold J. Predovich said: "We'd hate to see the library wag the dog."

Predovich, president of the Mount Prospect Combined Appeal, and Bennett were among six persons appointed to the commission by Mayor Robert D. Teichert. A seventh member is to be appointed by Teichert by the end of the week. Other members include:

- Robert McBride, member of the planning commission for five years, member of the ad hoc downtown planning group, and an architect.

- Jack Anderson, member of the Mount Prospect Public Library Board and a part-owner of a fire equipment company.

- George March, former chairman of the village's drainage and clean streams commission and partner in the Des Plaines engineering firm M & E/Alstot, March and Guillou Inc.

- Gil Liebenow, former member of the Mount Prospect Public Library Board and a member of the board of directors of the Northwest Suburban YMCA.

Bennett said he expects the commission to meet once or possibly twice a week during the early weeks of developing a plan for revitalizing the central business district. The group has set aside Thursday nights for regular meetings, with Tuesday nights designated as a possible meeting time if additional sessions are necessary.

The commission members reviewed the work done to date by the two consulting firms and were given copies of reports on the downtown project so they could become acquainted with material before their next meeting.

A TRAGEDY of young love, "Romeo and Juliet," will be presented Thursday through Saturday by Prospect High School students at the school, 801 W. Kensington Rd. Gail Winard will appear as one of three Juliets. James Kelly will star as Romeo. For ticket information, call 255-9700.

Police chief hurt slightly in accident

Police Chief Ralph J. Doney of Mount Prospect was injured slightly Tuesday when struck by a car while walking through a bank parking lot.

Doney, 41, was treated at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, after the 12:30 p.m. accident. Tuesday night, Doney said he only was bruised and should be back to work today.

Doney was walking through the Countryside Bank parking lot, 1190 S. Elmhurst Rd., when he was struck and knocked down by the auto, which was backing out of a parking space, police said.

The driver, Richard C. Crandall, 42, of 412 Cummock Rd., Palatine, was charged with backing out in an unsafe manner and is to appear Nov. 27 in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

Bus driver rapped for crossing tracks

by JUDY JOBBITT

A bus driver has been reprimanded for driving a busload of Mount Prospect students across the railroad tracks Thursday while the gates were down.

The disciplinary action came after parents complained to the school, Mount Prospect police and Cook County School Bus Inc.

Clyde Diamond was driving students from Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect home about noon on Thursday, police said. The school had been dismissed early for a teacher work-shop day.

Diamond told police he followed the regular route north on Emerson Street to cross Prospect Avenue and the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks. The gate at Emerson Street was reported down across the tracks. Diamond said he went east on Prospect Avenue to Mount Prospect Road to try to cross the tracks there.

THE GATES also were down at Mount Prospect Road. Police reported that Diamond said he checked for trains and saw none coming, although he did see one stopped at the Cumberland Station.

He crossed the tracks without an accident.

Two parents called police and reported the driver's actions. Police investigated the incident with the bus firm.

"He did something wrong," said E. Zimmerman, bus company manager. He said Diamond told him that he thought the gate at Mount Prospect Road also was stuck so proceeded with caution across the tracks.

Zimmerman said Diamond has been reprimanded and informed of the "understood" policy that no bus is to be driven across railroad tracks against a closed gate until the barrier is lifted by an authorized person.

SAM DONATUCCI, assistant principal at Lincoln, said he received a call from a parent who was concerned about the incident. He said he called the bus company and was informed that a policeman waved Diamond through the crossing.

Because of this information, he said he did not investigate it further except to be reassured of the company's policy and the driver's notification about it.

Donatucci and Mount Prospect Dist. 57 administrators are investigating the situation further now that they have learned the bus driver went through the crossing on his own, he said.

Apathy, inflation vote keys

by JOE SWICKARD

Philip M. Crane and Betty Spence agreed in a debate Tuesday that the two major issues in the election are inflation and the possibility of massive voter apathy.

The candidates for the seat in the 12th Congressional district met in a debate sponsored by the National Assn. of Letter Carriers at Miner Junior High School in Arlington Heights. The audience of about 50 persons seemed evenly divided between backers of Crane, the Republican incumbent, and Mrs. Spence, his Democratic challenger.

Crane, after noting a Democratic control of the federal legislature, said inflation was the result of "printing press money" being used by Congress to buy votes with the voters' "own money."

"Politicians have learned, unfortunately, that spending is short-term good politics," he said.

LABELING INFLATION as "indirect taxation," Crane charged it was the result of Congress giving in to "special interest groups" by funding their projects through deficit finances.

"If Congress doesn't change its practice of spending in the next five years it can lead to the ruin of this country's economy," he said. "We are threatening the destruction of all our institutions."

Mrs. Spence said that after many meetings and recommendations "... nothing has been done" in Washington to curb inflation.

She attacked President Gerald Ford's 5 per cent surtax proposal as taking from the people and giving to big industry.

The middle-class citizen, she said, is already carrying his fair share of taxes and "We in the 12th District can't afford the surtax."

AS PART OF A program to stem inflation, she proposed vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws, a balanced federal budget and a tight rein on defense spending.

She further proposed a "short-term" program of public employment, oil price rollbacks and full crop production by farmers.

Crane hit reports that up to 70 per cent of the electorate would stay at home during the election. He said it would be "catastrophic" if these reports are borne out next Tuesday.

He acknowledged that people do have reason for feeling "betrayed" by recent scandals, but said scandals have been a part of the political system throughout history at all levels. He cited corruption from Wheeling to Watergate as "unfortunate" examples of public misconduct.

MRS. SPENCE ALSO said people "have reason to feel betrayed" and public officials must work to overcome "... the total and complete lack of trust" in them.

Crane defended his recent vote against a child-abuse protection law because it would "run the risk of preempting the traditional parent-child relationship" and could "give" children over to the federal government.

Mrs. Spence said federal child-abuse legislation was necessary to prevent a recurrence of incidents such as the beating death of Johnny Lindquist of Chicago.

Prospect band deserves glory

Local high school students claim it's frustrating to be a band member of a High School Dist. 214 school other than Hershey. The Rose Bowl-bound band is receiving much acclaim and many headlines as it prepares for the New Year's Day thrill.

Hershey, of course, deserves the glory. However, other local high schools also have great bands.

Last week, at Prospect High School's Bandorama, the Marching Knights presented their annual show of routines performed during halftime shows at football games. It was a splendid exhibition of skill and talent.

The Marching Knights are made up of 220 band members and Rhythmette pom-pom girls. The "charting," or marching, plans for the routines were prepared by the two drum majors, Mike Mroz and Mary Toljanic.

Graduating seniors also were recognized for their contributions to the band, and faculty members received appreciation mementos. Gifts were presented to Rhythmette director Ruth Ann Norman, Rhythmette captain Alice Martino and Janine Jensen, band director Ralph Wilder, band librarian and secretary Eileen Ryan, and to the "uniform moms" — Mrs. Farrar, Mrs. Wallich, Mrs. Mosher and Mrs. Baumgartner (and even Mrs. Baumgartner's mother). The speaker for the band, Sterling Mische, also was recognized.

The most memorable number was the finale, which remains similar year-to-year and has come to be a Bandorama tradition.

In total darkness, while the band played fervent patriotic music, Rhythmette seniors carried and folded a spotlighted American flag. All the while, Sterling Mische's resonant voice read the words of "The Americans," Canadian Gordon Sinclair's famed record of appreciation for the American people.

It was a beautiful tear-jerker which the audience and performers loved.

THERE WAS MUCH jubilation at St. Mark Lutheran Church Sunday morning when Charlie, Pastor Nolan Watson's dog came home.

The male German short-haired pointer disappeared last April. He's been the unofficial church mascot for years.

Early Sunday morning Pastor Watson was looking out his study window and there was Charlie. He appeared to be happy to be back, still had his same collar and apparently had been well cared for.

Midget football pageant Sunday; Haaland is queen

The Mount Prospect Midget Football Pageant will begin at 1:30 p.m. Sunday with games between the seniors, 8-year-olds and junior all-star teams at Forest View High School, 2121 S. Goebbert Rd., Arlington Heights.

Karen Haaland, representing the champion Giants senior division team, will be crowned midget football queen in a pageant ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Haaland will reign with her court of princesses which includes Kelly O'Mara, representing the Bears; Linda Hunsinger, the Packers; Linda Shipman, Colts; Sandy Hodges, the Lions; and Karen Engel, the Cardinals.

After the pageant ceremony there will be a cheerleading contest between the teams. Also, Senior Loyalty Awards will be presented to Susan Santostefano,

Area men survive Israeli bus crash

Four area men are among the survivors of a bus accident in Israel Saturday that took the lives of three Americans on a skin-diving trip.

The four are Steven Fox of Des Plaines and Edward Turney, William Schmoldt and Greg Shutt, all of Mount Prospect.

The four are members of the International Divers Assn., who were on a bus that overturned near a Sinai highway.

Fox, 17, a senior at Forest View High School, was released Tuesday from a hospital at Eilat, said his mother, Betty Jo Fox. Mrs. Fox said her son suffered mostly cuts and bruises.

TURNERY, OWNER of the Prospect Bike and Dive Shop, also suffered minor injuries and has been released from the hospital. Mrs. Fox said.

Schmoldt suffered multiple injuries and is in a full body cast that is expected to keep him in the hospital five to six weeks. Shutt, general manager of the Prospect Bike and Dive Shop, suffered a broken back and is expected to remain in the hospital several weeks, Mrs. Fox said.

Killed in the mishap were Robert Wolf of Deerfield, Mrs. Ralph Zerkel of Northbrook and Mrs. Lionel Schultz of Barrington.

Teichert offers revised resolution for low, moderate-income housing

by LYNN ASINOF

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert has called for the development of a village housing plan that would include possible sites and number of units of low- and moderate-income housing.

The housing plan was proposed in a revised resolution on low- and moderate-income housing submitted last week to the village board's public health and safety committee.

Teichert said he prepared the revised resolution because a new federal law made obsolete the proposal being studied by the committee. While committee members last week rejected the outdated resolution, they delayed any action on Teichert's proposal. They said they needed more time to study the new federal housing law.

"It's a quite involved program," committee chairman Richard Hendricks said of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. "There is a lot of preliminary work that has to be done at this time."

DEVELOPMENT of a housing plan would benefit the village in several ways, said Teichert. First the plan would make the village eligible to apply for federal community development grants which could help pay for streets, street lights, water and sewer facilities, playgrounds, parks and fire protection.

Some $66 million in such grants is expected to be given to the Chicago metropolitan area over the next six years, according to estimates by the U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Teichert said the development of a housing plan also would provide the village with some local control over any low- and moderate-income housing programs in the community.

Under the new law, municipalities no longer must pass a resolution allowing HUD rent subsidies for low- and moderate-income families in the community.

Instead, HUD must notify local officials when it receives an application from a housing authority or developer for subsidized housing in a municipality. The local government then has 30 days to object, and objections must be based on inconsistencies with the local housing plan.

TEICHERT SAID that under this new system, a housing plan would "allow us to control the development of our own community. I think now it is becoming very apparent that if we don't attend to it, others are going to attend to it for us," he said.

To develop a housing plan, the village would have to determine how many units of low- and moderate-income housing are needed in the community, based on both current and anticipated population. This estimate would include the needs of elderly, disabled and displaced persons and large families.

A goal would have to be set on how many units could be provided each year, and the size and type of housing projects would have to be determined. General locations for the proposed housing would have to be selected without isolating low- and moderate-income residents from the rest of the community.

Teichert noted preliminary work was done in this area when a survey taken by the village's senior citizen services office eight months ago showed that two-thirds of the respondents would move into housing for the elderly if it were available.

In addition, a study based on the 1970 census of Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights indicated that there were 98 families receiving public assistance and 254 families below the federal-defined poverty level.

MEMBERS of the public health and safety committee indicated they are primarily concerned with providing subsidized housing for local senior citizens. Although a housing plan would assess the needs of all low- and moderate-income groups, the committee members said they believe the largest need is for senior citizens.

"First and foremost, we're going to have to have a plan if we intend to enjoy any type of protection from something we consider undesirable," said Trustee O. T. Gustus. "The less-advantaged people in Mount Prospect, most of them are elderly. If our plan is based on over 65 people, basically, we can get them to accept our plan."

Gustus said that although other housing needs may exist in the village "I don't expect them to develop strongly enough for us to be forced to develop something for several years."

Trustee George Anderson also said that the greatest need for subsidized housing is for senior citizens. He said he wanted to impose a residency requirement on any such housing to limit the program to local residents.

The committee is not scheduled to meet again until late next month, although Gustus said a special committee meeting has been requested.

Illegal weapons suspect arrested

A Mount Prospect man charged with illegal possession of explosives last month and free on bond pending his trial was arrested again Monday on illegal weapons charges.

Elk Grove Village police said the man, Larry Osburn, 27, of 804 Elm St., was stopped near Ill. Rte. 83 and Oakton Street Monday night after his car was allegedly seen speeding by an Elk Grove patrolman.

Police said the patrolman observed several rounds of ammunition on the front seat of Osburn's auto. Further search of the car turned up illegal "fighting sticks," a 10-inch knife, a revolver and a tear-gas gun, police said.

Osburn was charged this time with two counts of unlawful use of weapons, speeding and possession of open liquor in his auto.

FREED AFTER posting $1,000 bond, he will appear Nov. 27 in the Elk Grove Village branch of Circuit Court. Osburn posted $20,000 bond on the earlier charge, a felony. Monday's arrest, according to Elk Grove Village police, was classified as a misdemeanor and the maximum bond is $1,000.

Federal agents and Elk Grove investigators are probing Osburn's background for his possible connections with extremist groups.

Agents of the Treasury Dept.'s Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division said Tuesday they are still working on the case.

Apartment burglars get $1,600 in loot

Burglars took more than $1,600 worth of household items from the apartment of Joyce Cohen, 2008 Algonquin Rd., Mount Prospect police said Tuesday.

Taken in the burglary, reported at 11 p.m. Monday, were a purple beaver coat, a television set, a stereo set, a camera, $30 in cash, a watch and ring, police said. They added the burglars entered the apartment apparently through a bedroom window.

Nixon condition called critical

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon went into vascular shock Tuesday afternoon and was listed in critical condition following an operation to stop blood clots threatening his life.

Earlier in the day, Nixon, 61, had been reported as "doing well" and in "stable condition" after an operation of about an hour by five doctors starting at 5:30 a.m. PST at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

Optimistic reports that Nixon was in a normal post-operative condition and his phlebitis arrested by insertion of a clip on a vein in a leg groin continued throughout the day until a new bulletin was released in early evening.

Dr. John Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said at that time that his patient had gone "suddenly into vascular shock."

"A team of physicians and intensive care unit nurses administered counter-shock measures for three hours until a stable vascular condition was once again restored."

The bulletin said the "serious complications" were probably caused by the fact Nixon had been undergoing such extreme anticoagulant therapy that he was subject to excessive bleeding.

"Replacement of blood lost and a relaxation of anticoagulation therapy was instituted," Lungren said.

"At 6 p.m. this afternoon the vascular stability is still maintained. At this time the patient is still considered critical."

The sudden turn for the worse in the condition of the man who resigned the presidency under fire Aug. 9 came after a day in which his doctors had painted a picture of him permanently overcoming blood clots and being released from the hospital by the end of this week.

Pat Nixon was at her husband's side when he came back from the operating room and initial reports had indicated that the plastic clip would stop any floating clots from reaching his heart or lungs.

Lungren had said previously that anyone undergoing major surgery and general anesthetic was taking a risk but decided that an operation was immediately necessary after a test Monday night disclosed a new fresh blood clot in Nixon's thigh which endangered his life.

The team of surgeons performed the operation on an emergency basis, with Nixon's agreement, because of fear the new clot in the left leg above those found before and closer to the vena cava might reach the heart.

"The new clot threatened to become a pulmonary embolus and thus endanger Mr. Nixon's life," Lungren said.

Track property housing density faces big cut

by KURT BAER

The RICHARDS GROUP of Arlington Heights apparently will have to cut by half the number of apartments it is planning for Arlington Park Race Track if it expects the Village of Arlington Heights to approve the project.

A special joint committee of the village board and the plan commission voted unanimously Tuesday night to recommend that all of the village's normal density restrictions be applied to the proposed development at Arlington Park.

The decision means that instead of the 3,000 units proposed by the Richards Group for a 160-acre site north of the Arlington Park Towers Hotel, a maximum of about 2,700 dwelling units will be permitted.

Acting on the advice of Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel, the committee was steadfast in its position that the density of the apartment plan for Arlington Park is not negotiable.

"IT IS A QUESTION of law and I don't think questions of law are negotiable," said Trustee Frank Palmatier in response to a suggestion by Richard F. Babcock, Richards Group attorney, that the village and the developer might be able to compromise on the number of apartment units.

"We don't negotiate questions of density in this town. We never have and I don't think we're going to start now," Palmatier said.

The committee recommended that the Richards Group proceed to the plan commission with its project. But Babcock said after the meeting that he did not know whether the 5,000-unit plan would go to the plan commission.

Earlier in the meeting Babcock indicated the Richards Group might be willing to trade off approval of the 5,000 units for restrictions on the future development of the rest of the 400-acre Arlington Park complex.

"You'd be foolish to do that because if you did we'd hold you to it. We would never allow the race track to be used for anything but its present purposes and obviously there's not going to be a race track there for the end of time," Palmatier said.

"I'M NOT PROPOSING restriction to the end of time," Babcock replied. "Then you're wasting your time," Palmatier said.

Babcock said he disagreed with Siegel's opinion that the now-expired annexation agreement between the race track and the village did not waive density restrictions, and he left open the possibility of a court battle over the project.

"This is an area where responsible lawyers can disagree, especially in light of the language in the preannexation agreement," Babcock said, adding that there is "very little law" in Illinois on the subject of annexation agreements.

"We have funny ways of settling differences of opinion between attorneys," he said at another point.

"A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS" will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday by students at Rolling Meadows High School, 2901 Central Rd. Tom Lawson, left, will appear as Cardinal Wolsey. Thomas Becket, right, will be portrayed by Scott Shumacher. For tickets, call 259-9640.

700 pints since May

Residents' blood usage rises 350%

Arlington Heights residents are using 3½ times as much blood this year as they did in 1973, according to records of the village's guaranteed blood replacement program.

Since May 1, about 700 pints of free blood have been used by Arlington Heights residents, compared to 200 pints during the same period last year.

Health Director Frank Charlton attributes the increase to greater awareness of the program, which guarantees free blood replacement for every Arlington Heights resident as long as 4 per cent of the population donates a pint of blood each year.

"More people are finding out about the program and the hospitals are informing their patients," Charlton said.

THIS YEAR, which for statistical purposes began May 1, Arlington Heights has a quota of 2,772 pints of blood to donate to the blood supply center operated by the North Suburban Assn. for Health Resources.

Approximately 1,100 pints of blood have been credited to Arlington Heights since May.

Blood donations traditionally decline during the holiday period, Charlton said. At the request of the blood center, village employees will participate in their second blood drive of the year just before Christmas, he said.

Arlington Heights joined the blood assurance program on Nov. 6, 1972. Until recently, village donations to the blood center always exceeded the number of pints used by village residents. But as use of the program expands, monthly "deposits" and "withdrawals" at the blood bank are equalizing.

The next blood donor date is scheduled from 8:0 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday at St. James Catholic School, 821 N. Arlington Heights Rd. Residents may make an appointment by calling the village health department at 253-2340.

Second incident in week

Suburban man victim of television sales fraud

For the second time in a week, a suburban man fell victim to a fraudulent television sales scheme in Schaumburg. A Carpentersville resident was defrauded of $730 in cash Monday.

An Oak Forest businessman was bilked out of $1,700 Oct. 22 in a similar scheme, where color television sets were to be sold at special prices and picked up at the loading dock at Marshall Field and Co. in the Woodfield Shopping Center.

Marshall Field is not connected with the solicitations, and store security agents reported to police that Monday's incident marked the fifth such attempt within two weeks. However, only two have been reported to police.

Lee Holte of Carpentersville told police he handed over $730 in cash to a man outside a restaurant at the shopping center. Schaumburg police are investigating the two reported incidents in which the con artist's mode of operation was the same.

BOTH MEN WERE solicited by telephone calls from a man named "Bob." Holte was told there were a 25-inch floor model and a 19-inch portable color television set available at discount prices, it was reported.

Holte met the man at the shopping center after ordering four sets. Holte was told to meet another man in front of the restaurant — the same location the Oak Forest man was to meet his contact.

The cash was exchanged, and Holte was given a Field's receipt and told to wait by the store's loading dock for the merchandise. Authorities were told by store agents that the sales slip was stolen from a Wisconsin store.

Police warned area residents to be on the alert against similar solicitations and to call local authorities if they receive any suspicious telephone calls offering special deals.

3 of 4 Caucus vacancies filled

Three of four vacancies on the Arlington Heights Caucus candidate recommendation committee have been filled.

Committee Chairwoman Joan Hammerstone Tuesday said attempts to fill the fourth and final Caucus precinct, Precinct, 10, have been unsuccessful.

New appointments to the 10-member committee which will interview prospective candidates for the Arlington Heights Village Board are: Louis Novak, 1120 W. Princeton, Precinct 7; Robert Duffy, 818 S. Ridge Ave., Precinct 13; and Beverly Weir, 1184 S. Chestnut Ave., Precinct 19.

Any resident interested in representing Precinct 10, bounded by Gibbons Avenue on the west, Foundry Road on the south and Forest Avenue on the east, may call Mrs. Hammerstone at 259-0234.

The four precincts were left unrepresented at the end of the Caucus' first general meeting on Oct. 20. Under the Caucus party's bylaws, a precinct representative can be named to the committee up until the time it starts interviewing possible candidates.
